Fall Of Tientsin Sharpens Nanking Peace Conferences

Emergency Sessions Being Held To Discuss Harsh Communist Terms

By Seymour Topping

NANKING, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Chinese Communists captured Tientsin today, sharpening the urgency of the government alternatives to yield to harsh peace terms or flee.

The cabinet and other government bodies were holding tense conferences, and the policy-making executive yuan scheduled an emergency session Sunday to discuss the Red conditions.

Those conditions, broadcast Friday night by the Communist radio, amounted to a demand for unconditional surrender of the Chiang Kai-Shek government. Nanking hopes that they might be eased went glimmering as the fall of Tientsin demonstrated the Reds' dominant military position.

Deepening the government gloom was authoritative word that both the United States and Britain had declined to use their good offices to seek peace talks. There appeared no reason to believe that France or Russia would heed similar pleas. Conquest of Tientsin after a month of siege and a day of artillery bombardment cost the government another 60,000 of its dwindling troops and freed an estimated 150,000 Reds for new operations.

The Communist radio stressed the obvious fact that the capture cleared a rail route all the way from Manchuria down to the Yangtze river front before Nanking.

This hurried the continuing flight of government offices from this dejected capital.

It was learned authoritatively that the bulk of government gold and foreign currency already had been moved to the island of Formosa, more than 500 miles by air southeast of Nanking. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek was reported also to have sent many of his personal possessions there.

The national defense ministry planned to start moving its personnel Sunday to Hengyang, more than 500 miles southwest of Nanking. The for-

ARGENTINA GIVES AID WORKERS JOLT

Washington Officials, Others Embarrassed Over Gift Of Clothing

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Surprise mingled with embarrassment today at the news that the Maria Eva Duarte de Peron Social Assistance Foundation of Argentina is donating clothing to care for 600 needy Washington children.

Mrs. Peron, the wife of Argentina's president, actively heads the foundation which bears her name.

"Surprised" was the reaction of Mrs. Fay Vawters of the Children's Aid Society to which the clothing has been donated.

"Astounded," she said, because "we never had any idea the Argentine Foundation was being solicited."

Embarrassment was the reaction among state department officials although they declined comment, the officials were obviously concerned over the Argentine gift which seemed to imply the United States is unable to look after its own needy.

There was some apprehension as to what use Russia might make of the matter in view of the Moscow propaganda line that Americans live in pretty miserable conditions compared to those in the Union of Soviet Socialist republics.

Mrs. Vawters said she was "surprised" especially at the Argentine action because the gift comes from a foreign country. Usually, she said, it is this country helping others.

Mrs. Vawters operates the society with her husband, the Rev. Ralph

HONORED

Rep. Otto E. Passman, of the Fifth congressional district, has been named on the important appropriations committee by a large popular vote. The enormous budget of the 81st congress will be passed upon by this committee.

PASSMAN PUT ON TOP COMMITTEE

Congressman From Monroe Is Named To Appropriations Group

An unusual honor has been accorded Otto E. Passman, congressman from the Fifth Louisiana district, in his selection as member of the appropriations committee in the 81st congress. It is reported that he received out of 15 Democratic votes a total of 14.

Not in many years has Louisiana been fortunate enough to receive membership on the important appropriations committee for often a congressman has to serve from 10 to 12 years to be thus recognized, it was pointed out. Mr. Passman is now serving his second term in the lower house of congress. This information was received in Monroe Saturday and was highly gratifying news for the Fifth district.

The enormous budget proposed by the president will be acted upon by this committee which holds the purse

BURGLARS HIT AFTER FOUR-NIGHT LAYOFF

There were indications here last night that the burglars, which struck at this area and especially the Twin Cities last week, were on the move again after nearly four nights of quiet.

Their latest work, directed on the Ouachita Steam Laundry and Dry Cleaning Corporation, 516 Harrison street, and the Missouri Pacific bus depot at 120 Hall street, netted the intruders a total of $117, police said. Attempts to enter the Renfrow and Son, Inc., dry goods establishment, 430 DeSiard street, and Ober's Laundry and Dry Cleaning plant, 315 Catalpa street, were unsuccessful, officers said.

In the Ouachita Laundry, hardest hit by a loss of $107, the burglars were forced to smash through the rear door and, according to police, unlocked a combination safe before reaching the cash. City officers said the safe was not damaged.

At the bus depot, the burglars, who officers said "ransacked" the office, were unable to crack the safe, but left the handle torn off and the hinges damaged. They found approximately $10 in a change holder, police said. Entrance to the depot was gained through a rear window.

SCHOOL AID, RENT CONTROL WILL GET FAST DEMO ACTION

Working Schedule Expected To Be Drawn Up Monday For Early Vote

IMPORT, EXPORT LAWS ALSO ARE HIGH ON LIST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Leaders put action on school aid and rent controls at the top of their list today for a post-inaugural legislative drive in congress.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, who becomes majority leader next Thursday, told a reporter that a working schedule for the law-making program probably will be drawn up Monday at the weekly White House conference with President Truman.

Lucas said the administration regards rent controls and extension of import and export controls as pressing matters.

Senator Hill (D-Ala.) predicted the senate labor committee will approve next Tuesday a senate bill under which the government would distribute about $270,000,000 to the states to raise educational standards.

Hill said the committee had agreed that no new hearings are needed. Thus, it may be the first major bill to clear committee action and reach the senate calendar.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the G. O. P. policy committee, told reporters he expects strong Republican support for the measure. It passed the senate last session, but not the house.

As soon as the house sets up its committees officially next week, the Democratic leaders are expecting to

ARMISTICE PARLEY IN DANGER STAGES

Israel, Egypt, U. N. Mediator Can Ruin Chances With Any Slip At Present

RHODES, Jan. 15—(AP)—The Israeli-Egyptian armistice conference today moved into the rough ground where it comes to wreck or success.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, acting U. N. mediator, was said by a reliable source to have attempted a bold stroke by submitting a draft proposal to each delegation covering all military and boundary phases of the Negev dispute.

If he succeeded in having it adopted the conference, for all practical purposes, would be over. All that would remain would be the actual drafting and initialing of a permanent armistice agreement which probably would end the eight-months war over the Holy Land.

But the points on which Bunche sought agreement were those on which all cease-fires and temporary truces since October have been wrecked.

Included were the questions of Israel's lifting the siege of the Egyptian garrison of about 3,000 men at Faluja, the delineation of armistice lines to which the opposing forces would withdraw and the reduction of forces by both sides.

At stake were the probable future frontiers of Israel in the coveted Negev desert, which she seeks to make fertile and populous with seelers. Unitl now, at least, the Jews

YOUNG MAN OF YEAR PRESENTATION SOON

Some outstanding young man of Monroe or West Monroe will be presented Monday with the Distinguished Service Award of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, highest honor of the organization.

Committee Chairman Tom Mulhearn said the presentation would be made at a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p. m. in the Cameo Room of the Virginia Hotel. Names of the judges also will be announced, Mulhearn said.

The winner of the award was chosen Jan. 6, Mulhearn added, when judges, all over the 36-year age limit, met to consider applications.

Mulhearn said the qualifications fell perfectly into line with those required; over 21, contribution to welfare of the community during 1948, and a fine record of progress in his chosen vocation.

Mulhearn extended an invitation to any interested citizen of the Twin Cities to be present when the award is made. He narrowed down the time to between 12:30 and 12:50 p. m. for the actual presentation.

CONTRIBUTES TO 'HEAR' BASEBALL

Believe Ex-Convict On Vengeance Trail

Water Reservoir, Judge, Banker, Guarded After Bank Robber Is Identified As Killer Of Former Oklahoma Prosecutor

WAURIKA, Okla., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The water reservoir of this southern Oklahoma town of 2,000 was heavily guarded tonight as a precaution against threats of poisoning by an ex-convict charged with murder.

Officers believe the 53-year-old ex-convict, Roy Frank Godby, is on a trail of vengeance.

He is charged with the murder of Earl Pruet, Oklahoma City attorney, in his law office Tuesday afternoon. The assailant escaped in the excitement.

Pruet successfully prosecuted Godby on an armed robbery charge here 17 years ago when he was county attorney.

Mayor O. D. Kennedy ordered the reservoir guard established after receiving a report from L. J. Hilbert, Oklahoma City chief of police. Sheriff's deputies also were guarding the roads into Wuarika.

Hilbert said he had received information from confidential sources that Godby had threatened to pay back the city in which he was convicted.

Godby was sentenced to 35 years at the McAlester state prison for the robbery of a bank at Ringling, which netted him only $9. Ringling is near Waurika, Jefferson County seat.

Godby was released last November after serving only half of his sentence under Oklahoma's statute allowing prisoners to accumulate good time credit.

A search has been underway throughout the southwest since Thursday when the murder charge was filed after witnesses identified Godby through photographs. He was believed seen in Ardmore, just 50 miles from here, early Wednesday.

The Oklahoma state highway patrol reported earlier today that a man answering Godby's description had

Jes' Ramblin'

Roe Fulkerson, one of the most important lights back of Kiwanis from its very inception, who died the past week in his Florida home, was a man who seemed to have lived a life that was running over with goodness and inspiration. He was a bright and shining light in a world all too materialistic. Among other things he was author of a highly interesting book entitled: "My Personal Pages," (He was one of the chief writers for Kiwanis magazine). This book contains numerous interesting chapters of his varied experiences as he moved around with fellow man in performing humanitarian acts. His philosophy of life was marvelous.

In a chapter entitled, "Pursuit of Happiness," it will not be amiss at this time to quote from it as follows:

"Add up your joys and match them against your sorrows. The result is that this is a wonderful old world where most of us get better breaks than we deserve. At least I know I have.

"I haven't been as nice as I should have been. I have said unkind words better left unsaid. I haven't worked very hard for unpopular causes which I knew were right. I haven't helped others as I should. I have played poker and stayed out late nights when I shouldn't. I am responsible for my sins of commission, and those of omission are numbered by thousands.

"But these things are only human, I don't regret them half as much as I do my besetting sin. I haven't been grateful enough.

"I haven't been grateful enough to life for the fun I've had, the luck that has come to me, the friends who have helped me along the road.

"Good health, good income, good friends, good times, good luck and good fun working for what I wanted; all these have been mine. But only after the accomplishment of my three big objectives, do I look back in full appreciation of them.

"I'm going to start on some new objectives at once. As I work on it, I'll remember that the fun is in the working, so I'm going to stop now and then to laugh.

"At Miami, if you see a queer looking fish out on the beach throwing a crooked stick up in the air which circles around to come back and hit him on the bald bean, and he laughs heartily instead of crying, and at once throws it again, that will be me and my boomerang!"

If one needs help or use of first class tools and possibly some instruction, these may be obtained through attendance at the woodwork hobby

Ewing, and a sister, Mrs. Willie Foster, both of Chatham, and 31 grandchildren and 26 great grandchildren. He was a member of the Methodist Church.

TO DISTRIBUTE GI BONUS FORMS

Will Be Passed Out To Veterans On Monday And Tuesday

A mass distribution of bonus application forms will be made in Monroe on Monday, January 17, and Tuesday, January 18, from Ouachita parish service office in the court house, Monroe, La.

Processing will take place on the spot. No individual distribution will be made before January 18.

Detailed plans for processing Louisiana veterans' bonus applications were discussed at a meeting in the court house, with representatives of co-operating agencies in attendance, Red Cross, Veterans' Administration contact office, vocational trade schools, veterans' organizations, farm training officer and etc.

Word from the state capitol recently advised veterans that the bonus applications would arrive throughout the state on January 17, and plans were made at the meeting according to that date.

To begin with, each application must be signed by a certifying officer. These officers will include any officer of a veterans' organization or an appointee.

Places where applications will be processed on January 17th, and thereafter and the certifying officer at each will include:

Monroe: L. B. Faulk Post No. 13, American Legion Home, 400 block Forsythe avenue, Monday night, January 17, 1949, at 7:30 p. m.

Fighting Now Dying Slowly

Damages Run Over Million As South Africa's Natives Vent Old Angers Against Indian Immigrant Population In Durban

By Campbell Watts

DURBAN, South Africa, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Bloody race rioting appeared tonight to be dying down, but it was believed casualties will far exceed police estimates of 100 killed and 1,000 injured. Damage runs more than a $1,000,000.

Cyprian, king of the Zulus, pleaded with his native subjects to stop the fighting with the Indians which has wiped out whole families.

"It is my earnest wish," he said, "that the trouble should be settled in a peaceful way."

At the time the South African ministers of justice and defense arrived from Capetown and went into a huddle with police and local defense officers over means of stopping the bloodshed.

The Durban police said about 100 have been killed and 1,000 injured in the three days of fighting between Zulu and Indian inhabitants. But officials at Johannesburg estimated 300 were killed, and a Durban member of Parliament said the figure was nearer 500.

One white European was killed and 11 were wounded, the police said, but generally the fighting was not directed against the white population.

Fighting covered such wide areas that the estimates at best were guesses. The bodies of riot victims littered the ground at Cato Manor on the fringe of the city. Long trails of bloodstains marked every street leading to the non-European hospital where 15 doctors worked to exhaustion caring for the wounded.

The fate of hundreds who fled from Durban was not yet known.

Police, charging with fixed bayonets, sought to break up the rioting but the trouble still spread and heavy military reinforcements were ordered.

A group of Indians, attacked by a Zulu mob chanting savage battle cries, leaped from a 500 foot cliff. Entire families, both Indian and Zulu, were burned alive in their houses. Others were dragged into the streets and slain, or run down as they fled from mobs or resisted.

The government called all trained members of the Royal Durban Light Infantry Brigade to duty, and said the Natal Mounted Rifles would join them tomorrow. Governor General G. Brand Van Zyl prepared an order calling the active citizen defense force into action.

Several hundred police were flown into Durban today with radio-equipped patrol cars to back up police, military and naval units which have been unable to stamp out the fighting.

Two emergency hospitals were opened. Defense Minister F. C. Erasmus and Justice Minister C. R. Swart were flying here tonight.

Police said conditions looked more menacing when armed police units went afield trying to head off Zulu bands intent on raiding camps where Indians have taken refuge. It was at one of these camps that panicky Indians jumped from a cliff where Zulus had trapped them.

Police strategy was to gather the Indians in easily defended camps.

Cause of it all was a fight Thursday in which an Indian peddler injured a Zulu boy. Incident followed incident, swelling into the worst race rioting the country has seen and caus-

U. S. MOVES OUT ON ATOMIC PLAN

Steps Up Drive To Find Conventional Uses By Naming Top Scientist Head

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The United States today stepped up its drive to put atomic power to more conventional use by naming a top-flight scientist, Dr. Lawrence R. Hafstad, to head a new multi-million dollar program.

The atomic energy commission announced selection of Dr. Hafstad to carry out a program of designing and developing nuclear reactors for the practical application of atomic energy for power, for propulsion of ships and aircraft, for the production of isotopes (radio-active elements) and for research on reactors themselves.

The reactor development division which Dr. Hafstad will head was created by the atomic energy commission last fall. He is the first director.

Announcement of Dr. Hafstad's appointment followed closely the disclosure that the commission is seeking a substantial increase in federal funds during the 12 months beginning July 1 for development of atomic power plants.

The splitting of uranium, a feat from which the United States developed the atomic bomb during World War II, was demonstrated for the first time in this country in 1939 by Dr. Hafstad and two colleagues, Dr. Richard Roberts and Dr. Merle Tuve, a commission statement said. That demonstration came after reports had been received that German scientists had succeeded in splitting atomic nuclei.

Dr. Hafstad is now executive secretary of the national military establishment's research and development board. He formerly worked on such projects as the proximity fuse and guided missiles for the Johns Hopkins University applied physics laboratory.

A native of Minneapolis, Dr. Hafstad once worked as a telephone lineman early in his scientific career.

The presidential budget which went to congress on January 10 carried an item of $210,208,875 for reactor development. (A reactor is the so-called "atomic pile" of fissionable material which produces, among other things, heat to run conventional power plants. It is the "coal pile" of a power plant but one which does not burn up.)

The budget request for the next fiscal year is an increase of more than $18,000,000 over the current year and of more than $63,000,000 over the previous fiscal year.

The commission announcement today said that "it is principally through the devlopment of reactors that the atomic energy commission expects in coming years to develop a means for

MAIL BAG IS FOUND WITH $75,000 TAKEN

WAUKESHA, Wis., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Postal inspectors have found a stolen mail bag, but the $75,000 in good and mutilated bills it contained Thursday still is missing.

Two Milwaukee hunters walking on a rural road this morning found the bag, its straps slit, and an empty pouch within, Postmaster Jay Laing declared.

The sack disappeared Thursday night while being taken from the post office to a Soo Line train. The money was being shipped by the Waukesha National Bank to the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank.

Earlier today, Postal Inspector Elmer Holmes said between 20 and 30 postal and railroad employes had been questioned but no clues had been uncovered as to who had taken the bag.

If those questioned were telling the truth, Holmes said, "there is an excellent possibility that the pouch got to the depot."

He said the bag probably was part of a shipment taken from a mail truck and placed on a depot baggage wagon "as is customary."

Holmes said he thought the bag was on the wagon no longer than usual and added "there were lots of people working around there."

"It wasn't unguarded to any greater extent than is customary," Holmes declared. "The railroad isn't required to guard a shipment at all times; that is, the railroad doesn't have to station a man there whose sole purpose is to guard the mail."

MARCH OF DIMES UNDER FULL POWER; $1,392 IN TWO DAYS

The all-out drive for the March of Dimes campaign in Monroe was reported to be well under way late yesterday afternoon by Miss Freeda Mickel, local chairman of the national foundation.

With the continued sincere effort of local organizations, the goal will easily be reached by Jan. 31, the expiration date of the present drive. After only two days since the local drive was launched, a total of $1,392.45 had been contributed last night, according to Miss Mickel.

Hit hard in 1948, officials are urging that the 1949 drive be sufficient to have the national foundation prepared in case of another epidemic.

Miss Mickel pointed out that the March of Dimes drive, which is now in full swing, is national.

"Polio care during the past 11 years has become more complex and expensive," Miss Mickel added. "Before the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis was organized in 1938, polio patients were treated by general practice physicians. But research has discovered the complexity of this crippling disease which requires a larger number of attendants with more specialized training.

"This polio fighting team has been gained at great cost, and continued care is expensive," the March of Dimes chairman stated.

Monroe firemen, Swani Swantha's No. 102, and the Monroe Kiwanis Club have brought in a total of $485 from the Mile of Dimes stand.

The local stands have been placed under the supervision of the Monroe Lions Club, Business and Professional Women's Club and the V. F. W. Auxiliary.

These active members include Bob Burns, F. Strauss, P. E. Massey, B. B. Martin, C. E. McAdams, M. S. Greenblatt, Owen McCleary, M. G. Moore, Sam Walker, Sr., Tom Dupree and E. W. Cruse, all of the Lions Club; Mrs. Aileen Hart, Mrs. Claudine Cotton, Mrs. J. R. Reneau, Mrs. Chris Henry, Mrs. Juanita Melton, Mrs. Helouise McClain, Mrs. Davie Apple, Mrs. Evelyn Webber, Mrs. Alma Louis Walker, Mrs. Carris Chandler, Mrs. Irene Simms, Mrs. Pauline Pettit, Mrs. Bessie Bailey, Mrs. Irene Waldroup and Mrs. Bessie Semmes, and with the Business and Professional Women's Club are Mrs. Beulah Thomas, Mrs. Laura Slater, Mrs. Bessie Skinner, Mrs. Ruth Thomas, Miss Mary Himble, Mrs. Lillie Mae Carroll, Mrs. Emma Lou Perkins, Mrs. Ola Buce, Mrs. Ella Harvel and Mrs. Billie Harrell.

TRUMAN'S INAUGURAL SLATED TO BE THE FANCIEST IN HISTORY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Plain Harry S. Truman's inaugural next Thursday may turn out to be history's fanciest.

Those in charge of the side-line festivities promise more of almost everything. And better, too.

The actual oath-taking comes Thursday, but there's going to be a lot going on all week.

Party faithful from far and wide—and some who may have had their doubts before the November election returns came in—are ready to make most of the occasion.

The elaborate goings-on before and after the actual inaugural will contrast sharply with the last inaugural.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt took the oath as president for the fourth time Jan. 20, 1945, there was no fanfare. The nation then was fighting its greatest war and Mr. Roosevelt was sworn in quietly at the White House.

Harry S. Truman, who had been a senator from Missouri and before that a farmer, haberdasher and county officeholder, became vice president the same day.

Less than three months later—April 12—Mr. Truman became president. But there was no celebration then. The country mourned the death of the only man ever elected president more than twice and gave its thoughts to winning the war.

This time it will be different. Mr. Truman has been elected in his own right, not put in office by a quirk of fate.

The inaugural itself will follow the usual pattern—a solemn, fairly brief ceremony on the capitol grounds. A congressional committsee is in charge of arrangements for this, the official phase.

This part will cost the taxpayers about $100,000. The committee is spending that much to build a platform and about 14,000 wooden seats for invited

OIL EDITOR DIES IN ORLEANS HOSPITAL

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Richard Hartshorn, oil and real estate editor of the Times-Picayune, died early today in Metairie Hospital.

Hartshorn, who was 29 years old, was taken to the hospital Tuesday suffering from blood poisoning.

A native of Boston, Mass., he attended Yale University and was a graduate of the University of Virginia. He worked on newspapers in Waukegan, Ill., and Chicago before joining the Times-Picayune staff in 1945.

For the past three years he had conducted the newspaper's good provider contest among farm residents.

Survivors include his widow and three small children.

SENATOR REFUSES TO BLOCK REPEAL

Republican Solon Who Fought T-H Law Will Not Suggest Partial Compromise

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Republican strategy to thwart blanket repeal of the Taft-Hartley law got a cool reception today from Senator Morse (R-Ore.).

The plan to block the Democratic administration's drive to get rid of the law was hatched by Senator Ives (R-N. Y.). The New Yorker said Senator Taft (R-Ohio), G. O. P. senate policy leader, "raised no objection" to the idea. Ives added that Morse would have to play a key role to put it across.

Morse was a leader of the fight against the law when it was going through congress.

President Truman wants the Taft-Hartley measure repealed and the old Wagner act restored with certain improvements.

Ives' proposal is that the starting point in any new labor legislation should be in a bill which the senate labor committee approved, 11 to 2, in 1947.

The ideas of Ives and Morse originally predominated in that bill, which was backed by committee Democrats and opposed to some extent by Taft and other Republicans.

On the senate floor the bill was amended to include certain union restrictions. Other curbs were added in the senate-house conference and the result was the Taft-Hartley law.

Ives said that if the basis of any new legislation were the 1947 senate committee bill, it probably would win the support of critics of some Taft-Hartley provisions.

The Ives-Taft strategy as outlined by Ives is to trim out of the law some of the fixtures that its foes find most objectionable and which Morse and Ives did not want in the first place.

Ives said he and Morse and Taft will have to stick together if the Ives plan is to get any place.

Morse told a reporter he is perfectly willing to base any new law on the 1947 Ives-Morse bill. But he added: "I would want to reserve the right to go beyond that bill in revising the labor laws. On the senate floor and in conference, that bill was changed by a series of unfortunate amendments. "But in the senate committee, before that, the bill was the product of some compromises which I did not approve."

Morse was reported, in connection with the new plan, to be against lining up with Taft under any conditions unless there was an iron-clad agreement that the Ohioan would go along with the revisions Morse wants. Taft, on the other hand, has made it clear many times that he can't go along with some of Morse's ideas.

ARKANSAS REP. TO HEAD PATRONAGE FOR HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—(AP)—At the request of Speaker Sam Rayburn, Representative Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) has undertaken a job he calls a "headache."

Hays will be the southern member of the Democratic house patronage committee this session.

This three-member committee will have the job of allocating the several hundred capitol patronage jobs among the 2626 Democratic house members.

Under the house system each Democratic representative will be entitled to name one or two constituents to jobs. The committee is to decide how these jobs are divided.

"It doesn't mean I'll have any more patronage myself," Hays told a reporter. "Just lots of work and probably a headache trying to keep everyone satisfied."

As an after thought, he said maybe he'd just turn the job over to Claude Curlin, his executive secretary. Curlin just moaned.

FOUR MISSOURI MULES TO WALK IN INAUGURAL

LAMAR, Mo., Jan. 15—(AP)—The four Missouri mules which will represent the birthplace of President Truman in the inaugural parade started for Washington today.

The four long eared animals—Beck, Polly, Duke and Blondie—were loaded aboard a truck driven by Billy Bob Adams, a brother of Claude Adams, the owner.

Late yesterday Lamar got a preview of what mules would look like in the parade. The mules, decked out in harness with shiny fittings, pulled a white wagon around the square several times.

RITA HAYWORTH MEETS FATHER OF PRINCE ALY

CANNES, France, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Rita Hayworth, red-haired American movie actress, met Aga Khan, the fabulously rich Indian and father of her traveling friend, Prince Aly Khan, it was learned today.

Some French newspapers described the meeting last night as one between Rita "and her future father-in-law."

A servant close to the actress said Miss Hayworth accompanied Aly when he visited his father last night, but that was all that was learned.

Rita was described as nursing a bad cold today in the 30-room mansion of Prince Aly. The "Palace of a Thousand Nights," once owned by the American actress, Maxine Elliot, swarmed with private detectives assigned to keeping the public away.

What her plans were nobody knew. The prince's plans were just as secret. But there were reports the prince would hold a news conference Monday and might then clear up the speculation.

The prince has a wife in England. Rita is the divorced wife of Movie Actor Orson Welles. She and the prince have been together in Mexico, England, Paris and Switzerland. At all places they refused to tell newspapermen more than that they were good friends.

Miss Hayworth left her daughter in Switzerland where the prince has two children in school.

The speculation concerning their plans heightened when they came to the Riviera. Aga Khan, spiritual head of the Ismaili Mohammedans, regularly winters on the Riviera.

REJECT NEGRO OFFER TO BUY BIG GARDENS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15. —(AP)— A $66,000 offer by a syndicate containing a number of Negroes to purchase the beautiful Busch Gardens in nearby Pasadena was rejected today.

"We are rejecting the offer because we would be taking too great a loss," said J. F. Van Dissen, real estate broker representing the present owners. "We have about $90,000 invested."

Asked if the fact the buyer syndicate included Negroes influenced his group's decision not to sell, Van Dissen replied: "I have no comment to make about that."

He said no date has yet been set for another auction to dispose of the 11 1/2-acre gardens, located in an exclusive residential section. They were developed in 1905 by the St. Louis brewer, Adolphus Busch, at a cost of $500,000 and have been visited by thousands of tourists.

M'GRATH SEEKS PARTY BACKING

Calls On 25,000 Democrat Workers To Swing Truman's Legislative Plans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—National Committee Chairman J. Howard McGrath called on 25,000 Democratic party workers today to get behind the Truman program and work for its fulfillment.

In a letter summing up the president's legislative, economic and budget proposals, Senator McGrath condemned Republican criticism as socialistic. He said "Republican standpatters have been crying 'socialism' ever since Bryan."

Meanwhile, the Republican national committee made public a tentative program for its Jan. 26-27 meeting at Omaha, Neb., to discuss a proposal for a 1949 party policy conference.

The two-day affair starts off with a luncheon Jan. 26 at the Fontenelle Hotel presided over by Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., G. O. P. national chairman. Speakers will include Mayor Glenn Cunningham of Omaha and Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska.

An afternoon business session will be followed by an evening banquet to be addressed by Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah, and Congresswoman Cecil M. Harden of Indiana. Business sessions will continue Jan. 27.

McGrath said in his letter to Democratic workers:

"The Truman 'fair deal' is a sound program of progress for the nation. It has a solid basis of need. And it is to be financed on a 'pay as you go' basis."

Declaring the program is "specifically tailored to the needs of this age," McGrath continued:

"The fair deal calls for continuation of our present enlightened foreign policy, but more important it would build up the strongest possible bulwark against communism in this country.

"The road to communism is lined with the wreckage of governments which neglected the welfare of their people. Now the people have decided that they want a government that will protect and promote their economic, physical and social well-being. Americans don't ask for handouts, a soft touch or an easy ride. They do want a fair deal.

"To insure that fair deal, we, as Democrats, must continue to exert strong support for the president."

LANDOWNERS ASK PUBLIC DEFENDER

Small Property Holders Feel At Disadvantage Against Big Legal Staffs

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 15—(AP)—Proposals for a "public defender" to look out for the interests of landowners and the public generally at conservation department hearings were discussed by a legislative committee today.

The committee is studying the present conservation law with a view to recommending improvements at the next session of the legislature. Oil company representatives at a hearing last night described the present statute as excellent and advised that the committee weigh the issues carefully before recommending amendments.

Rep. John J. McKeithen of Caldwell parish, chairman, said at today's session that the "greatest complaint we have received so far is that landowners feel at a disadvantage when they appear before the committee."

Several other members said that when conflicts in interest developed between oil companies and landowners, the companies had the advantage of evidence prepared by large technical staffs. Most landowners cannot afford similar services, they said and even in cases where their associations had the funds, petroleum engineers available for short-time employment usually could not be found.

The committee discussed, but took no action on, proposals that a special public representative, attached either to the attorney general's office or the conservation department, be designated to represent the public interest at such hearings. Several members said they believed that in any case the conservation department appropriation should be increased so that the department itself could build up its technical staff.

Sen. C. E. Barham said the committee "has to assume" that this staff will represent the public interest.

The committee also discussed, without taking a vote, suggestions by Dr. Harriet Baggett, Louisiana State University professor of law attending as an observer for the Louisiana Law Institute.

Dr. Baggett said consideration might be given to legislation meeting complaints that large portions of leases now can be held by oil companies without development because part of the lease is placed in a community being developed. She said also that under present law there had been cases in which as much as 80,000 acres had been held under lease by the drilling of a single well.

The committee indicated it would consider later whether to recommend specific laws on the amount of development necessary to comply with mineral leases, as well as provisions for releasing from lease portions of a tract when other portions were included in a community for oil development.

The committee set its next meeting for the night of March 4, Senator Tooke said he would present at that time a study of conservation laws in other states.

In The Air
Over Monroe
By Margaret Gambrell

News in the line of aviation has been so scarce during the past several weeks, that this column practically faded into a non-existing feature. However, in the time elapsed, some big changes have been made, one of which definitely leads us to believe aviation in this locality is going along hand in hand with the business world.

Recently we reported that Harry Prophit and Joe Joseph purchased the former Service Aviation Company at Selman field. Well, this week we learned that the two operators have leased the Monroe Airpark to Tennessee Gas Company, which will use it as a private field and repair show for the maintenence of their company planes.

All the airpark's equipment and planes are being moved to Selman field where their flying school will continue.

We were also informed that this would be the last week that Sunbird, the local seaplanes base, would be operating. The company has decided to discontinue their flying school, since the government has cut down on G. I. flying. Here's hoping spring will bring them back to life.

LATA MET HERE

At a meeting of the Louisiana Aviation Trades Association which was held here recently a complete report was given on the National Aviation Trades Association held in Cleveland.

Harold Bryant, secretary of the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the group setting aside February 24 and 25 as the dates for the Shreveport Aviation Conference.

The conference is being sponsored by the Louisiana Department of Aeronatics and the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce.

It was announced that the second day of the program would be turned over to the Louisiana Flying Farmers and the Louisiana Aviation Trades Association.

J. J. Joyce, Jr., parish agricultural agent of Monroe, talked on the possibility of growing hay on airports at the meeting, pointing out that an income based on the present prices for hay alone, properly handled, should average $45 per acre.

General T. G. Herndon, director of state aeronautics, was among those attending the meeting.

Register In Use

It can't be said that Joe Joseph doesn't keep close tab on who's in and out at his hangar. If he continues at his present rate, he'll be purchasing a new register for the Monroe airport.

Not only does he get the names of the visitors, but he finds out where they are from, going, what they are flying and who for.

Apparently Harry E. Homeyer, pilot for an aerial pipe line patrol, who flies a Stinson, has more trips in and out of Monroe than any other local man. At least, it looks that way, according to Joe's register.

E. H. "Ed" Hixson of Alexandria, formerly a local instructor, has purchased a new Taylor Craft ship which he's finding very handy in connection with his businesses. From all accounts, he's spending a lot of time in the air between Monroe and Alexandria.

Other ships stopping over for service and to deliver passengers to Monroe recently include: J. W. Swift, of Fort Worth, Texas, who was flying a Swift; Darwin Nichols, of Shreveport; L. Rogers, of Oak Grove; George Walts, of Los Angeles; Wilson A. Roberts, from Williamsstom, Mass.

G. L. Morgan recently made a business trip to Baton Rouge and Lake Charles.

The Brown Craft Liner has flown company executives to Monroe several times within the past three weeks.

Numerous other pilots have stopped over, but space and time is limited.

NEW HOUSING IS ALMOST AT PEAK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15—(AP)—Housing construction started in 1948 almost topped the 1925 peak.

The labor department's bureau of labor statistics said today that about 930,000 units were placed under construction in 1948. In 1925 there were 937,000 units started.

Costs rose in 1948, but only by eight per cent—compared with the 34 per cent rise in 1947.

About 17 per cent of the total dwelling units under construction in 1948 were for rental. This compared with 13 per cent in 1947. But in the housing booms in the late '20s about 40 per cent of all new dwelling units started were rental-type.

Los Angeles and New York led all other cities in 1948 as well as in 1947 in the number of dwelling unit building permits issued during the year.

SLOW FALL IS SEEN IN TOMBIGBEE RIVER

DEMOPOLIS, Ala., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The flooded Tombigbee river began a slow fall here today after climbing to a 33-year high and routing more than 60 persons from their homes.

At 7 a. m. the river gauged 64.9 feet, a decline of three-tenths of a foot from the 65.2-foot crest. Falling stages were predicted to continue indefinitely at Demopolis and upstream.

The Red Cross was feeding some 12 families rescued by the coast guard yesterday from lowlands north of Demopolis.

John Cooper, of Radio Station WXAL, said several hundred other persons were isolated and were being carried food by the coast guard boats sent here Thursday from Gulfport, Miss.

In many cases, Cooper said, marooned persons refused to leave their homes, although water was as much as three feet in their dwellings.

No loss of life or injury was reported from the flood.

New Truman Trend

President Truman has said that the change in the state department does not mean any change in American foreign policy. That is a definite statement from the highest source, and there is no reason to doubt it. Yet it cannot quiet the speculation, both here and abroad, over whether the change may not also mean a change in the technique, though not the substance, of our foreign policy.

Secretary Marshall's illness was as unplanned as it was regrettable. Coming to a man of 68, who had put in 10 years of gruelling responsibility, it is not surprising that he asked to be relieved of his duties. Nor is it surprising that Mr. Truman was unwilling to assume the responsibility of further jeopardizing General Marshall's health.

Even so, the general's resignation and the appointment of his successor seem to fit, however inadvertently, into the pattern of a new trend. This trend, if it can be so called, began with the president's impromptu speech at the Kansas City luncheon honoring his former business partner.

On that occasion Mr. Truman referred cryptically to certain Russian leaders who were extremely anxious to have an understanding with us. A few days later came his message on the state of the union. The president devoted only about one-eighth of the speech to foreign affairs, and his remarks on that subject were neither new nor very specific.

Next came the resignations of Mr. Marshall and Mr. Lovett. They were not part of a new policy. Yet they succeeded in removing a military man from the top state department post and, from the undersecretaryship, a "big business" man whose earlier government experience had been in a military department.

In their places we now find two civilians nominated. Mr. Acheson, it has been recalled, was once head of a state department group that favored a "soft" policy toward Russia. That was in 1944. Since then, along with countless other Americans, his understandable war-time feeling of trust in Russia has turned to one of realistic suspicion and firmness.

He is identified as a principal author of the Marshall plan, and as the man who made the first official announcement of it. He faithfully carried out the new American policy of containment of Communist expansion until his resignation from the state department in 1947. His designated undersecretary, Mr. Webb, the director of the budget, is counted among those of Mr. Truman's advisers who have opposed an expanded military budget.

So, whether Mr. Truman intended all these events to fall into a pattern, the world can scarcely fail to note the sequence:

The president of the United States recognizes the existence of a conciliatory group among the Russian government's leaders; he offers congress a program which soft-pedals rearmament and stresses domestic social planning; he accepts the resignations of two men unjustly branded by Communists and Wallaceites as representatives of warmongering "militarism" and "big business;" he replaces them with two civilians who are off-and-on government career men.

General Marshall's two years in the state department have left a record of historic distinction. He laid a wise and firm foundation for American foreign policy. Inevitably the surface of that policy will change somewhat with his departure. The change need not be damaging. It might even mean progress toward peace — but only if, under Mr. Truman's guidance, the foundation which General Marshall leaves is not destroyed.

HIGH STYLE

When presidents of the United States ceased to wear powdered wigs, velvet coats, satin knee breeches and diamond buckles — which seems to have been about the time of James Monroe — tailors moved out of the White House and dressmakers moved in. So it is now, as a presidential inauguration approaches. Mrs. Truman and Margaret are being fitted with five gowns each to wear during the festivities.

One of Mrs. Truman's two evening gowns is of satin the color of steel — and no international implications meant. This one will have a pattern of silver brocade. The other is of black velvet with a draped skirt and an off-shoulder neckline appliqued with white lace. These examples of haute couture are the work of a designer who has made "special occasion" gowns for Mrs. Truman and concert dresses for Margaret.

The president's ladies will also wear afternoon dresses of royal blue — and no monarchical overtones are indicated. Mrs. Truman's has a small black woven design and will be trimmed with black lace. Miss Truman's has a satin plaid pattern; there is to be a gathered skirt with "huge" sleeves. And, yes, that steel evening gown of Mrs. Truman's has a slight train.

For both of them the inauguration "in his own right" of the husband and the father will indeed be a "special occasion," with a meaning that far transcends the significance of mere clothes. Nevertheless, dresses are important — important, of course, to women and important to men, who like to look at them, however meager their understanding.

An inauguration is a state occasion, if there ever is one in the United States, and it is assured that Mrs. Truman and Margaret will look their absolute best.

All first ladies, from Martha Washington to Mr. Truman's Bess, have achieved a certain elegance befitting their high, if unofficial, position. Their gowns, including one of Eleanor Roosevelt's, can be seen on exhibit at the National Museum. One of the most striking of modern dresses, because it seems so strange now, is a pink velvet evening gown that Mrs. Coolidge wore when skirts were short — knee length, if that.

Like most women, Mrs. Coolidge was a slave to fashion, willing or not. The skirt "with a slight train" seems somehow more appropriate to the White House.

RURAL LEADERS

Sometimes it seems as though we have a surplus of organizations of all kinds in this country and a surplus of programs, but since the world still is far from perfect there yet are many good causes to be served. One of those causes is the development of rural leadership. The Louisiana State University agricultural extension service is attempting to serve this cause through its sponsorship of an older youth organization among the rural young people of Louisiana.

The idea is to encourage these young folk to continue their interest in good citizenship, in better farming and a better life on the farm, and in the progress of their communities and to help develop among them the leaders of the future.

Sociologists and economists long have considered farm people to be one of the most stable, practical and purely democratic groups in our entire population, a very foundation of our democratic system. If there has been any weakness in this group of our population it has been a lack of leadership from within its own ranks. Many less well-balanced groups have been far more vocal.

But conditions are changing. The farmer no longer is isolated. Better roads, rural electrification, rural telephone lines, and other conveniences are eliminating the isolation that once was the lot of many farmers. These changing conditions not only have made easier the development of active rural leadership but have made such leadership even more necessary.

There should be an object lesson for all Hollywood stars in the news that MGM was flooded with bids from exhibitors, all scrambling to book Jeanette MacDonald's new picture far in advance of its scheduled release date. It's the reason for Miss MacDonald's popularity, rather than the popularity itself, that's interesting. Against all advice to the contrary, she virtually retired from the screen for five years and spent that time making concert tours throughout the entire United States, singing in many towns which, ordinarily, would be considered too small for a great singer's itinerary. Present popularity, in her case, is the direct result of her personal contact with America's music lovers. Few stars seem to realize the important part that personal appearances could play in the advancement of their careers. Instead of balking when they're asked to go on the road, they should jump at the opportunity. If they're doing anyone a favor, it's themselves.

Wow! London newspapers certainly pulled no punches the other day when they leveled their editorial guns on the Rita Hayworth-Ali Khan romance! "Squalid love affair . . . an insult to decent-minded women the world over . . . a very sordid business . . . no more unsavory 'boy and girl' story has been publicly paraded for a very long time. . . . Miss Hayworth continues to drag around her four-year-old daughter on this vulgar joy ride"—those are a few of the expressions boldly printed by the London press. Well, certainly the reaction of the British can hardly be considered amazing, for the doings of Rita and her Moslem prince calls for just such blasts. Once more, we've been treated to a scandalous exhibition by a girl who, seemingly, has no consideration either for her own reputation or the reputation of the industry which gave her wealth and fame. It's unjust to blame Hollywood, directly, for a Rita Hayworth, but indirectly it must share the responsibility. There aren't many mediocre mentalities which can cling to normalcy when surrounded by all the ego-swelling tinsel that Hollywood heaps on its stars.

It's Red Skelton's observation that Hollywood gals who look sweet enough to eat, usually don't—because they're on reducing diets.

These Days
By George E. Sokolsky

I'M A COLLECTOR

So collection day has come around again. And I have become a collector. I thought I earned a living for my family by writing columns, speaking on the radio, advising industrialists about their troubles, delivering lectures, putting in more hours a day than makes sense, traveling on trains and planes.

But my main business is collecting money. I collect money principally for the government of the United States. True, it costs something to operate this business of mine, but after that is charged off, and the landlord is paid, and the butcher and grocer get theirs, the collection goes to the big boss.

My first pay was $3.00 a week as an office boy during summers. I was a very little office boy. I have been earning my daily bread, more or less, since then. It was my ambition to earn enough to create a family, provide a home and an education for my children, and to leave something for a widow when I died. I don't think such an ambition abnormal or preposterous.

So I worked hard, tried this and that and sometimes took a great risk in the hope of improving the general situation. Now apparently I earn too much. The big boss says so and he demands so large a share that to pay him—after the high cost of living—I may have to borrow. Maybe I shall have to borrow from him, paying him a penalty of six percent, which by his own terms could be usury.

Yes, the main business of a lot of people is just to collect money for operations and taxes, with nothing left over to take care of the future. And that is the gist of our problems—the future. Even with high taxes, most of us get by these days, even on a shockingly self-confused basis. But what about the future? What are we laying up for a rainy day?

There are many Americans whose work span is comparatively short—their earning power reaching a swift peak and then moving downward as sclerosis sets in. Such often believe themselves to be very big shots while they are collecting. But no one remains everlastingly acceptable. The day comes when the work begins to be less acceptable and what counts is not what one receives but what one has saved. The important thing is to save—to put money in the bank, to make investments, to buy life insurance—to provide against the future.

No one likes to live on charity—on private or government charity. Certainly no one in good health and working hard looks with cheerfulness toward the day when, his usefulness lessened, he will receive an old age pension or unemployment insurance. There is no satisfaction in looking back to the thousands of dollars he has collected for the Collector of Internal Revenue in the good old days. It is sounder to save, to keep money, to get old gracefully out of the earnings of the better years.

That was the attitude of the America which is now able to sustain the western world, but that is not the America of the future. While we were earners and savers, we were building a wonderful America; as collectors, we are unable to build. We work; we collect; we pass it on.

Only the "smart boys," the liars, the cheats, the frauds, can save; only those who take cash and put the cash in their pockets can accumulate savings. But who wants to cheat? What decent person wants to wonder when he will be caught saving for his family when he ought to be collecting for the government?

And yet our system is based upon the family, on the ability of the father to do the best he can for his children and the ability of his children to serve their children. Lack of savings makes us all dependents—and dependents are not free men.

The income tax is not merely a revenue collecting mechanism. It is a device of the social revolution. It changes society and turns free men into the things of the government. It leaves each man without a future—and therefore without independence and courage.

Editors' Roundtable

THE CLOSED SHOP

Almost all editors approve the supreme court's upholding the right of the states to ban closed shop labor contracts. Yet, though most editors disapprove of the closed shop, majority opinion is that congress will repeal the closed shop ban in the Taft-Hartley act, and that the state trend (16 now have laws against closed shop contracts) will follow the new federal pattern. Some editors think the decision may help to bring about a compromise congressional plan, giving unions full membership of all workers under closed shop contracts but providing regulations to prevent "closed unions."

New Orleans (La.) Times-Picayune (Ind.-Dem.): "Sustainment of the states' right to legislate against the closed shop is rendered more than ordinarily impressive by the virtual unanimity of the supreme justices. Five-to-four decisions have been frequent on other important questions. On this one all nine joined in the affirmative of the Nebraska-North Carolina laws and only one dissented from the Arizona ruling . . . The broad, basic effect of the ruling as we understand it is to uphold the right of the states to maintain . . . 'the right to work.'"

Cincinnati (Ohio) Post (Ind.): "Where the closed shop exists, workers must be union members before they can be employed, and unions can—as many do—restrict their membership. The 'union shop' (now allowed by the Taft-Hartley act) is not open to the same objection. Under the union shop, workers whose services are needed and who are qualified for jobs can be employed, whether or not they are union members, although they must become union members and pay dues after they are employed."

Davenport (Iowa) Daily Times (Ind.-Rep.): "While the arguments in the case were devoted primarily to the closed shop practice . . . the North Carolina act, which was upheld in its entirety also outlaws the union shop . . . and the maintenance of membership contract which requires a worker to remain in good standing once he joins a union. . . . In consequence of the supreme court decision the pressure for such laws will increase in states making a bid for industry."

Des Moines (Iowa) Register (Ind.-Rep.): "The court has simply said that if it is legal to pass laws which limit and control businesses for public purposes, it is also legal to pass laws which limit and control labor unions. As to the wisdom of closed shop legislation by states—that is another matter upon which the court did not touch."

St. Louis (Mo.) Star-Times (Ind.): "In all of the states the closed-shop ban applies only in intrastate commerce. . . . The really important ban on closed shops is that in the federal Taft-Hartley act. And Senator Taft himself is authority for the statement that this particular ban is almost certain to be repealed shortly. It has proved itself unworkable in some instances, unjust in some others. . . . If they throw the laws away, the legislators must go to a substitute to protect the rights of all workers, preferably something like the Taft suggestion of a bar on closed unions."

Portland (Ore.) Oregonian (Ind.-Rep.): "It is when the closed shop is coupled with a closed union that the right to work may be entirely disregarded. A closed union is one in which members with jobs protect themselves from competition by preventing applicants from becoming union members. . . . They may be compared with business monopolies and cartels which operate to limit production in order to keep prices high. There are serious economic and social objections to both such forms of monopoly."

Wall Street Journal (Ind.): "Whether the careful reasoning of this decision and the court's unanimity in reaching it will cause congress to hesitate before it repeals the milder Taft-Hartley law remains to be seen. But these circumstances may be expected to add to the difficulties the labor organizations will meet in checking additional state action and obtaining repeal of existing state laws against the closed shop."

St. Louis (Mo.) Globe-Democrat (Ind.): "The eighty-first congress is expected to rip the ban against closed shops from the Taft-Hartley act. . . . As soon as the federal bar is lifted, a full-fledged battle may be expected on state levels to legalize not only the closed shop, but all union shop prerogatives. . . . If this feature of the federal statute is deleted, labor will have a strong argument for changing state laws. The supreme court opinion seems incontestable from the legal standpoint. It will have no bearing if the state laws are jettisoned."

Down South
By Thurman Sensing
Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council

SAMSON AND THE SOUTH

Back in the olden days, Samson pulled down the pillars of the temple and thus brought about the destruction of everyone therein, including himself.

The south might well have heeded the experience of Samson in these recent years and it should be noted, too, that while Samson did succeed in destroying his enemies, the south is only destroying itself.

Continuing to vote the Democratic ticket throughout the New Deal regime, when the Democratic party had completely turned away from the fundamental principles on which it was founded and for which the people of the south had always stood, the south was straining away at the pillars of the temple of democracy.

Then, in recent months, realizing to some extent what was happening, the south eased up on its pressure. There was a movement to drive the opponents of Democracy out of the temple and an attempt to reinforce its pillars.

The the movement was not successful. Reinforcement of some of the pillars was not sufficient. The south still strained away at the pillars and the temple is now falling upon its people.

In other words, the people of the south, instead of blocking the election of an administration blatantly proposing measures directly contradictory to all the ideals and principles of the region, voted in sufficient strength to assure the election of this administration.

So, as the pillars of states rights and local self-government and racial segregation fall about their ears, the people of the south have no others than themselves to blame. They cannot claim they did not know what they were doing, for the administration was very clear and very open in its professed intention to invade the rights of the states and repudiate the Bill of Rights by passing federal anti-poll tax and anti-lynching measures, by establishing a federally supported fair employment practices commission, and in many other ways.

As these measures come up in this 81st congress and are voted for by the congressmen and senators of the south elected on the Democratic ticket, there can in no justice be any censure of their vote. There are many in the south, of course, who hope these senators and representatives will have the courage to vote against these measures, but if they do they will apparently be acting contrary to the wishes of those who elected them—and such action is not consistent with the usual custom of politicians.

So, if the people of the south, in the months ahead, find the federal government interfering in their local government—well, they asked for it! If the south finds the federal government ordering and enforcing abolishment of its traditional principle of racial segregation — well, the people asked for it! They asked for it—whether they wanted it or not—and as the temple falls on their heads, they can only remember that they are the ones who pushed down the pillars.

The proposed fair employment practices commission not only strikes at the racial segregation so important to great areas of the south, but it strikes at another principle of vital importance to the whole nation—the freedom of the individual. If the federal government can assume the power to tell the employer whom he must hire—as would, in effect, be true under the act—it can very easily take the next step and tell the employee for whom he must work. Then individual freedom has completely "flown out the window," and we have betrayed the most fundamental principle of the constitutional republic under which we have lived and prospered.

Our Children

PARENTAL STRENGTH

It is easy to say that parents are to blame for whatever is wrong in their children, but blaming people never did much for them. It seems to me that fathers and mothers today have so much to distract and worry them in their efforts to keep a roof over their heads, feed and clothe the family, get along at all in a topsy-turvy world that a little help, instead of a lot of blame, might be useful. It might be helpful to suggest a way of making life smoother for themselves and their children.

Fathers and mothers love their children and long to see them grow into health and security of mind; but few—very few—parents have been educated in the field of child training. (Talking of blame, who is to blame for that?) Any information they can get about the problem seems to be welcome, especially if it is spoken or written in words they can understand without a medical dictionary.

Children reflect their parents' attitudes toward life, their speech—which means their way of thinking—their manners, their ambitions. It is because of this relationship and its influence on children that the experts blame the parents. What can they do to help themselves and their children?

By trying to be what they would like their children to be. That always works. That means self-discipline; and self-discipline means denial of selfishness, the most difficult of all life's disciplines. It is a relief for a tired, troubled mother to shout angrily at a child. The shout lifts and eases the tension she is enduring, but it shifts the tension to the child. And there is the beginning of trouble, the germ of delinquency.

It is pleasant, easy and gratifying to one's self to criticize disparagingly one's relatives and neighbors; but the listening child takes over the warped attitude. Instead of developing a kindly, friendly attitude that will enable him to live pleasantly with other people, he becomes antagonistic, his personality warped, and the germ of social failure has been set.

It is easier to cover a hard truth with the shadow of untruth. It is very easy and it makes life pleasanter for the time being, but the watchful child catches the idea swiftly and the seeds of evasion, untruth and deceit are sown for his destruction.

If fathers and mothers want their children to be honest, kind, useful happy people, they can make them so by being so—to the best of their ability—themselves.

It is often difficult to keep convalescent children quiet. Dr. Patri gives many suggestions for games and child play, which can be done without too much fatigue, in his leaflet P-7, "Convalescent Children."

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

"Be Prepared" is a watchword written largely over our life today. Its significance is largely in the area of security and military preparedness, but it has a very much larger application to the whole of life and to every enterprise and venture. It is an important watchword in the realm of religion.

"Preparation" is written over every aspect of the ministry of Jesus, the missionary labors of Saint Paul, and the whole story of the founding of Christianity.

John the Baptist, whom Jesus called the greatest of all men born of woman, prepared the way, and called for preparation: "Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make His paths straight."

But that was only the beginning of the Christian preparation. We must never forget the long period of preparation in the life of Jesus Himself, the nearly 18 silent years in Nazareth before He began His public ministry. Nor should we forget Paul's silent years, his going into the desert and the long preparation before he launched out on his missionary journeys.

Think of the boy Jesus in Nazareth, waiting patiently, preparing fully, obediently listening, before He began that ministry, which was to last so shortly in earthly years, but which was to be timeless and endless in its truth and blessing for mankind. Nothing in God's providence is accomplished without discipline and preparation.

I speak of these things with some feeling. Because I recall how at one time in my own life, under unfortunate influences and impulses, I was tempted to throw up my college work with its severe discipline and take a short cut into "Christian work." As I look back I can see how unprepared I was and how much I needed discipline and training.

Education, of course, is not all. The poet, Tennyson, prayed in "In Memoriam" that knowledge should grow from more to more, but along with more reverence. And Paul's prayer for the disciples was that their love should abound more and more in knowledge, and in discernment. An old adage says that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing;" but loveless knowledge is even more dangerous.

But without education and the discipline of scholars we could not have had our English Bible, or the church, or all the valued things that despisers of education forget that education made possible.

But it is well to remember what I am stressing—that the greatest of all ministries, the ministry of Jesus, had back of it years of preparation. The same applies to the ministry of Paul. "Be prepared" is still the watchword of Christian progress.

IN MOVIELAND

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Carl Brisson, the world's most glamorous grandfather, has sharp words for the younger crooners of today:

"They are terrible. They show no style at all. They all hug a microphone and try to sing like Bing Crosby."

After seeing the sparkling-eyed Dane at work, I figured he had a right to spout off. For I saw him thaw out an unsophisticated audience at the Cocoanut Grove on one of the coldest nights in Los Angeles history. After a few minutes of singing smoochy songs and kidding with the folks, he had them yelling for more.

No mike-hugging Crosbyite, Brisson works hard for his applause. He travels all over the floor and acts out his songs with a continental charm. After the show I found him resting in his room from the workout.

Carl's son, Freddie, and Rosalind Russell have a four-year-old boy and I hinted that Carl was doing for grandfathers what Marlene Dietrich is doing for grandmas.

"What difference does it make if I am a grandfather?" he asked. "I'll admit it—I am 50 years old this year. That doesn't worry me. Who else can do the job I am doing?"

By his own admission, Carl is the king of the supper club entertainers. He has had but five weeks off in seven years and he doesn't mind saloon singing at all.

"I have a hotel suite and I live like a king. I go down in the elevator two times a night, sing some songs and get lots of applause. How else could I earn $3,500 a week so easily?"

Movie fans will remember Carl from his Paramount films in the early '30s. Why did he quit pictures? "Let's face it—they quit me," he said frankly.

But he may be back in the movies soon. Son Freddie plans to film the life story of his famous father. It would make a fabulous story, since Carl has done everything from winning boxing championships to playing before such varied persons as the king of England and Rasputin.

"We'll have another actor do the first part of the picture, but I'll do the rest, including my last prize-fight," said Grandpa Brisson.

Carl is booked solid in his club tour, but he'll take time out to play "Peer Gynt" in Copenhagen. It will be his first trip home in ten years.

HEALTH PROGRAM IS SLOW MOVING

Congress Takes Wait-And-See Attitude On Compulsory Legislation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Congress appears to be taking a cautious wait-and-see attitude on President Truman's demand for a compulsory national health program.

The suggestion of more payroll taxes to pay for it was one factor acting as a brake on congressional opinion at this time.

Another check was the absence of specific White House legislation covering all phases of a social security and health program.

But it was unlikely congress would have long to wait on Mr. Truman's plans, and in particular those dealing with the thorny question of how to finance a program for the health of 140,000,000 people.

A presidential message on social security legislation was expected to reach the capitol soon after the inaugural.

The president left no doubt of his wishes when he told congress last week:

"National health insurance is the only workable way to assure that all individuals have access to the medical care they need."

Influential house Republicans professed to see little chance for enactment of any compulsory program because of the tax features.

Rep. Judd R.-Minn.), a physician, declared "This is the wrong solution to the problem of national health."

Judd said "The right way is through voluntary insurance systems."

Meanwhile, administration thought in health legislation has taken a number of forms in the two weeks since the new congress met.

A compulsory insurance bill for 125,000,000 workers and their dependents—about 85 per cent of the population—was introduced in both houses by Senators McGrath (D.R. I.), Wagner (D.-N. Y.), Murray (D.-Mont.), and Rep. Dingell (D.-Mich.).

This is regarded as embodying, at least in broad outline, the administration plan for assuring national health.

More recently, Senators Pepper (D.-Fla.), Murray, and Humphrey (D.-Minn.), have suggested a single omnibus measure for all related health matters. In addition to insurance it would include dental care, hospital construction, medical research and other features.

The administration is expected to propose such a payroll tax to carry a health program. Officials have mentioned a 1/2 per cent levy on payrolls the first year, with employers and employes each contributing 1/4 per cent. Later it would be increased, possibly as high as three per cent.

Rep. Dingle suggested such a three per cent payroll tax, borne equally by employer and employe, as one method of financing his insurance proposal. Disability insurance would add another 1/2 per cent, he said.

start pushing for speedy action on revision of the Taft-Hartley labor act.

Hill indicated he will support the stand of Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the senate labor committee for a "single-package" labor bill, wrapping up changes in the Wagner act, as well as repealing the Taft-Hartley act. Taft said Republicans will demand hearings.

Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) said a banking subcommittee which he heads will hold hearings on the rent-control bill. Present controls expire March 31. Sparkman favors a 15-month extension. Some Republicans, led by Senator Cain of Washington, want only a year's extension.

Chairman Maybank (D-S. C.) said the full banking committee has marked rent controls for first action, but will begin work quickly on a new housing bill carrying low-cost dwelling and slum-clearing provisions.

The possibility of a Democratic-Republican agreement on terms of a new minimum wage bill heightened the likelihood of action on such a measure.

Taft said he is willing to support a move to raise the present 40-cents-an-hour minimum to 75. He added, however, that some changes may have to be made in the lists of those exempted. Hill said he thinks the labor committee may be able to work these out.

While the sailing thus looked smooth for portions of the program President Truman laid before congress, there were storm warnings for others.

For instance, Senator Robertson (D-Va.) voiced opposition in a speech before the Virginia Medical Society in Richmond to setting up a system of universal medical service.

Robertson said there is "no reason to assume that the abolition of the private profit incentive will not be as harmful to medicine as it has been the production of goods and services in general."

Republicans generally have lined up to fight President Truman's increase for $4,000,000,000 in new taxes.

G. O. P. objections to Mr. Truman's appointment of Dean Acheson as secretary of state appeared to have dropped to a low mark.

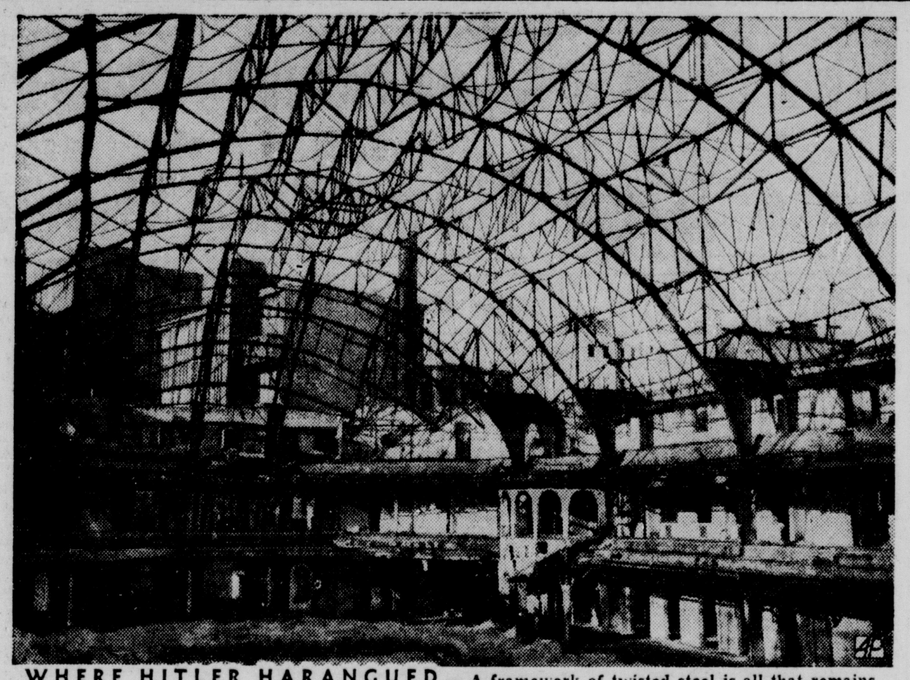

Chairman Connally (D-Texas) of the senate foreign relations committee said he may ask senate action on the nomination Monday. However, an objection by a single senator could put off action until Tuesday.

Connally told reporters he expects the committee to begin hearings soon on legislation to authorize another year's operation of the European cooperation administration.

"then you turn"--

How To Get There Is Big Problem

By James V. Mathis
(Of The Morning World Staff)

"Mister, could you tell me where the Walnuts live? The P. V. Walnuts, that is. They live on Apple street, 402 Apple street."

There's your question. Sounds easy, doesn't it? But just throw back your shoulders and try to answer it. The world is full of people who couldn't direct a person across the street on a clear day.

All of which brings us down right easy like to this whole problem of getting directions. Believe me, it's a job.

Drive along the street, slow down occasionally, lean out the window and ask the first person you see, "How do I get there?" In all probability you'll get one of these typical answers.

A traffic officer: "Move on, buddy, move on. Can't you see you're holding up traffic? Wanta get a ticket, huh?"

An uninterested lamp-post ornament: "Don't know, Mac."

An over-enthusiastic service station attendant (this calls for a brief stop): "Sure, mister, you turn left four blocks down, right three, take the side street in the center and you're almost there, mister. How about me fillin' 'er up? Only take a little mister."

A helpful but totally unreliable feminine driver (caught at a red light): "Sure. Just keep right on this street until you get to the fifth red light then turn—right—drive four, or maybe it's five, blocks that way and —no, no, mister, this is the wrong street. You go—" You lose the rest of it as the light changes.

Then you might run up against a soldier, recently back from England: "Ay, mate, you go straight down until you come to the turn-around. Take your left there, matey. It's the first pub with a blasted lion's head on it. You cahn't miss it, you know."

But you could, you know—or if you're out in the country.

An oldster, found shuffling along the road: "I'm not sure, friend, but if you'll keep going till you get to Mr. Jones' around the curve, he mought be able to tell you."

All of this gets you nowhere—unless you wind up in a psychopathic ward of the nearest hospital.

But if your nerves hold up, you soon find its no use. So you spend the rest of the day studying those who give the directions.

Really, you can read 'em like a book.

Take the man who emphasizes his directions with reference to bars, nightclubs, etc. "An old soak," you can say to yourself. Or the man who points the way by grocery stores. If he doesn't own one, he has a big bill on his conscience.

Then there's the man who directs you to the house "right past the one where you see that pretty redhead." Or the upright citizen, who says "immediately past that fine, new church we just built."

About the only two sure methods to get an address you aren't quite sure of is to (1) call your friends and have them pick you up at your home, or (2) take a bus.

And the last bit of advice—don't ever believe the man who tells you exactly where he caught that last big string of perch. Go in the opposite direction.

ing damage which the police said would total $1,000,000 in Durban.

Whole streets were reduced to ruins by mobs swarming through them killing and pillaging. Entire sections were set aflame by torch bearers and the people burned, or killed when they tried to escape or resist.

As usual in riots, many casualties were caused by heavy stones, clubs and knives.

One Indian family, trapped in a flaming building, shot it out with the mob, killing five attackers before dying in the flames.

Conditions had seemed quieter this morning after a night of terror. By daylight, soldiers, sailors and police with bayonets fixed had restored a semblance of quiet. It proved to be just a breathing spell. However, in which the South African air force got its chance to ferry in police reinforcements.

Officials conferred and alerted police throughout the transvaal to be ready for emergency call. The government announces it would proclaim a state of emergency if conditions grew worse.

About the city were the smoking embers of burned out business and residential sections.

Rich Indians and their homes were prized targets of the mobs.

Main police objectives tonight was to hem in the area of disturbance, lest it sweep wide areas. The Durban area alone has reported trouble thus far.

Durban has a population of 121,000 Indians, 109,000 native blacks and 128,000 white persons. In the entire country there are 285,000 Indians, compared with 8,000,000 blacks. The country's white population is 2,400,000.

Most unrest in the country has been that of the native blacks and Indian population protesting against the white government's policies of segregation and limited governmental representation for the colored inhabitants.

FOREST FIRES BLAZING OVER 3 LA. PARISHES

HAMMOND, La., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Forest fires were blazing in three Louisiana parishes tonight.

Bruce M. Beard, press representative for the state forestry commission said eight fires have been spotted in Livingston parish and six in Tangipahoa parish, both in the southeastern portion of the state.

In the central sector of the state, he said, the fire tower at Woodworth, south of Alexandria, reported 10,000 acres ablaze between Oakdale and the Calcasieu river to the west in Allen parish.

He said there are no serious fires north of Alexandria.

Meanwhile, State Forester James E. Mixon announced the arrest of Leslie Croff of Bush, La., on charges of criminal negligence in connection with a fire between Bogalusa and Covington, La.

Mixon said Croff is charged specifically with allowing fire to spread from his land to that of another person.

"About 60 per cent of our forest fires are caused by this sort of thing," Mixon said. "We are charged by law to take all legal measures necessary to correct the situation and we are going to do just that."

Earlier a fire swept over 150 acres near Loranger, La., five miles northeast of Hammond, but was reported under control tonight.

However, close watch was being maintained in the area. State foresters said dry woodlands and high winds might cause other outbreaks.

REDS ATTEMPT GREEK ASSASSINATIONS

ATHENS—(AP)—The woes that go with being a Greek political leader are being intensified by Communist terrorists who want to put an end to their woes—and them.

Hardly a day passes that a minister doesn't receive an anonymous telephone call that goes something like this:

"You dirty fascist reactionary. You have only a few days to live. We're going to kill you. Long live Markos!"

Minister of Justice Christos Ladas had several such calls before the Greek Communists celebrated May Day with his assassination.

The Greek police can't trace the calls because Athens has a modern dial system.

George Papandreou, who was prime minister at the time Greece was liberated and when the revolution of 1944 broke out, is becoming somewhat calloused to attempts and plots on his life. Already twice hand grenades have been thrown through the doors of his home, but he has escaped serious injury each time.

A few days ago the OPLA, Communist execution squad, had him scheduled for assassination at the time he would be attending the wedding of a friend. A repentant Communist, however, gave the play away and the police arrested six persons.

Papandreou, chief of the Republican Socialist party, is particularly despiesd by the Communists because he summoned British troops to quell the 1944 rebellion.

Guerrilla Chief Markos has nominated virtually every Greek political leader for extinction. He issues his sentences over his radio and demands that "comrades" in the cities carry out his orders. There is little doubt they are trying.

and Egyptians have held widely differing ideas on this subject.

The jews were expected to accept after much argument the proposal to lift their three-month seige of Faluja, 30 miles southeast of Tel Aviv to the extent of letting the Egyptians march away—but only on the condition that such an agreement would not be implemented until decisions have been reached on the other points.

Negotiations on each of the succeeding points promised to become progressively more difficult and complex.

Spokesmen for Bunche said it was unlikely any announcement would be made of agreement on any one item until work on the whole agenda has been completed.

It was likely, however, that a call for a formal session of the conference would signal agreement on some item.

Bunche's proposals were submitted today at separate meetings with each of the delegation leaders and their selected aides. This has the same pattern as yesterday when Bunche saw them separately and obtained their agreement to the first article of the agenda, a pledge for each to refrain from new offensives while negotiations are in progress and to respect the national security of the other side.

After agreement had thus been secured in private, a formal session lasting but 15 minutes was held to ratify the accord.

Although thus meeting the Israeli leaders face to face for the first time in an official conference between the two governments, the Egyptians so far have refused to have their photographs taken at the same table with the Jews.

Col. Vigal Yadin, Israeli chief of staff, and Elias Sassoon, a senior foreign office official, were recalled to Tel Aviv today. The reason for their departure was not learned, but it was reported they might return.

She said this is what happened:

"We solicited Augustin Americo Merlo, an attache at the Argentine embassy, as an individual, for a small contribution. We had five or ten dollars in mind. We solicit thousands of people for help.

"That was last month. He asked us to send him a letter to confirm we had solicited him. This is a routine procedure.

"We heard nothing further about it. Thursday he called and asked if he could come over to see us. It turned out he had forwarded our letter to the Argentine Foundation and told us the foundation is contributing enough clothing for about 600 children.

"We were astounded over the news and still haven't gotten over the shock. We never had any idea the Argentine Foundation was being solicited."

eign office was studying quick removal plans.

Semi-official Chinese sources said Foochow, more than 400 miles by air south of Nanking, had been chosen as a temporary capital when Nanking should become untenable. Formosa is being saved as an ultimate refuge if the government finds itself unable to stay on the mainland, these sources reported.

Antipathy of the residents plus a well-developed Red guerrilla movement were said to have forced abandonment of plans to move to the great southern center of Canton. T. V. Soong, governor of Canton's Kwangtung province, was scheduled to confer in Nanking Sunday with his brother-in-law, the Generalissimo.

Every indication pointed to Formosa as the final retreat of Chiang. It was believed that, with the protection of army, navy and air units already being sent there, he hoped to wait for future world events to provide him with the necessary support for a comeback.

Public clamor for peace at any price was increasing, however, and even in official circles there was a feeling that Communist conditions were not unreasonable in view of the military situation.

The universal reaction was that the Red terms left no room for bargaining. Broadcast by the Red radio last night they included "punishment of war criminals," destruction of "reactionary elements," and abandonment of the constitution.

Shao Li-Tze, elder stateman and former ambassador to Moscow who has been a leading peace advocate, said, "the government will have to consider these terms. It does not mean the door to peace is closed."

The war criminal angle led most officials to shy away from comment, even privately. As one put it, "I have to think of my own skin."

Radio reports from Tientsin indicated the Communist seizure at noon Saturday was practically bloodless, but it followed a day of heavy shelling that damaged many of the city's large buildings and took an unknown but high number of civilian lives.

U. S. Consul General Robert L. Smith radioed that all Americans (numbering more than 80) were safe, and the British consulate reported similarly. The U. S. consulate windows were broken by shell concussion.

When the Communists marched in, they jubilantly fired rifles into the air as they passed the U. S. consulate, and performed similarly in front of the U. S. information service offices in the French consulate building four blocks away.

All reports stated the Communist troops behaved well. They had not visited the various consulates, but an unidentified Communist official sent word that the safety of foreign residents would be guaranteed as soon as remnants of the Nationalist garrison were mopped up.

Apparently the garrison either surrendered or sought disguise in civilian clothing. There were no reports of any Nationalist retreat from the city.

Tientsin, greatest industrial and commercial center of north China, has up to 3,000,000 population, possibly a third of them refugees from other Communist-conquered areas.

One of the sketchy radio accounts received said that there was little window glass left in the city and that residents had covered windows with blankets and rugs in efforts to escape the freezing wind.

Capture of Tientsin further isolated Tangku, its port 27 miles northeast, and left Red-besieged Peiping, 90 miles northwest, as the only important government holding in north China.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Present U. S. foreign policy officials have decided that this country should stick by its current "hands-off" policy in China.

That is what state department advisers are expected to recommend to Dean Acheson when—assuming his confirmation by the senate—he takes over as secretary of state next week.

Moreover, diplomatic authorities will be surprised if Acheson seeks to change the policy. For one thing, it appears to represent the conclusions of President Truman and the outgoing undersecretary of state, Robert A. Lovett. Also, events are moving so fast in China now that it is difficult as a practical matter to see how U. S. policy could be changed.

The latest evidence of America's aloofness came today with word that the United States had politely but firmly turned aside a bid by the government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek for intervention by the great powers to try to make peace in China.

State department officials did not challenge reports to this effect from Nanking. Bound to secrecy at the request of the Chinese government, they said merely "no comment."

Britain followed the American lead in rejecting the reportedly somewhat hazy mediation bid. Presumably, France will also. Russia's reaction was not disclosed, although the western powers are believed to have tried to sound out Moscow in advance.

Obviously, the United States hopes that all four of the great powers will hold aloof from the Chinese struggle. Some officials here feel there is a Russian reluctance to venture into the maze of Chinese politics.

The failure of Chiang's New Year's peace statement (never very optimistically regarded here) to get any favorable reaction from the Communists, and now their virtual demand for Chiang's unconditional surrender, offer little hope that a negotiated peace is possible. On the contrary, authorities here seem convinced that Communist domination of China is only a question of time.

American policy with respect to China and the Far East recently has moved along three lines and presumably will continue that way:

1. To avoid responsibility for any of Chiang's recent or future maneuvers, whether he makes peace, surrenders or fights on.

2. To avoid any provocative action which would needlessly prejudice whatever kind of government next emerges in China.

3. To discover means of preventing the spread of communism in other areas of Asia and of countering any upset to American interests in the western Pacific if the Communists get control of China.

American support against the Dutch of the non-Communist Indonesian republican movement was part of this last policy point. Another is the continuing review of the American military position in Japan and the western Pacific.

Reports from London today that British Foreign Minister Devin and French Foreign Minister Schuman had studied the possibility of forming a broad anti-Communist organization for southeast Asia were received here somewhat cautiously as perhaps indicating another possible line of action.

However, available officials said privately they had not heard of any concrete plan for such a league and the state department is expected to hold strongly to the line the United States should not take on greater responsibilities than it can effectively carry out. At the moment, Washington's concern is centered on completing the still incomplete North Atlantic security arrangement for the protection of western Europe.

Sterlington: Walter Lee Smith Post No. 207, American Legion hall, Sterlington, La. Blanks can be secured from the following: January 18, 1949: Durwood Davis, Perryville, La.; P. H. Boyd, c/o La. Power and Light Co., Sterlington La.; Sam C. Scott, Fairbanks, La.

Applications will also be available at the following schools for veteran students, beginning January 18, 1949. Northeast Junior College, Monroe, Louisiana; Ouachita Valley Vocational School (colored) Oak street, Monroe, La.; Robinson Business School (colored) 604 Jack McEnery street, Monroe; Monroe Vocational School (colored) Selman Field, Monroe, La.; farm trainees—Ouachita Parish Grammar School.

Veterans from all surrounding towns in Ouachita parish will have to come to Monroe to obtain their application and have it processed and certified. Those in the Sterlington area will visit Walter Lee Smith Post No. 207, American Legion hall.

No individual distribution will be made before January 18, Mr. McClendon explained. Leaders of the V. F. W., American Legion, AMVETS and Marine Corps League, will be given application forms on the night of January 17, he said.

Veterans from anywhere in Ouachita parish will be able to get application forms, fill them out and have them certified on the spot on the night of January 17th and 18th, 1949.

All veterans are urged to bring along either a photostatic or certified copy of their discharge one of these two nights.

The actual filling out of each application is a relatively simple process. Each veteran will be required to give a few facts pertaining to his service and citizenship of the state as other information required will be on his attached copy of his discharge.

Bonus payment checks will not be received before March or April, according to Thomas C. Glaze, bonus administrator. As soon as the applications are processed, checks will be made out but will not be signed or dated until the money is available.

Widows, parents and next of kin of deceased veterans will have to contact Mr. McClendon's office as to applying for the deceased veterans' bonus.

All men who served in the armed service during war-time, that is, from January 1, 1941 to March 1, 1946, are eligible for the bonus. Of course, they must have been established residents of Louisiana before entering the service.

DEATHS

MRS. DELLA COLVIN

RUSTON, La., Jan. 15.—(Special)—Funeral services for Mrs. Della Colvin, 88, who died today at her home following a lingering illness, will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. in the chapel of the Kilpatrick Funeral Home with the Rev. Mr. Sampson officiating. Interment, under the direction of the Kilpatrick Funeral Home, will follow in the Colvin Cemetery.

Mrs. Colvin, who was born in Ruston in 1861, has been a lifelong resident of Lincoln parish.

She is survived by three sons, Howard and Hughie Colvin, both of Vienna, Press Colvin, of Ruston; five daughters, Mrs. Kate McGee, of Dubach; Mrs. Ruby Roane, of Ruston; Mrs. Bertha Larance, Hilly; Mrs. Elizabeth McCabe, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Dixie Cantrell, of Choudrant.

Pallbearers will be her grandsons.

NEW BLIZZARD HITS MIDCONTINENT HARD

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Another January blizzard swept into the midcontinent today from Canada.

The new storm hit just as officials in the plains states were announcing the end of emergency conditions caused by blizzards early in the week.

The new storm, spearheading another cold wave, whipped across parts of Montana, Idaho and Utah. It started eastward in the general path of the earlier storms.

Road conditions became hazardous as the driving snow began to drift in southeastern Montana.

New snow in parts of southern Idaho ranged up to 15 inches. Drifts closed the Pocatello-Ruper Highway and Idaho-Utah route over Highway 30. In northern Utah, the flakes piled up on the one to two feet of snow already on the ground from previous storms.

U. S. forecasters in Chicago issued a cold wave warning for North and South Dakota, Minnesota, northern Iowa, Wisconsin and upper Michigan. Temperatures of zero to 10 below were expected to end a brief period of balmy weather.

In this class cabinets, lawn furniture can be fashioned, repairs to furniture are being made and any other projects are open to those so inclined. It is really a wonderful opportunity for those whose ambitions are along this line of work. Full information is available by phoning 6220, or even better by paying a visit to this interesting school any Monday.

Benjamin E. Clark and Steve G. Tefas, both of Monroe, were awarded medals as outstanding cadets of the R. O. T. C. summer camp by the Boyd-Ewing Post of the American Legion at L. S. U. Tuesday.

Clark, a cadet captain in the L. S. U. R. O. T. C. unit, was named outstanding cadet of the artillery corps at last summer's camp. The son of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Clark, 2003 North 8th, he is a senior in commerce and a member of Pi Tau Pi, honorary commerce fraternity.

Tefas, also a cadet captain in the R. O. T. C., was named outstanding air force cadet at the summer camp. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Tefas, 408 Stubbs, and a senior in commerce.

The other night a youthful couple—married for two years and parents of a four-month-old baby, went to a certain Monroe threatre and started for the balcony.

Quickly the middle-aged usher, imperatively demanded: "Don't go up there, you are too young!"

A big laugh greeted the woman by those who sensed the situation.

Through the thoughtfulness of merchants of the Twin Cities, crippled kiddies to the number of 350 will be admitted free of charge to the Shrine Circus at Neville High School auditorium, when it appears here on Monday and Tuesday. Tickets for the crippled children will be distributed at the health unit (old post office building) Monday from 1 p. m. to 3 p. m. The matinee at Neville opens at 4 p. m. A member of the local chapter of the crippled children's association will be at the health unit to see that the tickets are distributed.

MAE WEST ABANDONS BED DESPITE ORDER

BALTIMORE, Jan. 15. —(AP)— Mae West played the old trouper today, overruling doctors who wanted to keep her in a hospital.

Also against her wishes, producers canceled matinee and evening performances of the buxom star's revival of "Diamond Lil."

Miss West was rushed to University Hospital from her hotel early this morning. Doctors said she was suffering from abdominal pains and they were considering surgery.

Six and a half hours later the star signed her hospital release and was driven back to her hotel. She wanted to go on with tonight's show.

Larry Lee, Miss West's business manager, said the show will leave as scheduled tomorrow afternoon for Toronto "unless something unforeseen happens."

Dr. W. H. Townshend, who sought to keep the star in the hospital, said she was running a temperature.

"You know me," the blonde stage and screen actress quipped leaving the hospital. "I'm always running a temperature."

INAUGURAL

guests—diplomats, members of congress, the cabinet, the supreme court and other prominent persons.

The uninvited will have to see what they can from a distance.

The formal ceremony will begin at noon when Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson administers the oath of office to Mr. Truman.

Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, long a Democratic party wheelhorse, will be sworn in as vice president. Mr. Truman will give the customary inaugural address.

That will be that. But the trimmings, before and after, probably are the most extensive ever planned.

An inaugural committee, financed by Washington businessmen, is running the rest of the show. Mr. Truman is giving good cooperation. His activities on inaugural eve and inaugural day probably are the most arduous ever undertaken by a chief executive.

For one thing, he will ride in his own inaugural parade. This is the first time this has happened in many years.

Ordinarily, the president, after taking the oath of office, returns to the White House for lunch and rest. Then he goes to a reviewing stand for the parade.

Mr. Truman and Mr. Barkley will lunch at the capitol, then ride down historic Pennsylvania avenue, near the head of the mammoth parade.

When they reach the White House they will go to the reviewing stand to watch the parade go by.

The parade will form at 1:30 p. m., near the capitol, and will not end until 4 o'clock.

As far as the general public is concerned, the parade is the inaugural show. Melvin D. Hildreth, chairman of the inaugural committee, estimates that 750,000 people will turn out for it.

About 40,000 of these have bought seats erected in broad sections along the line of march.

After the parade the president will give a reception—an invitational affair—at the National Gallery of Art.

Inaugural night the Trumans will return to the armory for an inaugural ball.

In addition to the main events, visitors will find plenty of things to keep them busy. Most of the state societies in Washington have arranged affairs for inaugural week.

utilizing the energy released by nuclear fission."

How long the "coming years" will prove to be is a matter of wide speculation. David E. Lilienthal, commission chairman, has pointed to the difficulty of predicting an exact date when atomic power will leave the experimental laboratory and enter the commercial power field. He said the best estimate runs something like this:

Perhaps in the next three years there will be an experimental plant that will produce electrical power: in 10 years perhaps a "pretty good working plant but not commercially competitive with other sources of energy" such as water power or coal-produced power; within 20 years "a sizable portion of electricity may be derived from atomic plant;" in a decade after that a "very sizable portion" of the nation's power will come from atomic energy.

But, atomic experts point out, a host of highly complex technical problems have confronted the researchers as they move into the power development field.

One of the first of them has been trouble in the field of metallurgy. Under the bombardment of neutrons from nuclear fission strange and hitherto undreamed of things happen to common metals. Thus metals must be developed capable of withstanding not only the intense heat of the atomic furnace but the curious transmutation of the very basic structure of the metals that comes from nuclear bombardment.

ALABAMA WILL TRY AGAIN FOR MEASURE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 15—(AP)—Horace Wilkinson, state political leader, said today he is drafting a proposal "eliminating the Negro entirely from the Democratic party in Alabama."

The Birmingham attorney said it would be in the form of a constitutional amendment to be presented to the state legislature in May.

He added that it has "nothing to do with voter registration at all."

"It simply eliminates the Negro entirely from Democratic primaries," Wilkinson continued. "If the Negro wants to have a party, let him organize one of his own, or join the Republican party."

He did not disclose details of the proposed amendment.

Wilkinson was one of the 11 electors who last year cast the state's electoral votes for Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, the states' rights candidate.

Alabama's Boswell amendment, described as a bar to mass Negro voting in the state, was ruled unconstitutional by a federal court at Mobile last week.

The amendment required that applicants for registration "understand and explain" the federal constitution to the satisfaction of the counti boards of registration.

State Democratic Chairman Gessner T. McCorvey proposed yesterday at Mobile that a new Alabama law be patterned after a court-tested Mississippi requirement.

The Mississippi law requires an applicant to be able to read any section of the state constitution, or to understand it when read to him, or be able to give a "reasonable interpretation" of it.

McCorvey said the Mississippi provision has been upheld by the U. S. supreme court.

He also urged that the amended Alabama law continue a provision from the 1901 constitution that prospective voters be of good moral character and understand the duties and obligations of citizenship under a Republican form of government.

BASEBALL PARK DRIVE WINS ADDED SUPPORT

NEXT SATURDAY DEADLINE FIXED FOR DONATIONS

Chamber Of Commerce Endorses American Legion Stadium Project

With next Saturday fixed as the deadline for accepting subscriptions adequate enough to insure the letting of a building contract and beginning immediate construction of a baseball park here, the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe has endorsed the American Legion project for the erection of a stadium on city-donated property at Bernstein Park.

G. Thomas Frazer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday released for publication a letter which will be in the mails tomorrow to all members of the C. of C. and encouraging their assistance in the proposed park.

The American Legion undertook the park project as one of its major efforts for 1949 for the purpose of providing the facilities needed to bring professional baseball back to Monroe and provide a place suitable for holding any other athletic and civic events that might desire the use of such a plant.

The Shreveport Sports of the Texas League, according to Jim Trousdale, who is heading the American Legion committee in charge of the drive, have already signified that they will put a professional team in Monroe if a park is made available. It is hoped to be able to get into the Cotton States League, Trousdale said, but in the event that no league membership is available this year and a park is ready, then a semi-pro club will be supported until such time as a professional franchise can be secured.

Frazer's letter to Chamber of Commerce members is:

"To the Members:

"For the first time in nine years, the residents of the Twin Cities are presented with an opportunity to enjoy organized baseball. Although baseball has been talked about here for a long time, little concerted action has been taken to secure a good ball team for Monroe, and the facilities for their playing. Now, the American Legion is taking the lead in financing a non-profit ball park for the Twin Cities, and they are calling on all community residents for support.

"At their regular meeting last Thursday evening, the directors of your Chamber of Commerce gave the American Legion baseball project enthusiastic endorsement. They have asked me to bring this matter forcefully to your attention, and ask your wholehearted support.

"The time element is a matter of utmost importance if we are to have a baseball team this year. A goal of $60,000 has been set by the Legion as the absolute minimum with which a ball park can be financed. Of this amount, $30,000 must be subscribed not later than Jan. 22 in order for a contract for the stadium to be let so that construction can be started in January. Of particular interest to you will be a ruling from the bureau of internal revenue stating that any subscription to this project may legally be deducted for income tax purposes.

"When a representative calls on you for your subscription, be as generous as you know how. If you have not been called on, and want to do your part before the deadline of Jan. 22, here are three men whom you may call to make your subscription: James H. Trousdale, Jr., telephone No. 5977; F. N. "Sticky" Steele, telephone No. 701; Saul Adler, telephone No. 654.

"If you want good professional league baseball this year, you must act, and act immediately. Let's put this project over.

"Sincerely yours,
"G. THOS. FRAZER,
"President."

TRACK, SOFTBALL EVENTS PLANNED

JONESVILLE, Jan. 15.—(Special)—A Catahoula parish track and field meet, with softball thrown in for good measure, is being planned for April 22 in Jonesville, with schools from every section of the parish participating.

The project, which is expected to become an annual event, was adopted by the Jonesville Rotary Club after the plan had originated at a meeting of parish school principals. Approximately 30 events are being worked out for senior and junior boys, with softball competition for both girls and boys.

The Rotary Club committee for the meet is composed of Aubrey Brooks, parish school superintendent; York Bernard, school supervisor, and Tuddy McElwee, principal of Block at Jonesville.

The Catahoula parish basketball tournament will be held at Harrisonburg February 11-12.

CAMP HOOD MITTMEN WIN 4TH ARMY CROWN

CAMP HOOD, Tex., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Camp Hood, Tex., won its second straight Fourth army boxing crown last night when five of its entries captured individual titles.

Fort Sill boxers won three championships to take runner-up honors for the team title.

There were five knockouts or technical knockouts on the final card.

William (Blackie) Howell, Baton Rouge, La., Camp Hood, knocked out Jimmy Malone, Los Angeles, Brooke Army, for the heavyweight title.

Howell's victory will represent the Fourth army in the army-wide boxing tournament to be staged in Washington next month.

Harness horse driver Ben White has driven in seven of the 56 runnings of the Kentucky Futurity trot run at Lexington, Ky.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The "success" of the N. C. A. A. sanity code, as re-affirmed at the recent San Francisco meeting, has started a big argument at one southern college we've just heard from . . . The school's governing body is about to plot its future course. Our informant explains: "Some want us to line up 100 percent with the N. C. A .A.; others want us to set up a 'wahoo educational fund' (like some rival colleges) in hopes of luring good football players here." . . . The trick, as explained by another sharp observer, seems to be to set up such a fund, administered by regular university authorities and open to all students. You can always drop a word in someone's ear and even a faculty man can get the idea that such funds won't be forthcoming for long if deserving football prospects aren't taken care of. . . That's a very practical kind of "sanity" and strictly within the rules.

Go-Getter

The National Baseball Congress recently received an application from Loretto, Kansas (population 30) to conduct one of the 500 NBC-sanctioned district tournaments. . . Officials at Wichita figured the village was too small for such an event. A reply was sent to Ben Stremel, a wealthy wheat farmer who made the application, explaining a sanction couldn't be issued because there was no lighted field in such a small town. . . Almost by return mail came the word that Stremel was constructing a lighted field—So Loretto will be the smallest town ever to stage such a tourney.

Sportspourri

Word from Washington is that the Redskins, despairing of making a deal with Frank Leahy, offered their coaching job to Georgia's Wally Butts, who said he'd give them an answer some time after Jan. 20. . . Art Deutsch, drumbeater for the Syracuse National League Basketball club, protests that his circuit shouldn't be included in any complaints about too-high scoring. "Come see us for old-fashioned man-to-man defense, top playmaking and real sport" he wires. . . . Eddie Walker is broadcasting (on behalf of Steve Belloise) an "open letter" to Middleweight Champ Marcel Cerdan. Marcel, of course, can't read English.

Quote, Unquote

Lightweight Champ Ike Williams (at the Boxing Writers' dinner): "A few years ago I said I wouldn't want my son to be a boxer. Now the answer would be yes. I'd want him to be one because the things I got and the people I met through boxing are the best in the world."

Weak End Notes

Charlie Fonville, Michigan's world-record shotputter, hopes to return to competition in 1950. He dropped out of college for an operation on his back in October but will resume his dental course next fall . . . Bantamweight Champion Manuel Ortiz, starting to train for his Feb. 22 bout with Dado Marino in Honolulu, already is down to 123 pounds and says he won't have any trouble making 118 . . . The Green Bay Packers did a record business in Christmas-Gift ticket sales despite their 3-9 record. Must have been a lot of folks buying presents for people they don't like.

NEW YORK'S WRITERS HONOR JOE DIMAGGIO

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio, New York Yankee outfielder, last night received the New York Sports Writers' "Sportsman of the Year" trophy.

Frank Wright, representing Gov. Fuller Warren of Florida, said in making the presentation that "baseball has helped make America a great country, and a guy named Joe has helped baseball. The game is safe as long as it is in the hands of men like DiMaggio."

FOSTER MAKES BIG GARDEN HIT

Nebraska Welterweight Looks Impressive Stopping Tony Pellone

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Vince Foster, a boyish two-fisted banger from Omaha, Neb., is the hottest thing to hit Madison Square Garden since Rocky Graziano.

Manager Jack Hurley's new welterweight puncher scored in electrifying fashion last night by knocking out tough Tony Pellone, 146 1/2, an established main go fighter, in 44 seconds of the seventh round.

It was the way Foster, 146, did the job on the clever New Yorker that caught the fancy of the crowd of 14,421 which paid $44,639. Four clean knockdowns, climaxed by the kayo stamped 22-year-old Vince as a kid with a future.

Foster probably isn't ready for Head Man Ray Robinson but you could never convince him. He's a willing worker who wants only to fight. You can't ask much more than that, especially the way things are these days.

Beau Jack or possibly Charley Fusari are talked about as future big town foes for Vince whose next date will be in his home town of Omaha against Phil Burton Jan. 31. Chicago may get the Jack fight as it originally was scheduled there, but Hurley will have a long and very interesting discussion today with Harry Markson, 20th Century Sporting Club director.

Pellone had been knocked out only once. He broke his knee cap when he fell out of a New Brunswick, N. J., ring in 1944 while fighting George Knox.

Rough House Tony, so often the winner of close decisions by back alley methods, was in with a fellow a little bit tougher than he was. Left hook to the body, right hand to the head. That was Foster's formula. You'd have a tough time finding a better one.

Hurley, who piloted Billy Petrolle, the old Fargo Express, thinks Foster is better at this stage of his career than Petrolle.

Foster was the big hit of the "New Faces" show, produced by Markson.

Lil Arthur King, the British empire lightweight champ from Toronto, handled Willie Beltram in convincing fashion to win a unanimous eight-round decision. King weighed 134 1/4 to 139 1/4 for the New Yorker.

Roland La Starza, 187, unbeaten Bronx heavyweight, won a dull eight-rounder from Bill Weinberg, 215 3/4, New York and Boston veteran.

OUACHITA CAGERS TO MEET BOSSIER TOMORROW NIGHT

N. J. C. Faces L. B. C. Tuesday; Bastrop Plays Neville Wednesday

College and high school basketball teams will be busy here this week with the Northeast Junior College Indians having one game lined up for Tuesday night, the Ouachita Parish High School Lions playing here tomorrow night and at Ruston Tuesday, and the Neville High School Tigers entertaining Bastrop's Rams here Wednesday night and then participating in the Minden High School Tournament next Friday and Saturday.

Coach James L. Malone last night said his N. J. C. Redskins, with a record of one win and one defeat this season, would meet the Louisiana Business College team of Monroe's City League at the college gymnasium Tuesday night. The Indians opened their season with a close win over L. B. C. and dropped their next game Friday night to the Collinston Athletic Club.

The Bossier City High School Bearcats will be here tomorrow night for a battle with Coach Herbert H. Holliman's Ouachita Lions. Coach Holliman said a double header, featuring "A" and "B" teams of the two schools, would be on tap for the show beginning at 7 o'clock in the O. P. H. S. gymnasium.

Since the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport defeated the Lions here recently, 48 to 45, the Lions are expected to be the less favored team against the Bossier City combination that mastered Fair Park a couple of weeks ago, 43 to 38.

Bossier's high scoring combination includes Center Tom Woodall and Guard Bobby Ray McHalffey. The Bearcats also boast a terrific 202-pound guard in Bill Harris. Coach Holliman, whose Lions go to Ruston to face the Ruston High School Bearcats the following night, said his lineup for Bossier City would probably be Harold Price or Billy Joe Milstead and Johnny Goodwin, forwards; Wayne McDonald, center; and Bob Carter and Mark Boatright, guards.

A triple header is slated at Ruston with "A" and "B" boys' games and a contest between Ruston and Ouachita girls.

The Neville Tigers, in meeting Bastrop Wednesday night here, are playing a Class A League game originally scheduled for next Friday but moved up so the Tigers will be able to participate in the Minden tournament, Coach Johnny Johnson said.

The Neville cagers are currently leading the Class A League with three wins and no defeats. Against two non-league rivals they have one win and a single loss.

The Civic Bowling League opened its season here Friday night with six civic club teams seeing action, and two others due to swing into action in the eight-team loop next Friday.

In the opening games the West Monroe Kiwanis swept three games from the Optimists, the American Legion took its series from the North Monroe Lions, and the Monroe Kiwanis took three straight from the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Malone, rolling for the West Monroe Kiwanis, turned in high series with a 567, and he also had a 219 for high game.

WAVE TRAVELS FOR REMAINDER OF CAGE DATES

Only One Of Nine Games Still On Slate Will Be Played At Home

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15—(Special)—With a record of 13 victories and two defeats, Tulane's Green Wave takes to the open road from here in with struggles of titanic proportions in the offing.

With nine games yet to come on its 1948-49 schedule, the Wave has only two of them at home, a fact that doesn't brighten the countenance of basketball mighty mouse—Cliff Wells.

It's a familiar fact that foreign soil is not best suited for sowing the seeds of victory and that, coupled with the fact that some of the Southeastern Conference's finest is on the Wave's slate the rest of the way, plows deep furrows in the brow of Wells.

The Wave makes its next start at home, against the Tidesmen from Alabama on January 22.

There follows a lengthy stretch of absence for the Wave, it taking on Georgia Tech, Auburn, Mississippi State and Ole Miss in the respective stomping grounds of those S. E. C. powers before returning for its last home game of the season against the Ole Miss Rebels on February 11.

The Wave writes finis to its present schedule with three appearances on foreign ground—against Alabama, Vanderbilt and L. S. U.

And that's the task cut out for Wells and his hardwood harriers between now and the Southeastern Conference Tournament at Louisville, March 3-5.

Meanwhile, future opponents for the Wave best beware the bulk of Jim Riffey, six-foot, four-inch center for the Wave. Consistent Jim is dropping them through the net with a .402 percentage.

He's dropped sufficient through, incidentally, to total 206 points for the season in 15 games, and a point-total high enough to rank him atop the S. E. C.'s scoring heap .

The other Sunday punches in the Wave's offense include Forwards Warren Perkins and Virgil Risner, neither of whom have the percentage standing of Riffey, but both of whom are close on his heels in the scoring derby. Perkins has 190 points for the year and Risner, 188.

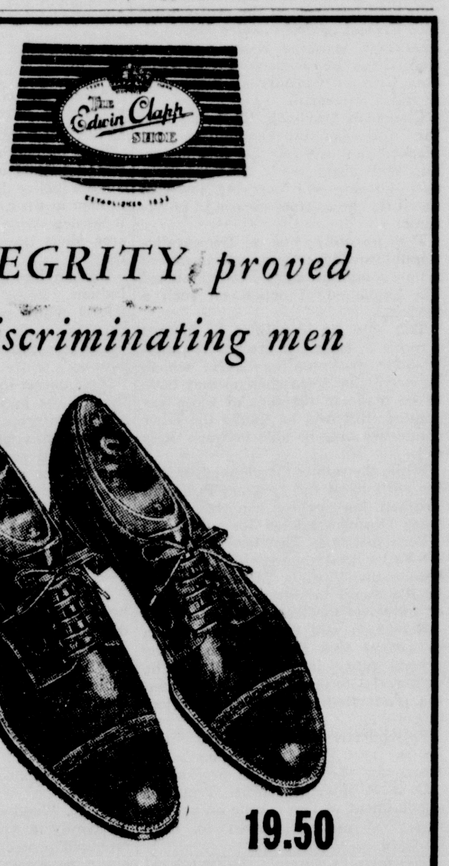

The two most improved portions of the Wave, Melvyn Payton and Tom Bowman, trail this trio with 143 and 110 points respectively.

Here's the indivdual scoring records so far this season:

STRANAHAN GRABS LEAD IN CROSBY TOURNEY

FAVORED HOGAN TRAILS AMATEUR BY ONE STROKE

Third And Final Round Of Annual Golf Show Comes Up Today

By Russ Newland

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Muscular Young Amateur Frank Stranahan tossed a par-shattering bombshell into the solid ranks of the big professionals today to pop into the lead of the Bing Crosby Invitational Golf Tournament.

The millionaire-apparent from Toledo, O., who plays as much competitive golf as any in the country, shot a second round 66 to wrest the lead from the national champion himself, Ben Hogan.

Stranahan, six under par for the Monterey Peninsula Country Club course, had a 36-hole total of 137.

Hogan, U. S. Open and P. G. A. titleholder as well as a stout favorite to win here, had moved to the front of the pack earlier in the day. Hogan also had a 66 that gave him a two-round score of 138.

Whether Stranahan will be leading at the end of tomorrow's third and final score of the 54-hole links party staged annually by Crooner Crosby, was anybody's guess tonight.

In any event, being strictly amateur, he won't threaten the pros in their quest for the $10,000 in cash prizes.

But the men who play for pay dislike having a Simon Pure outscore them.

Stranahan, incidentally, has done this before. He won the Miami Open last December from the country's leading professionals.

ROBINSON SAYS ONLY DODGERS WILL TELL HIM WHERE TO PLAY

ATLANTA, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Jackie Robinson, the Negro second baseman, says he will play baseball where the Brooklyn Dodgers tell him, despite Ku Klux Klan opposition.

That was his reaction last night after the Klan questioned whether he and Dodger Catcher Roy Campanella, also a Negro, would legally play against the Atlanta Crackers.

The Dodgers meet the Southern Association Crackers here April 8, 9 and 10 in exhibition games. Cracker President Earl Mann said he expected both Robinson and Campanella to be in the line-up.

Klan Dragon Samuel Green immediately came up with a challenge that Georgia's segregation laws would bar the Negroes against a white team in Atlanta.

"In my opinion, it's illegal," the Grand Dragon said. "You can bet your life I'll look up the segregation law and investigate thoroughly."

Gov. Herman Talmadge, a "white supremacy" crusader, said the controversy hadn't been called to his attention officially. He said it probably would be later and would look into it then.

Robinson, in his New York sports broadcast over station WMCA, said:

"This is my reaction to the statement about the Ku Klux Klan. I will play baseball where my employer, the Brooklyn Dodgers, wants me to play."

Branch Rickey, the Dodger president, said Robinson would be in all exhibition games, not only those in Georgia, but those in Florida, Texas and the Carolinas as well.

Rickey was quoted by the New York Times as saying if some cities ban Negro players, "why the Dodgers simply won't play there and that is all there is to that."

TROPICAL HANDICAP WON BY FAULTLESS

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Calumet Farm's Faultless took a head lead today to capture the $10,000 Tropical Handicap, final feature of Tropical Park's 40-day racing season.

Warren Wright's five-year-old fought a thrilling stretch battle with King Midas to win the mile and a sixteenth race.

Jockey N. L. Pierson drove Faultless from third place at the three-quarter mark to the winner's spot.

The two leaders were three lengths ahead of the third horse, Cat Bridge, which ran as an entry with Rampart.

Faultless paid $5.10 to win, $4 to place and $2.80 to show. King Midas, ridden by B. Civitello, paid $7.10 and $4.20, while Cat Bridge paid $2.80.

HENRY FRNKA TO VISIT GREENIE ALUMNI HERE

Henry Frnka, head football coach at Tulane University, and Don Zimmerman, former Green Wave All-America back, will be visitors here tomorrow evening for a meeting with Tulane alumni and other Wave supporters.

Frnka and Zimmerman will appear at an informal session to begin at 8 o'clock in the library of the Lotus Club in the Ouachita National Bank building.

An informal discussion of Tulane's athletic hopes for the future, and a motion picture of a Tulane football game will be chief topics on the night's program, according to Dr. W. L. Bendel, Tulane alumnus, who made arrangements for Frnka's visit.

Curtis, Steddum Renew Mat Squabble Tuesday Night

"It looks big in the spring," says Bobby Thomson of the New York Giants, teeing off on a balloon at his Staten Island home. The young outfielder was a disappointment last season after a remarkable freshman year.

PARKER, CORBETT SIGNED FOR BOUT IN SEMI-WINDUP

Champ Fails In Effort To Supply Own Referee For Scrap With Texan

Jack Curtis, world's light-heavyweight wrestling champion, and "Wild Bill" Steddum, the rowdy Texan, resume their mat feud here Tuesday night in an effort to settle a "grudge" that has warmed up in tag team affairs.

Curtis, with his brother, George, was on the winning tag team combination last Tuesday against Steddum and Rex Mobley, but only after Promoter Gus Kallio, on instructions from Wrestling Commissioner Dave Silverstein, who was attending the matches, went into the ring to reverse a decision by Referee Allen Parker, a wrestler who had been supplied by Steddum to officiate the match.

Parker, after first declaring the Curtis boys winners, allowed the battle to continue and later gave the match to the Steddum-Mobley combine. The melee failed to stop, and, when Kallio entered the ring to make it a wild six-man battle for a while, the promoter reversed the referee and handed the match to the Curtises.

Since Steddum was permitted to furnish the referee last week to salve his wounded dignity over what he charged was robbery by a Kallio-furnished official a week earlier, Curtis entered a request that he be permitted to bring in the referee this week.

"Steddum had his referee last Tuesday," Curtis said, "and I believe I should be allowed to furnish the official this trip."

"If Steddum wants to wrestle that way, it's all right with me," said Kallio. "I want good wrestlers and good referees. You furnish that and it's O. K. as long as it's not against the best principles of the game or the Louisiana state rules.

"If it hadn't been for Commissioner Silverstein you would have lost that last match. The only reason I came into the ring to take over from Steddum's referee was at the commissioner's request. Parker really gave you a bum deal."

But Steddum was all against Curtis bringing in any referee.

"Who is he going to get?" challenged Steddum, but before Kallio could answer, the Texan continued, "Oh, yes! I know. He's going to have that brother of his refereeing. But it's no go. Say, listen, do I look crazy? I've been around more than you think, and he isn't pulling any of that stuff with me. Sure, it's his brother he's figuring on using."

Steddum was so opposed to Curtis furnishing the official that that part of Curtis' request had to be stricken from the program.

Then the match was made when Kallio promised to bring in Claude Skidmore, Jackson, Miss., to handle the brawl.

For the semi-final attraction, Allen "Sailor" Parker, who caused all the fuss as referee last week, will come back as wrestler in a battle against Joe Corbett, recently campaigning in the middlewest as a cousin of the late Gentleman Jim Corbett, once world's heavyweight boxing champion. It will be the first showing here for Corbett.

The Curtis-Steddum main event will have a time limit of 90 minutes, and the semi-final, opening the show at 8 o'clock, will be over an hour time limit route. Both matches will go two falls to win.

McGehee Scrappers Shade Monroe, Bastrop Mittmen In Battles Here

Charles Stratford Stands Out As Local Welterweight Prospect

By Bert Hatten

In seven official bouts here last night, the McGehee, Ark., Boys Club emerged the victor over Monroe and Bastrop fighters with three wins and a draw. The score for the night was McGehee 3 1/2, Monroe 2, and Bastrop 1 1/2.

In the first three official bouts, Bastrop and McGehee tied up when they each claimed one fight and split a third. In the last four fights, Monroe fighters won two.

The hottest bout of the night was won by Charles Stratford, Monroe, 1932-pounder, facing McGehee's 142-pound Dale Allison. Though Stratford's opponent held a 10-pound advantage, he utilized his well placed punches and avoided the powerful rights of Allison in swift footwork to claim the victory. The Stratford-Allison fight was probably the outstanding bout of the night.

Tunney Bayles, Monroe, faced McGehee's Eddie Wright in an exciting bout which probably would have been decided in his favor had he not been knocked down during the last of the three rounds. Bayles showed an edge in all three bouts but the bout was decided in Wright's favor after he floored his opponent late in the third round.

In the 112-pound class, a spirited battle raged between Monroe's Eugene Dean and Grover Bass, McGehee. The bout showed pretty even until the second round when the McGehee contestant received a terrific punch to the nose, delivered by Dean's right. Blood trickled from Bass's nose through the remaining portion of the second round and through the third. Dean was favored in the judges' decision.

Lucky Pendarvis, fighting for Monroe, who suffered an injured foot earlier this month, was defeated by McGehee's Frank Warrington in a 100-pound class scrap. Pendarvis showed ring experience throughout the fight but his opponent, who held a slight edge in weight, pounded his way to victory.

In a close fight between Bastrop's Paul "Goat" Jones and Charles Pace, McGehee, another victory was chalked up for Bastrop. Both boys showed well in punching and maneuvering.

Both fighters, in the 100-pound class, devided their punches from mid section to facial blows.

The only draw fight of the night was staged in the 92-pound class, featuring Bastrop's Jimmy Ray and Charles Wright, McGehee. These two youngsters were swift in their movements and both seemed pleased with the judges' decision.

In the official 70-pound class, McGehee's Harold Wilson edged out on Bastrop's Thurston Walters. Their first two rounds were fairly even, but in the third round Wilson wore Walters down and emerged as the victor.

In addition to the seven official bouts, four exhibition scraps were staged. In one exhibition bout, Morris Ray and Bill Williams sparred in a three round match which did not come up to the expectation of the fans, as both fighters were former S. A. A. U. champions.

In addition to being a former S. A. A. U. champion, Ray held the Golden Glove's southern champion-

WILKINSON GETS FIVE-YEAR PACT WITH OKLAHOMA

Signing Of New Sooner Contract Ends Talk Of Move To Wisconsin

NORMAN, Okla., Jan. 15—(AP)—Bud Wilkinson, the University of Oklahoma's brilliant young football mentor, today signed a new contract as coach, athletic director and professor of physical education.

'Bud' Wilkinson

Dr. George L. Cross, president of the university, withheld terms on request of Wilkinson, but the contract assured his stay as head coach for at least five years and a longer tenure as athletic director.

It has been indicated that Wilkinson will receive $15,000 a year with a five-year contract as head football coach. It was also announced that raises were given Wilkinson's coaching staff.

Wilkinson's signing this morning ended weeks of speculation over his possible switch to another school. Wilkinson returned only last night from a visit to the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

The Oklahoma football team, under Wilkinson's skillful direction, won the Sugar Bowl championship from North Carolina at New Orleans New Year's Day.

Last season, Oklahoma won nine straight games and the Big Seven crown.

The successful season came in Wilkinson's second year as head coach at the university. He came to Oklahoma in 1946 as an assistant to Jim Tatum. Tatum moved to the University of Maryland in 1947.

ROCHESTER ROYALS NIP FORT WAYNE ZOLLNERS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Rochester Royals led from start to finish tonight in recording a 73-to-62 Basketball Association of America victory over the Fort Wayne Zollners.

A full house of 4,240 saw the home forces rack up their fourth straight triumph and take over undisputed possession of second place in the western division standings.

Bob Davies and Bill (Red) Holzman divided scoring honors, each rolling in 14 points for the Royals. Rochester played deliberate basketball in piling up period leads of 19 to 10, 40 to 27 and 58 to 40.

Set Shots and Lay-ups

Another of a series by foremost coaches written for NEA Service.

By Elmer Lampe
Dartmouth Coach

HANOVER, N. H.—(NEA)—This play involves only two simple screens, but Dartmouth has found it very successful when properly executed.

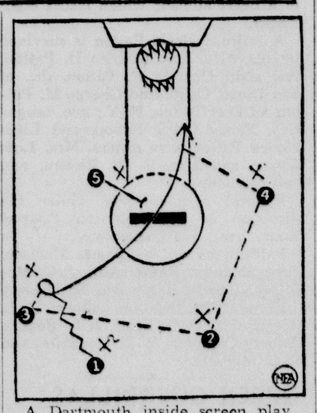

Elmer Lampe

Player number one starts the maneuver by dribbling in to his left, pivoting to form an inside screen for three. He hands the ball off to three, who immediately passes to two. The latter passes to four. At the same time, one breaks for the basket, passing close to five, who has moved out to form another screen.

One takes a pass from four, and drives in for a shot.

If one's defensive man sticks with him, he will be picked off when one drives by five.

The defensive men will probably try to switch.

A Dartmouth inside screen play.

Five's defensive man will have to hesitate to make sure that four does not pass to five.

If one times his cut properly, and runs close enough, five's defensive man will not be in position to switch in time.

NEXT: Yale's double-post play.

BASKETBALL OFFICIALS MEET HERE TOMORROW

W. C. Royce, named last Wednesday to head an organization of basketball officials in this section, last night called a meeting for tomorrow night at Northeast Junior College for the purpose of solidifying the officials' group.

The meeting will be held at 7 o'clock at the N. J. C. gymnasium with Nathan "Buddy" Blair, former L. S. U. basketball and track star who now manages the Vicksburg Baseball Club, again on hand to serve as interpreter.

"This meeting is open to all persons officiating basketball games whether they are college, high school, independent or recreation league contests," Royce said. "We want as complete representation as possible."

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(NEA)—Scout Bobby Mattick wishes he could carry a psychologist with him while seeking baseball talent for the Reds.

Bobby Mattick

"A player's mental attitude and determination are just as important as arms and legs," says the Cincinnati club's west coast operative. "They're both necessary. Haven't you seen player after player with remarkable mechanical ability flop in the majors?

"If a psychologist would look at prospects whom we consider good, or even mediocre, we could be on a lot better early ground than now.

"I'd much rather have a determined lad of average ability than an outstanding athlete without the will to win."

"What Mattick means," counters Paul Krichell of the Yankees, "is a mind reader. The best psychologist wouldn't know what was in a player's mind or heart."

"Every year there are 15 or more players in Class B leagues whom the smartest appraisers believe have a chance to crash the majors," explains Garry Schumacher of the Giants' front office. "They start even with those who come through, but they don't improve."

The Musials, Boudreaus, Joe DiMaggios, Willliams', Slaughters, Joe Gordons, Reeses and Henrichs are natural and instinctive ballplayers, of course.

When you get below them, the combatants can, generally speaking, be divided into two classes. One division is composed of those who play to beat the other guy. The other is comprised of those who play to beat the ball.

Men who play to beat the ball look grand making the routine play, but they do not win pennants.

Eddie Stanky of the Braves is perhaps the finest example of the group that plays to beat the other fellow. Danny Murtaugh of the Pirates is another.

Stanky and Murtaugh lack the latent ability of most stickout second basemen, but they never stop thinking and moving. They take into consideration who is pitching and batting, figure where the ball is most likely to be hit, etc.

They beat you.

While those qualities are highly important, Muggsy Stanky and Danny Murtaugh best of all illustrate that there is vastly more to baseball than hitting, throwing and running.

Some players step up their minor league game in the majors.

Major league baseball is a challenge to them. They rise to meet it.

Others are awe-stricken, never get started.

There are players who excel with second-division clubs who would be of little or no help to one shooting for it all. The latter job would be too big for them.

Paul Krichell is quite right when he says that things are tough enough for baseball foragers now without bringing in psychologists.

But every ivory hunter will agree that a mind reader would be of considerable assistance.

They'd give anything to know what's in a lot of players' heads.

CONERLY, POOLE WILL ATTEND REBEL AFFAIR

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Charley Conerly and Ray Poole of the New York Giants, Ole Miss football alumni, will return to their alma mater Tuesday night to watch three Rebel stars receive trophies.

The occasion is the third annual interfraternity council football banquet. The "Thomas Turner award," will be presented by Coach John H. Vaught to the "most valuable player" of 1948.

Other trophy recipients will be the best back and the best linesman of last season.

The Turner prize was donated by Rebel booster Thomas Turner—of Belzoni, former Ole Miss football player. The other two prizes will be given by the interfraternity council.

Gov. Fielding L. Wright will be principal banquet speaker.

Sports Editor Walter Stewart of the Memphis Commercial Appeal will be toastmaster.

Winnsboro High School Teams Victims In Championship Finals

SICILY ISLAND, La., Jan. 15.—(Special)—The Central High School boys of Franklin parish and the Oak Grove High School girls emerged as the new champions of the Sicily Island High School Invitational Basketball Tournament here tonight with Winnsboro High School's boys and girls their victims in the title finals.

The Central quintet, led by Crider, Boyd, and Jones, tripped the Wildcat boys, 35 to 18, and the girls from Oak Grove, featuring a top-notch forward in White, whipped the Winnsboro lassies, 39 to 26.

Miss White, the Oak Grove ace, was the outstanding player of the meet and was selected as the tourney's "most valuable player." She hit the nets for 14 field goals and five free throws to account for 33 points in the championship game.

Central and Oak Grove replaced the Natchez High School boys and the Baskin High School girls as champions of the meet. Forty teams participated, but Natchez and Baskin didn't defend their titles.

Other results today were:

CRICHTON WINNER OF SENIOR P. G. A.

DUNEDIN, Fla., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Marshall Crichton of Durham, N. C., won the senior P. G. A. golf tourney here today with a 73-72--145.

Crichton helped along his score by shooting a hole-in-one yesterday on the 147-yard sixth.

The tournament was for P. G. A. golfers above 50 years of age. Par on the 6,320-yard P. G. A. national course is 72.

Three veterans tied for the runner-up spot. Jock Hutchinson of Glenview, Ill., who was tied for the lead at the end of 18 holes yesterday, shot a 75 to wind up with a 146.

Tying Hutchinson were Louis Chiapetta of Sylvania, Ohio, with 72-74--146 and George Smith of Chicago with 73-73--146.

Hutchinson, one time British open champ, had a chance to tie Crichton for the title today on the final par-4 hole. He took a five after his second shot went into the trap.

In the third spot with 148's were Phil Turnesa of New York who shot a 73 today and Lloyd Gullickson of St. Petersburg who wound up shooting a 75.

INVERCORK TAKES OWNERS' HANDICAP

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A consistent sprinter, Invercork, owned by Mrs. V. A. Guerico of New Orleans, won the Louisiana Owners' Handicap over six furlongs at the Fair Grounds today.

With R. L. Baird aboard, Invercork nosed out Noble One, owned by Afton Villa farm and ridden by W. L. Taylor. Repand, owned by S. W. Labrot, Jr., and ridden by J. Combest, was third.

Invercork covered the distance in 1:12 in deep dust next to the rail. He was second choice in the betting to the Joe W. Brown entry of King Dorsett and Riverplane, and paid $6 to win.

A crowd of 8,429 pushed $349,257 through the mutuel windows.

STEELERS HAVE SOUTHERN PROS' 3 TOP SCORERS

Birmingham's B. Murphy, Lorance, J. Murphy Setting Pace For Cagers

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Birmingham Steelers, riding in second place in the Southern Basketball League, took the top three individual scoring honors this week, League Secretary Russ Melvin announced today.

Bob Murphy, the league's leading point maker last season, rolled into first place with 373 points. In 22 games he netted 166 field goals and 41 free throws.

In second place is Teammate Darrel Lorance, trailing 10 points behind with a total of 263.

Johnny Murphy, the third Birmingham player, piled up 359 points to take a close third. Of Murphy's total points 135 have been free throws which puts him just 10 charity tosses behind the record for one season now held by Shag Hawkins who dropped in 145 last season for the Steelers.

Hottest scorer in the league is Alex Athas of New Orleans who holds fourth place with 292 points. Appearing in 15 games the ex-Tulane star hit the hoops for a 19.5 average.

Last week's high-point man was Nashville's Felix Ray with 278 points.

NATCHEZ BEATEN

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Hattiesburg High School humbled the Natchez Rebels, defending Big Eight conference basketball champions, 31-27, in a basketball game here last night.

Three basketball stars are playing their last season for George Washington U. They are Maynard Haithcock, Dave Shapiro and Bill Cantwell.

MEETING CALLED FOR ORGANIZING SEMI-PRO CIRCUIT

February 15 Fixed As Date For Formation Of League In This Section

WINNSBORO, La., Jan. 15.—(Special)—Response to questionnaires sent out to neighboring towns of northeast Louisiana, south Arkansas and west Mississippi by the Winnsboro Lions Club in an effort to ascertain the desires of their neighbors in the formation of a strong semi-pro baseball league are beginning to trickle in.

Don Mayer and B. I. Berry, heading the baseball organization committee here, said eight of their questionnaires had been returned and that "two definite committments" were in.

Although the response is only a small percentage of the number of questionnaires sent out, semi-pro enthusiasts here feel organization of the proposed league is almost certain, and February 15 has been fixed as the date for the organizational meeting.

Mayer and Berry, in announcing the February 15 meeting date, said the place for the gathering would be announced later.

The West Carroll Gazette at Oak Grove came out editorially supporting semi-pro ball, and Oak Grove appears to be a strong possibility.

Rumors here are that Bastrop is planning a new field and team, and there is a strong possibility that Monroe will come through with a semi pro team.

A drive is on to build a park at Monroe where it is understood an effort is being made to revive pro baseball, but interested parties there will go for semi-pro baseball if they are unable to get into a professional circuit.

SHIM MALONE COPS SAN PASQUAL 'CAP

ARCADIA, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Shim Malone won the $50,000 San Pasqual Handicap at Santa Anita Park today before a turnout of 43,000 fans.

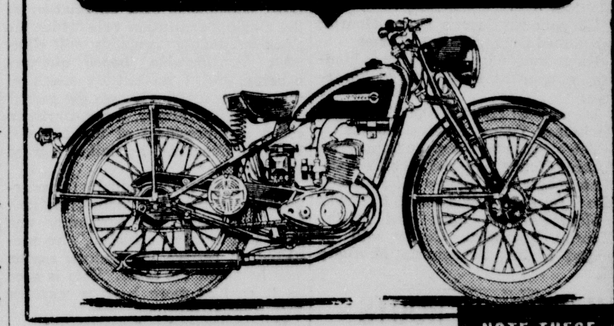

The heavily backed On Trust ran second, less than a length behind, the second time in a week he has just missed out on a fat purse.

Autocrat finished third in the 10-horse field.

Shim Malone, owned by the Rolling Hills farm of California, ran the mile and one-sixteenth over a muddy strip in 1:45 3/5.

Shim Malone, ridden by Ralph Neves, paid $26.60, $9.80 and $5.70. On Trust paid $5.20 and $3.50. Autocrat paid $3.80.

NAME JOHNSON VOL LINE COACH

'Farmer' Leaves Vanderbilt To Return To His Alma Mater

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Louis B. (Farmer) Johnson is Tennessee's new football line coach.

His appointment to succeed Murray Warmath was announced today by Head Coach Bob Neyland.

"We are very happy, and just as fortunate, to get Farmer at Tennessee," Neyland said. "It's always good to have one of the boys come back home and in this case we feel that a better choice could not have been made."

Following assistant coaching positions at the University of Mississippi, North Carolina State and The Citadel, Johnson was line coach at Vanderbilt the past three seasons. He was a Tennessee guard under Neyland in the late '20s.

Terms of his contract were not disclosed. He received $6,000 annually at Vanderbilt.

Warmath recently accepted appointment as line coach at the United States Military Academy.

GEORGIA BULLDOGS FALL BEFORE TIDE

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 15—(AP)—The Alabama Crimson Tide won its second basketball game of the year from Georgia tonight, 49-43, to move back toward the top of the Southeastern Conference.

The game was rough and the lead changed often. Forty eight personal fouls were called and five players were kicked out of the game for 500 many fouls.

In the final minute of play Alabama's Gene Palmer, Billy Dean and Dick McKenzie were ejected.

The victory gives Alabama four won, one lost record and Georgia a 3-2 mark.

Carl Shaeffer and McKenzie led the tide offensive with 16 and 11 points, respectively. Earl Davis and Bob Schloss scored 12 points each for Georgia.

Alabama got an early game 4-0 lead but Georgia quickly pulled ahead 7-5. The score was tied 9-9 but in the next five minutes Alabama took a 19-15 advantage. The Bulldogs came back just before intermission to make it Georgia 21, Alabama 20. The teams went out at halftime tied 21-all on a free throw by Palmer.

VANDERBILT ROUTS OLE MISS, 62 TO 49

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The Commodores of Vanderbilt made the best of eight minutes in a basketball game here tonight to defeat the University of Mississippi, 62-49.

Ole Mis stook an early lead and at half time led, 28-23, but the Rebs were unable to withstand the second half rush of the Commodores who displayed an excellent defense.

Vandy had 73 chances at the basket against 52 for Ole Miss, and the Commodores took command of about 90 per cent of the rebounds.

Eight minutes before the final gun Vandy led only 47-45, but from there on the game belonged to the Commodores.

Craig, guard for Vandy, was high man for the night with 18 points made off nine field goals. He made 12 of those points in the second half.

McMullen led the Rebs with 14 points from five field goals and four free throws.

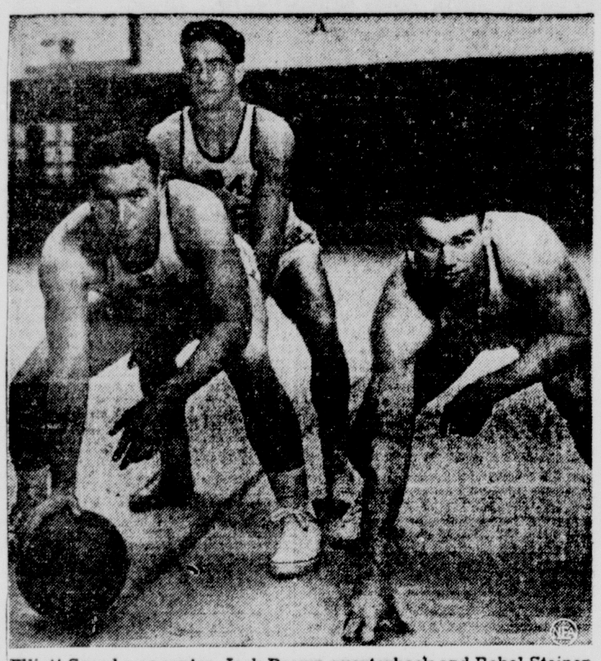

In a pre-game contest the Ole Miss freshmen defeated the Vandy freshmen, 53-49.

SUPER-SERVICE FOR LOCOMOTIVES

CHICAGO.—(AP)—A $2,000,000 "super" service station for diesel locomotives has been opened here by the Chicago and North Western system. Twelve locomotives can be serviced at one time and wheels changed in one hour from workers' platforms operated by pushbutton controls.

All five starters on Villanova's basketball team are juniors. There are four more juniors and three sophomores on the 12-man squad.

Elliott Speed was center, Jack Brown quarterback and Rebel Steiner an end on Alabama's football team. They frequently wish they could similarly put the basketball in play.

Platoon System Favored In New Grid Rules; 'Foot' Back Into Game

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP)—It looks as if the nation's college football coaches have put the foot back into football.

An Associated Press opinion sampling of several prominent college grid mentors on the rules changes instituted at the recent intercollegiate rules committee meeting in Palm Springs, Calif., brought out this unique angle today.

In a move aimed at sideline quarterbacking, the committee ruled that as many substitutions as desirable may be made whenever the ball changes hands.

The committee nixed the old rule permitting a single substitution when the clock was running.

So—if the situation screams for a punt, the coach had better have a good kicker in the lineup. If he doesn't, he's got to waste a time out to insert the punter.

Coaches generally agreed the new sub rules would lend greater emphasis to the two-platoon system popularized by Michigan and Army, and give more employment to more players.

Consequently, they foresaw larger squads. Schools with small squads likely would be at a disadvantage. South Carolina's Rex Enright commented:

"The change has made it very difficult for a small squad with only one punter to return this individual to the game when a punting situation arrives. It is impossible, however, through rule changes, to make the small squad strong."

Jules Sikes of Kansas agreed.

"The new rule will encourage further use of the platoon system. It will limit somewhat the use of specialists, such as punters."

"The new rule will encourage platooning and give advantage to the larger squads," Don Faurot of Missouri commented.

Bob Woodruff of Baylor predicted larger squads and more widespread use of offensive and defensive teams, permitting "more boys to participate especially those of special abilities," i. e., offensive or defensive specialists.

Jim Aiken of the University of Oregon, co-champion of the Pacific Coast Conference, disagreed, saying he thought the sub rule would "be an aid to the manpower of weak squads."

Bob Voigts of Northwestern's Rose Bowl champions, said elimination of the single substitution rule while the clock is running "probably will eliminate considerable bench quarterbacking, but I do not do much of that. The quarterback runs the game."

Leo (Dutch) Meyer, Texas Christian coach and president of the National Football Coaches Association, agreed with Voigts.

"While no coach actually quarterbacked his team last season, the new rule eliminated the possibility and thus will remove criticism," he predicted. "I believe the platoon system will be about the same. This is good as it enables more boys to exercise their special talents."

Meyer's remarks drew an echo of assent from Texas Coach Blair Cherry.

Howie Odell of the University of Washington said the sub rule change "definitely will encourage the two-platoon system and Washington will start using it for the first time."

Carl Snavely of North Carolina, a two-platoon man last season, said he believed more teams would resort to it in 1949. He approved legislation against "push-button" coaching. "I do not think it right for a coach to send in a new man on every play."

Other rule changes generally came in for favorable comment. These included (1) liberalization allowing runback of punts from the end zone, with no safety being charged if the player fails to reach his own goal line; (2) Encouragement of passing behind the goal line; (3) Clarification of clipping penalties and use of the hands; (4) Ruling T-formation quarterbacks taking center handsoffs are ineligible to handle forward passes later in the same play.

Frank Howard, coach of the Clemson Gator Bowl champs, said he favored the change ruling out a safety on an incomplete pass in a team's own end zone. "It cost us a safety against Missouri in the Gator Bowl," he lamented.

Concerning the rule permitting a receiver to run a punt out of the end zone, Voigts said he believed most players would elect to touch down the ball and be certain of getting it in play on the 20 yard line. Under the new ruling, the ball goes to the 20 if the player is downed in his own end zone, but goes into play wherever he may be dropped once he crosses his goal. Thus, he might be downed on his own one-yard line and lose 19 yards by his runback effort.

Ralph Graham of Kansas State said this ruling came as a surprise to him "I am not sure I'm in favor of it."

Graham also disagreed with James H. Stewart, executive secretary of the Southwest Conference, who appoints officials.

Stewart said he liked the new rules although "I think they will cut out the use of specialists on the scale of 1948 and I think most of the new rules are for the benefit of the defense, which needs help."

Graham, on the other hand, saw the new rules favoring the offense.

"I feel sorry for the defense, and I believe scores will be much higher next season than they were in 1948."

LONGDEN GROUNDED FOR BAD RIDE AT SANTA ANITA

ARCADIA, Calif., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Ace Jockey Johnny Longden today was grounded for five days, effective Jan. 18 for bad riding at Santa Anita.

The veteran was set down for failing to keep a straight course on Papagos in the fifth race yesterday.

The suspension, which expires after Jan. 22, does not keep him from riding stakes engagements previously contracted.

A total of 199 Southern Conference football players carried the pigskin for the 12 loop teams during the 1948 season.

LOUISIANA TECH QUINT BOWS TO S. L. I., 48-42

LAFAYETTE, La., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Southwestern Louisiana Institue's Bulldogs battled their way to a 48-42 win over Louisiana Tech tonight in a Gulf States Conference game.

The Bulldogs jumped off to an early lead and then lost it in the middle of the period, regaining it to lead 21-19 at halftime.

It was Southwestern's fourth conference win against two losses. Tech's R. C. Looney led the scoring with 12 points. Southwestern's Mort Elkind had 11 to pop the Bulldogs.

Clyde Catha and Hoyt Clark had nine apiece for the Bulldogs.

A U. S. FARMER LOOKS AT EUROPE

PARIS.—(AP)—Europe must look to science and education to boost its agricultural output. That's the opinion of 25 American farmers who have just completed a tour of nine European countries.

The tour was strictly a busman's holiday. Each of the 25 farmers—who work their own land in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and South Dakota—paid his own way.

Typical of the group—but insistent that he could speak only for himself—was Ralph Raikes, who farms 940 acres near Ashland, Neb. Raikes said that he and many others in the group had been especially impressed by the farms in England, the Netherlands and Denmark.

"We couldn't have told those people anything even if we had wanted to. They were right on the ball, doing everything they possibly could with what they had to work with, and maybe doing things we couldn't do in America to squeeze out every possible bit of production.

Machines Not Answer—Raikes said he didn't believe mechanization was the answer to European farming problems. He said that he stayed on a farm in France of about 500 acres and the owner had about 25 people working the farm.

"If they mechanize that farm—like I've done with mine so that I can work 940 acres with the help of three hired hands—what would the rest of those people do?" Raikes asked.

"The farms are all split up into little plots too. I talked to one German farmer who said he had about 30 acres—all split up into about 45 separate pieces, from 10 to 30 minutes apart. It's not economic and it's a terrible time waster. But anyone who tries to change it will have a big job on his hands."

Raikes said the cattle he saw in England were "first class. They have fine animals there." But it wasn't that way all over Europe. In France, Raikes said, "I saw cattle being fed and they were mostly poor quality."

Raikes felt French feeding practices left much to be desired because of shortages or lack of education. He said there was a general lack of proteins and apparently no one had advised farmers on the best way to fatten stock. "They'd never heard of oil cakes or meat scraps," Raikes said.

Grain Could Be Better — On the question of improved grain varieties, Raikes said there seemed to have been little progress in Europe. He said he found little organized interest in the subject. "I think that's where most of the extra food in Europe is going to have to come from—improved feed grains, better quality livestock and more efficient feeding practices with more proteins to make a balanced diet," he said.

REDS CLAIM NEW WHEAT VARIETY

MOSCOW—(AP)—"Kazakhstan Pravda" from Alma-Ata reports the development of a new variety of drouth resistant and cold-resistant winter wheat with high productivity. The wheat is called alborubrum 22311 and is particularly suited to the conditions of Kazakhstan—to its arid climate and deep winter frosts.

The wheat has been sown experimentally on large areas and gave excellent results, surviving where other types perished, and giving a generally higher harvest. The wheat was developed at the Krasnovodopadsk Agricultural Experiment Station in Kazakhstan.

Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons has stabled horses in the same barn at Hialeah every winter since the rebuilding of the track in 1931.

BASTROP MAN KILLED AS TRACTOR UPENDS

BASTROP, La., Jan. 15.—(Special)—"Red" Newton, about 45 years old, was killed instantly early this afternoon when a tractor which he was driving turned over on him 15 miles north of here.

According to Morehouse Parish Coroner Dr. J. N. Jones, Newton died of a broken neck.

The accident occurred on a rice farm owned by C. Tillbury while driving a tractor which overturned, pinning Newton to the ground. He was dead when rescuers arrived, the coroner said.

A resident of Bastrop for the past 20 years, Newton is survived by his wife and several children.

NEGRO IS POISONED WITH WINE AT BAR

A 25-year-old Negro sawmill employee, died late last night of poison witnesses said was given to him in wine by another Negro.

Police identified the victim of the poisoning as Clearnest Bolton, of 1104 North Seventh street, West Monroe.

The body was taken to the St. Francis Sanitarium shortly after 10 p. m. An autopsy by the coroner will probably be made later.

Witnesses in the Last Chance Cafe on North Seventh street, where the incident occurred, said Bolton died almost immediately after taking one drink of the wine.

Bystanders said his last words were: "Jasper done poisoned me."

Police, in the process of an investigation into the matter late last night, had not made an arrest.

DEATHS

CHARLES H. PATTON

BASTROP, La., Jan. 15.—(Special)—Charles Holley Patton, 49, a life-long resident of Morehouse parish, died in the General Hospital here today of a heart ailment which lasted eight weeks.

A railroad clerk, Patton is survived by his wife, Mrs. Charles H. Patton; two sons, Charles H. Patton, Jr., of San Diego, Calif., and George M. Patton, of Fort Totten, N. Y.; two daughters, Nancy Clark Patton, and Lilah Moore Patton; two sisters, Mrs. Lula Patton and Mrs. E. W. Bellem, and two nephews.

Funeral arrangements, under the direction of the Robinson Funeral Home here, are incomplete.

Pallbearers will be: James Madison, Fred Eldridge, Ray Griffin, J. C. McIntyre, George Halpy and Ed Massey.

Honorary pallbearers will be: O. L. Alexandria, C. G. Scott, J. L. Rogers, Aubrey Cumpton, W. H. Todd, Jr., and E. C. Mallette.

GREEK GUERRILLAS DO MUCH DAMAGE

ATHENS—(AP)—Markos' guerrillas have inflicted more than a quarter billion dollars worth of damage and devastation to Greek roads, railways, public utilities and buildings, since the beginning of the civil war.

According to the Greek government, the heaviest losses were caused to buildings, roads, agriculture products and equipment and livestock.

Joe Scarcelli, guard on the 1948 Villanova football squad, has landed a job as a junior scientist with a government agency.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures advanced in early trading today, but week end long liquidation erased the gains.

Closing prices were steady, 20 cents to 40 cents a bale lower.

Trading was quiet during the short Saturday session. Some of the early buying was attributed to price fixing against recent foreign sales of spots.

Middling 15/16-inch spot cotton advanced 50 cents a bale to 32.40 cents a pound. Local sales totaled 2,877 bales.

SPOT COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Spot cotton closed steady 50 cents a bale higher. Sales 2,877; low middling 26.65; middling 32.40; good middling 32.80; receipts 4,200; steack 350,800.

AVERAGE COTTON PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15/16-inch cotton today at 10 designated southern spot markets was 10 cents a bale higher at 32.48 cents a pound; average for the past 30 market days 32.24; middling 7/8-inch average 30.50.

New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Cotton futures moved within a narrow range today. Trading was quiet and mostly confined to nearby positions. Price fixing, in part against export sales and for domestic mill account, readily absorbed hedging and commission house selling. The quiet conditions in the market were attributed by traders to a desire to await further developments. Some indication of further export business in U. S. cotton was looked for.

Futures closed 5 to 45 cents a bale lower than the previous close.

EUROPEAN RADIOS BORROW FROM U. S.

British Required To Pay $4 Yearly For Listening Privilege

By William N. Oatis

LONDON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Like Americans, Europeans can turn to their radios and get gags, dance music, crooners and quiz shows.

Unlike Americans, many hear no advertising spot announcements or singing commercials—but they pay for the privilege nonetheless.

In the United States broadcasting is a competitive business. It relies upon advertising for its revenue. In much of Europe radio is a government monopoly which depends on license fees in the form of taxes from listeners.

In Britain and France these fees, with incidentals, supply sufficient funds. Britain, for instance, collects one pound ($4) a year on each of 11,000,000 radio sets. In Italy the difference is made up through sale of time to sponsors.

Elsewhere in western Europe radio may depart from this pattern, but the program sources are the same—home-grown culture and American innovation.

Britain, France and Italy lean to symphony, opera and chamber music. But the British radio also uses the tunes of Berlin and Kern and the records of Crosby and Sinatra, and the French picks up Negro spirituals from the voice of America.

Italy has soap opera along with grand opera. Spain has request dance band shows and "double-or-nothing" quiz programs. The Germans like American sweet music, the Swiss like American jazz.

European programs run long—up to two and a half hours each in Britain, three in Germany. They use many records and transcriptions.

Their timing is frequently off. Live concerts in Britain, France and Italy sometimes start and end minutes late. British programs often run short and the listener gets a minute or so of dead air.

Compared to their American cousins, Britons have fewer hours of broadcasting and fewer programs to choose from. The British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) has three national schedules, corresponding to American networks, and eight local stations. It operates between 6:30 a.m. and midnight.

The BBC's best rated popular program is a quiz show—Wilfred Pickles' "Have A Go."

Pickles has much in common with American quizmasters. He has a quaint Lancastershire accent, shows a friendly interest in his subjects' personal lives, asks them easy questions and supplies the answers.

But there the resemblance ends. Pickles gives no $10,000 prizes, refrigerators, mink coats or furnished houses. His "jackpot question" says two pounds—eight dollars.

British radio comedy stems from music hall vaudeville. In war-time, the United States sent it Jack Benny, Bob Hope and Fred Allen, minus commercials. It has never been the same since.

Profanity is something else again. Radio plays use it naturally. Actors, with studio approval, say "hell" and "damn." They even use that daring English word, "bloody."

BBC's domestic serials are unmelodramatic, its news generally calm, its sports coverage liberal. It broadcasts an adventure serial for children called "Dick Barton, Special Agent."

Two of its schedules offer mixed fare. The "third program" is strictly heavy stuff. Once "the third" spent four and a half hours on a broadcast of Shaw's "Man and Superman."

France's Radiodiffusion Francaise also has three schedules—light and heavy and popular music.

It has no news commentators, American style. In their place, it puts on a roundtable discussion—the nightly "Paris Tribune" hour.

Leading newspaper editors take part. Their hot arguments are a dinner-time delight.

Variety programs are popular and plentiful. Most stage and screen stars welcome an air spot for its publicity value. Maurice Chevalier not long ago was on every night for a month.

American radio men criticize French programs for poor technique, slack timing, scratchy records. Apologists blame low budgets, poor equipment and inexperienced personnel.

Italy's radio monopoly, RAI, has 26 outlets and two networks. It has its share of American style crooners, many of them disappointed opera singers, and its share of American style orchestras, fed by short wave or telephone line to other European countries.

But RAI accents serious music. It offers four to six hours of this daily. Its theme, nobody knows why, is the recorded song of a nightingale. Since 1937, it has been broadcast between all programs.

German radio is under control of the occupying powers. Berlin, hot spot in the cold war, is also the scene of a battle for listeners, mainly between the Russian-controlled radio Berlin and the American-controlled RIAS (Radio In American Sector).

The Americans say public opinion polls show that RIAS is winning easily—with only one-fifth its rival's wattage.

RIAS' American manager, William F. Heimlich, claims the big reasons are its objective news presentation and its superior musical programs.

Heimlich, who worked for WOSU in Columbus, O., before the war, says German programs differ from American mainly in (1) being longer and (2) including no gag shows.

He believes American music is changing German tastes. The Germans like Gershwin and Crosby, and their new popular composers copy the American sweet style.

The Spanish government operates Radio Nacional, in Madrid, and controls and censors all other stations in Spain.

Radio Nacional has a monopoly on news programs. It cuts the other stations in on a nation-wide network for its three daily newscasts and its pickups of official ceremonies and sports events.

Madrid broadcasting hours are 1:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Programs include stage plays and musicals. Advice from night spots and, now and then, classical and popular music, pickups to wives and sweethearts is a popular program.

MOSCOW REVIVES GUDONOV OPERA

MOSCOW—(AP)—A new rendition of the famous opera of Modeste Moussorgsky Boris Gudonov has had its premiere in the Bolshoi Theatre in Moscow.

It has as its finale Moussorgsky's scene of popular rebellion under the Kremlin walls which was left out of the previous version of the opera in the Bolshoi Theatre two years ago. At that time the theatre was severely criticized for the omission.

The new version of Boris Gudonov according to preliminary notices takes care to preserve Moussorgsky's own concept of his opera as having as its principal actor the Russian people. There is every reason to think that Boris Gudonov will be one of the most popular spectacles here this season.

The Wright Brothers' airplane was named for the village near which it first flew: Kitty Hawk, N. C.

U. S. APPROVED-PULLORUM PASSED BABY CHICKS
To stay first you must have the best. We have led in the production and sale of baby chicks in Mississippi for over ten years.
Last year, birds selected at random from our supply flocks were winners in both egg-laying contests and the Chicken of Tomorrow Contest.
When you buy baby chicks, buy the best. Buy Clayton's Famous Strains Baby Chicks.
We hatch both Broiler Type and Production Type baby chicks. Early hatched chicks are the most profitable chicks. Be sure and get our low January prices on chicks before you order. Write today for prices.

LITTLE THEATRE CURTAIN CALL

As the list of stage crew and production members of "Blithe Spirit", Little Theatres third production of the season to be given under the direction of Helen Allen, grows casting has been completed except for the role of Dr. Bradman. At Friday night rehearsal, newcomer Nikki Collins was assigned the part of Mrs. Bradman. Tall and slender with long blonde hair falling below her shoulders, curvacious Nikki should make the role of Mrs. Bradman very interesting.

Jan Marie Renaud and Kiki Gatzalous have been named on the props committee to serve under chairman "Dinie" Renaud and with Dorothy Elmendorf, Tom Hayes, Jr. will help Tom Serwich with the set design and stage and also the intricate lighting that "Blithe Spirit" will require for some of the more celestial scenes.

Rehearsal schedules have been worked out and until further notice the cast will meet on practice nights at the Red Cross Bldg., 200 South Grand St.

MEMOS FOR THE DAY—Friends will be glad to learn that Beth Breese is back in circulation after a week's illness. In her absence she has been missed on many counts and it is good to have her up and about again. . . . Latest reports tell us that Sara Helen Griffin, popular director of "Front Page", is much better, however she is still in the sanitarium . . . Our special orchid of the day goes to Elgin Boggs, shop instructor of Neville High School, who will build the wood work and arch way for the Ouachita Parish Cancer Society style revue luncheon and benefit scheduled for February 14th. . . . Irene Reid left by air and will be settling down in Chicago for the next three days for a meeting of the National Advertising Association. Lets commend her for the swell job she has done on gifts and promotion for the cancer society revue. . . . Add members whose helping hand has been missing this year; last years president Joe Kern and we understand his new son is taking up most of his time. Mrs. Kern the former Harriett Hirsch and Joe are pretty proud parents.

LITTLE THEATRE EXTRA—The bridesmaids dresses from the Clarice Slagle-Roy Johns wedding have been suggested by Bella Scherk Davidson as the perfect costumes for the two "Blithe" spirits in "Blithe Spirit." They were particularly lovely dresses and there were nine bridesmaids in the bridal party. Mrs. Slagle has graciously consented to loan Little Theatre Lee's dress for the play. However, in so short a space of time the other bridesmaids have either gotten married, gone away or scattered about until none of the other dresses have been located.

LITTLE THEATRE SKETCH

LAWRENCE J. HULIN—a genial and friendly citizen of Monroe who has long been a friend of Little Theatre and other civic organizations of the Twin Cities, was born in Lafayette and graduated from high school in Lake Charles. He has spent his entire adult life in the hotel business, starting with the Majestic in Lake Charles. He went from the famous old St. Charles Hotel in New Orleans to the Hodges-Tullos chain out of Shreveport.

He has been a resident of Monroe since 1929 when he joined the staff of the Virginia Hotel as assistant manager to J. L. Keenan. Lawrence succeeded to manager in 1945 when Keenan retired. He is a member of the Rotary Club, The Chamber of Commerce, Bayou DeSiard Country Club, The American Hotel Association and the Louisiana Hotel Association. His civic activities have included many charitable drives, serving last year during the Red Cross drive and this year he is found wholeheartedly supporting the Ouachita Parish Cancer Society.

The Hulins have three children. He enjoys fishing and all kinds of sports, especially football.

Boyle's Notebook

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Is a housewife more sentimental than a showgirl? Is a blonde warmer than a brunette or redhead? What does a lady bear do in a bar? Yes, a real lady bear.

These pressing problems of romance and animal behavior were settled in a single action-filled afternoon on the pseudo-scientific front.

And to think, when I was in college, my journalism instructor wasted time with such ethical queries as, "If you owned a small weekly newspaper and your leading advertiser got arrested for stomping a young orphan to death, would you print the story—or ask him for an ad?"

But to get back to the thermal nature of women and the barroom habits of the bears.

Six beautiful girls—a housewife, a business secretary, a college freshman, and three Broadway showgirls—were the subjects of the first test.

J. Harry Lange, 56-year-old salesman for the Hallmark Greeting Card Company, read each a sentimental, novelty, and humorous Valentine card.

Their reactions were recorded on a "Sentimeter," which is the nickname for "a continuous-balance electronic potentiometer." The machine scientifically records temperature changes of one-tenth of a degree in one-five hundredth of a second.

Well, guess what? The housewife registered "hot" on the sentimental greeting but "cold" for the novelty and humorous approaches. But that's no news. Any husband knows a wife can't see anything funny about love.

The secretary, on the other hand, registered no change at all. This may have been because she had been taught never to mix business and pleasure. Or it might be explained by the fact that Lang, after all, was to her only another bald-headed married stranger.

The reaction of the blonde showgirl to a lovey-dovey Valentine was only "lukewarm." The brunette, Norma Thornton, of Iowa City, Ia., registered "warm-hot." The red-haired lass, Abbe Marshall, was clocked at "semi-boiling."

But the blonde—Judy Sinclair, of Philadelphia—remarked:

"If they'll just give with a fur coat instead of a Valentine, I'll burn up the darn machine."

Then Lange himself climbed on the seat. As one showgirl read him a Valentine, the other two suddenly threw their arms around him and kissed him. He zoomed the machine's pointer up to "boiling." And who would that surprise? Everybody knows about bald-headed men.

Oh, yes, the bear.

Well, on the way back to the office I saw a crowd outside a bar. I went in and there was a trained Russian bear, standing behind the bar and wearing a white apron.

The bear was Russian. She was named Laura and weighed 375 pounds. She was drinking a mug of beer from Rita Colton, a television actress. One of the regular patrons was grumbling about the whole business.

"Give the bear a check," he grumbled. "Nobody lets me lap up beer free."

And I kept thinking about the decline of press agentry in old New York. Now if I were a press agent and wanted to stir up a little advance in Valentine's Day, I'd have done the whole thing different.

Why not invite Joe Stalin over and strap both him and Laura into the "Sentimeter" together and have them read Valentine cards to each other? Nobody really knows how sentimental a she-bear is. Or Stalin, the Russian he-bear, either.

That would be real news.

SEMESTER ENDS ON JANUARY 28

Northeast Junior College Near Close Of First Term Of Year

First semester's work at Northeast Junior College will end Friday, January 28, with final examinations scheduled during the four preceding days, Monday, January 24 through Thursday, January 27.

Enrollment for the second term will open in the library building at 9 a. m. Thursday, February 3 and extend through Friday, February 4, announced B. S. Hamner, registrar.

Students registering at N. J. C. for the first time are requested to bring their transcripts of credits, and all veterans beginning work at the college are advised to have their certificates of eligibility in order to enroll.

Basic beginning courses are to be included in the spring semester offerings to make college entrance at mid-term practical for persons who are completing their high school work at the end of the first term and others who are not currently enrolled at N. J. C., Mr. Hamner explained.

Courses available are included in the following curricula: arts and sciences, agriculture and home economics, commerce, biological and natural sciences including chemistry and physics, engineering, pre-medical, pre-nursing, pre-dental and pre-technician, music, elementary and high school teacher training, health and physical education, languages, social science, military science and tactics.

Students will register for the second semester according to the following alphabetical procedure: February 3, A, B, 9-10 a. m.; C-10-11 a. m.; D, E, 11-12 a. m.; F, G, 1-2 p. m.; H, I, 2-3 p. m.; J, K, L, 3-4 p. m. Friday, Mc, M, 9-10 a. m.; N, O, P, 10-11 a. m.; Q, R, 11-12 a. m.; S, 1-2 p. m.; S, 1-2 p. m.; T, U, V, 2-3 p. m.; W, X, Y, Z, 3-4 p. m.

Although the word "incunabula" means in its Latin orginal "swaddling clothes," "cradle" or "birthplace," it has come to denote books printed during the 15th century.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Mao Tse-Tung, hard-boiled and dynamic leader of Chinese communism, finally has announced his terms for peace with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government.

In effect they call for unconditional surrender and for a complete remolding of the nation.

The Chinese Stalin projects drastic communization for this country which houses close to a quarter of the world's population. What he envisages is one of the most violent upheavals China has known in its 3,000 years of history.

The constitution is to be rewritten in Red. "Bureaucratic" capital is to be confiscated. There are to be land reforms. "Reactionaries" are to be eliminated from government and army. All "war criminals" are to be tried, and he names the generalissimo and Madame Chiang first on the long list.

"Treacherous" treaties with imperialist nations are to be cancelled. These includes abrogation of treaties with the United States.

You understand why Mao singles out America when you know that he regards the United States as his chief enemy, next to Chiang's Kuomintang Nationalists. This is because of Uncle Sam's military aid to the Nankink government.

Clearly Mao speaks as a conqueror, a position which he may claim as the result of the sweeping victories by the Communist armies. He lays down the terms with arrogance and finality. Chiang can take them or leave them.

The big question is what attitude Chiang will adopt toward this ultimatum. Only so long ago as the year-end the generalissimo declared that he would make no abject surrender. He would fight it out along the Yangtze river between Nanking and Shanghai so long as possible and then, if defeated there, would withdraw to the great island of Formosa off the coast.

Prior to Mao's declaration there had been almost frantic sentiment among Nanking legislators for peace. Whether the cost demanded by the Communist chief is too great remains to be seen. It's safe to assume Mao doesn't give a tinker's dam one way or another, for he figures he has the Nationalist armies at his mercy and can dictate his own terms.

The 55-year-old Mao Tse-Tung is one of the powerful personalities of China. John Roderick, A. P. correspondent who knows Mao well, describes him as a curious mixture of peasant and intellectual. Poet and philosopher, he is a product of the 1911 revolution which overthrew the Manchu dynasty.

Mao was one of the founders of the Chinese Communist party. As a leftist he lived in hiding at times, and more than once fled for his life. Finally he retreated with followers into isolated Shansi province in northwest China and there established Communist rule on a big scale.

He was little known by the outside world for years Now he has emerged in full strength. He is fearless and physically tireless—a truly powerful leader. To those who claim his party is for Agrarian reform only he says:

"Make no mistake about it. Ours is a party of communism. It must be and will be our glorious goal."

Monroe Garden Club Has Camellia Show

Members Hear Murray Hudson And View Display Of Colorful Blossoms

Mr. Murray Hudson, prominent local attorney and amateur gardener, was guest speaker before the Monroe Garden Club on Monday afternoon. The meeting was held at a local hotel with Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Mrs. David Garrett, Mrs. John Sherrouse, Jr., Mrs. N. G. Gaston, Mrs. George Snellings, Jr., Mrs. W. R. Gates, Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Mrs. George Guerriero and Mrs. Joe Fuller serving as hostesses.

A display of hundreds of perfect camellia blossoms, ranging in color from the pure white of the Alba Plena to the deep toned Purple Dawn, had been arranged by the hostesses. These blossoms were from the gardens of Mr. Hudson and the club members.

Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, president, presided over the meeting and introduced the speaker.

Speaking on the subject "Camellias," Mr. Hudson stated that the growing of camellias is one of his hobbies because it affords him the opportunity of renewing old friendships and making new friends as well as the satisfaction gained from the successful culture of these plants.

Prefacing his talk with an elementary refresher course on the three component parts of the plant (roots, trunk, leaves) and their functions, Mr. Hudson told of his experimenting for the past two years in the field of growing disease-resistant plants. During this period, he said, he has abandoned the use of commercial fertilizer in his camellia gardens. He strongly recommended the use of compost fertilizer made from green leaves, grass clippings, kitchen waste and peat in preference to any commercial fertilizer. The claims of some of the exponents of this school of growing disease-resistant plants by the use of organic feedings were almost fantastic, he stated.

In the open discussion which followed, Mr. Hudson answered questions from the club members pertaining to soil, drainage, etc., for these plants.

Attending the meeting were: Mrs. Melville Hunter, Mrs. C. E. McKenzie, Mrs. George Guerriero, Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Mrs. T. G. Easterling, Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Mrs. G. L. Holloway.

McKenney On Bridge

Our Columbus, O., hand for today played by Frank Cordray of that city. Mr. Cordray is a brilliant player and merits special credits, as he has only 10 per cent vision as the result of a childhood injury. This does not prevent him from participating in bridge tournaments. He helped Mrs. Mary Flasher prepare the copy for her book for beginners, "You Too Can Play Bridge." Now he is planning a book on scientific bidding and skillful play.

Today's hand is an example of Mr. Cordray's skill at the card table. West doubled the four-spade contract and East opened the jack of hearts, which Cordray (North) won with the king. When he led a small spade East showed out, giving Cordray the bad news; but he played the nine from dummy and let West win the trick with the queen.

West returned the ten of diamonds. North won, led a spade to dummy's ace, then led the ten of spades. West won this with the king and returned the seven of diamonds, which was won in dummy with the ace. Now Cordray led a heart to his queen and cashed the jack of spades.

At this point the four players were down to the cards that are underlined. Declarer led the eight of spades. East let go a club, and the five of diamonds was discarded from dummy.

Now Cordray led the three of hearts to dummy's ace and returned the queen of clubs. West had only the king-jack-seven of clubs. He covered with the king, but Cordray refused to win. Then West had to lead from the jack-seven of clubs into Cordray's ace-eight.

Knecht-Nelson

Mr. and Mrs. John Julius Nelson of Lake Providence, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Charlotte Ann, to Mr. Ronald Knecht, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Knecht of New Orleans.

The wedding will be solemnized at a nuptial mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church, in Lake Providence, at 9 a. m., on Saturday, February 26th, with Rev. Father Joseph Gremillion officiating.

Miss Nelson was graduated from the Lake Providence High School, class of 1945, and attended the Louisiana State University for two years.

Mr. Knecht was graduated from the Jesuit High School of New Orleans and will receive his degree from L. S. U. at mid-term from the school of geology. He is a member of the Geological and Mining Society and of the L Club.

Mrs. Carl Alvin McMillan, Jr., of Beaumont, Tex., before her recent marriage was Miss Bonnie Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hayes of Farmerville.

McMillan-Parker

A wedding quietly solemnized in the First Methodist Church of Liberty, Texas, was that of Miss Bonnie Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hayes of Farmerville, La., and Mr. Carl Alvin McMillan, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Alvin McMillan of Houston, Texas.

The ceremony was performed Saturday, January 1, at eight o'clock in the evening with the Rev. W. H. Steele officiating.

Miss Peggy Knight, formerly of El Dorado, Ark., was her only attendant. She was dressed in a grey crepe dress with black accessories and wore a corsage of white carnations.

The bride wore an aqua crepe frock with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Howard Stansbury, former classmate of the groom at North Texas State College, served as best man.

Mrs. McMillan is a graduate of Farmerville High School and has been employed in El Dorado, Ark.

Mr. McMillan, a graduate of Sam Houston High School of Houston, Tex., is a student at North Texas State College at Denton, Texas, majoring in journalism. He was an active member of the Dramatic Club, ex-serviceman's fraternity, and other campus activities. He served two years with the Navy, and spent thirteen months overseas.

The young couple are descendants of prominent pioneer families of Union parish. Mr. McMillan is the grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Gus Perryman of Farmerville. They are at home at 1610 Ave. G., Beaumont, Texas. The bride is the niece of Mrs. Myrtle A. Parker of this city.

HOW TOTS LEARN SAFETY

By David Taylor Marke
(Associated Press News Features)

Parents can save their children many a bump and tumble, says Dr. Ethel B. Waring. It's all a matter of safety education.

Writing in the magazine, Safety Education, Dr. Waring, who is professor of child development and family relationships, New York State College of Home Economics, at Cornell University, declares many of the falls come when children are tired, hungry, irritated or disappointed. "When they act impulsively, trouble often follows. Without supervision or guidance matters may go from bad to worse until somebody gets badly hurt. With supervision and guidance, the youngsters may learn to control impulsive acts and to behave in ways that will bring them more satisfaction. All such learning operates as safety education," she says.

Some mothers in the earliest care of their babies have used a quiet, explaining voice as things happened at bath time, "Off shirt and in water;" at meal time, "Bib on and cereal;" when a toy is lost, "Gone—we will get it." The babies hear this inflection and become comfortable and happy. In time, the babies become so accustomed to this sequence that they expect to be comfortable and happy when they hear mother's voice in that explaining inflection.

A baby with such training is likely to control his impulses in a scene such as the following:

A mother starts downstairs with junior. Part way down he loses his rattle. He screams and throws himself backward with all his strength. What may happen depends upon whether or not mother is able to keep her balance and hold on to baby.

If baby is properly trained, says Dr. Waring, when he hears his mother's voice saying, "In a minute we'll get it," he'll expect to be satisfied after hearing that inflection and remain quiet in her arms.

Accidents can be prevented also, she says, if mother teaches junior to respect a quiet and firm "No." For example:

Take the toddler in the exploring stage, who can climb onto chairs and tables to reach about everything. He cannot discriminate between what is suitable for him to handle and what is not. He might throw some of mother's choice ornaments or dishes about. But he might check himself if from early babyhood he had heard that quiet, firm "no" as mother checked his movement when he reached for her spectacles, pulled her hair, threw his toast on the floor or gave his cereal dish a vigorous push.

However, even children who have learned some of these simple ways of controlling their impulsive behavior do not always restrain themselves. Especially is this true when they are tired or sleepy, hungry or uncomfortable.

Excitement greatly lessens a child's control over his impulsive behavior, too. One mother found that the happiest kind of play between her boys would suddenly become excited quarreling and fighting. This mother often separated the boys, explaining that they needed to be by themselves for a while. She helped each one to find a quiet activity. After a quiet period, they usually resumed their play together happily. In time, they learned that this procedure paid, and now one tells the other to go off by himself, or announces, "I guess I'll play alone awhile."

Such simple illustrations are commonplace, says Dr. Waring. They serve to suggest the many ways in which children can hurt themselves and others by impulsive behavior. Safety education consists of helping them to learn that their happiness will be brief and to learn what to do to be happy again.

MISS OCTAVE REGISTER WEDS JOHN F. DEVEREUX AT CHURCH

Miss Octave Register, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Register became the bride of Mr. John F. Devereaux, of Shreveport, in St. Matthew's Catholic Church on January eighth. The Reverend M. Bordelon performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. O. B. Register. Miss Register wore a light weight wool dress of mauve, with hat and gloves in mtaching color. The bouquet was an orchid arrangement on her prayerbook, with hyacinths caught in the ribbon streamers. The vocal selections of "Ave Maria" and the "Panis Angelicus" were rendered by Mrs. Chester DeCuir with Mrs. Raymond Spence as accompanist on the organ. The maid of honor, Miss Dot Horton, walked with the best man, Mr. Mike Devereaux; the bride's maid, Miss Mary Louise Devereaux, walked with the groomsman, Mr. John Vaughn. Mr. Keeney Devereaux acted as usher.

The bride's mother wore a grey crepe frock with a corsage of ranunculus. Mrs. Devereaux, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black and white silk dress with a corsage similar to that worn by the bride's mother. Miss Dot Horton, maid of honor, wore a grey wool dress with pink accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations, while Miss Mary Louise Devereaux, bridesmaid, wore a blue wool frock with pink accessories and a bouquet of pink carnations.

A reception was held in the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony.

A lace table cloth, and a centerpiece of white gladiolas surrounded by tapers decorated the bride's table.

Miss Dot Davis, Mrs. J. M. Head, Jr., Miss Sally Ann Hayes, Miss Martha Nell Chappell, Miss Mary Alice Golson, assisted in the serving, and Mrs. Mae Modes presided at the guest book.

The bride donned a traveling suit of blue with black hat and matching accessories, before the couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans. Mr. and Mrs. Devereaux will make their home in Shreveport.

Get Welcome Relief From Stomach Gas, Sour Food Taste

Do you feel bloated and miserable after every meal? If so, here is how you may rid yourself of this nervous distress. Thousands have found it the way to be well, cheerful and happy again.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

NEWS FROM PARISH LIBRARY

Now that the Christmas rush and the excitement of New Year's are things of the past, it is time about reading again. During the long winter nights as one sits by the fire, a good book is an indespensable companion. The Ouachita Parish Public Library is constantly adding to its collection of new books, with titles that should appeal to every type of reader.

During the year of 1948 the Ouachita Parish Public Library made a great deal of progress. The total number of books circulated during the year was 135,886. This was a gain of 42,610 books over the previous year. During the year 4,712 new borrowers were to the Library rolls. There are still many people in the parish who are not using the Library. It is your Library and you should take advantage of it. If you live in Monroe, come to 418 Jackson Street. If you live inWest Monroe, you will find the Library at 104 Cypress Street. If you live in the rural section of the parish, the Bookmobile serves you.

There are several very interesting new books of adult fiction. "High Towers" by Thomas B. Costain is based on the life of the Le Moyne family and is particularly interesting to Louisianians because two of the Le Moyne's, Iberville and Bienville were responsible for the early settlements in our state.

Brigid Knight, who made herself a large following last year with "The Valiant Lady", has written a new book which should be extremely popular. It is called "Southern Cross". The scene is South Africa from the time of the conflict between the settlers of Dutch descent and those of English parentage. This book is well worth reading.

"The Big Fisherman" by Lloyd C. Douglas has been long awaited. It is most interesting and paints a very vivid picture of the days of the Christian Church. The central chacter of the book is the apostle John. "The Big Fisherman" is a worthy successor to the "Robe".

"The Hearth and the Eagle" by Anya Seton is a most interesting book about an old New England inn and the family who lived in it for three hundred years. Miss Seton portrays character beautifully and her descriptive passages are lovely.

Followers of the Williamburg stories of Elswyth Thane will welcome the latest book of this series, which she calls "Kissing Kin". This book brings the family up to the verge of thte second World War.

Francis Parkinson Keyes, who seems to like the Louisiana scenes for her books, has called her latest novel "Dinner at Antione's". It is a modern mystery story and is interesting to read.

Readers of mystery stories will be glad to know that we have a number of new titles. They are "All Men are Liars" by John S. Strange; "More Beautiful Than Murder" by Octavus Roy Cohen; "The D. A. takes a Chance" by Erle Stanley Gardner; "Black Cypress" by Frances Crane; "The Cold Companion" by Jack Sher; "The Face of Hate" by Theodore Dubois; "Thinly veiled" by Mannix Walker; "Saint Errant" by Leslie Charteris; "The Second Burial" by Aaron Marc Stein; "The Careless Mrs. Christian" by Charlotte Russell.

These books and many others are available at any of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Be sure that you make the most of your library.

Recently Wed Couple Visits In Swartz

Mr. and Mrs. William Q. Cagle of Orange, Tex., were recent guests at the home of Mr. Cagle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Cagle of Swartz. Mrs. Cagle before the couple's recent marriage in Orange, Tex., was Miss Jean Johnson of that city.

MRS. MIKE JOHN IS HOSTESS TO READERS

The members of Reader's Clique were entertained in the home of Mrs. Mike John with the club president, Mrs. Edwin Crowley, presiding.

Mrs. John Simonton, a native of Hawaii, gave a most interesting talk on the islands of Hawaii. Attired in olden Hawaiian dress, called holaku, with beads (pikaki), made of tiny shells, Mrs. Simonton gracefully danced the true hula dance of the islands. The two selections were "Little Brown Gal" and "Lovely Hula Hands."

After this entertainment the members and guests were invited into the lovely dining room for coffee and sandwiches. Mrs. Edwin Crowley poured for the following members and guests:

Mrs. Clay Albright, Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mrs. Jimmie Harbuck, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. Mike John, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. B. J. La Cour, Mrs. Oliver Lowery, Mrs. Helen Menuet, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. A. G. Olcott, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. Walter Ryland, Mrs. R. C. Todd, Mrs. Ray Updegraff, Mrs. T. F. Wilson and Mrs. John Simonton.

Members of Reader's Clique entertained their husbands with a party at the La Casa Tea Room Dec. 22.

Members present were: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Archibald, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Crowley, Mr. and Mrs. Evans Ethridge, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Gill, Mr. and Mrs. James Harbuck, Mr. and Mrs. Mike John, Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Jordan, Dr. and Mrs. B. J. La Cour, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Masur, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Olcott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ryland, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Updegraff, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Wilson.

Guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bicknell, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. McDaniel, Mrs. T. A. Grant.

Eastern Star Installs Officers At Public Ceremony Recently Held

The newly elected and appointed officers of Louise L. McGuire Chapter No. 4 were installed at a recent meeting at the Masonic temple.

Following a piano prelude of Christmas music by the installing organist, Mrs. Georgie Cornett and a beautiful solo, "The Star," by Miss Jane Shea, the open Bible was presented and prayer offered at the altar by Mrs. Katie Zoll, installing chaplain.

Carter Cozine was the installing officer and was assisted by Mrs. Margaret Hartman, installing marshal.

Officers installed for the ensuing year were: worthy matron, Phyllis Cozine; worthy patron, John Bradley; associate matron, Cloma Ray; associate patron, Will Brandt; secretary, Arrah Culver; treasurer, Gertrude Johnson; conductress, Monnie Collier; associate conductress, Virginia Morgan; chaplain, Evelyn Bradley; marshal, Annie Lou Thrower; organist, Nell Bennett; Adah, Mattie Rogers; Ruth, Elise Baugh; Esther, Ruby Penton; Martha, Jennie Sullivan; Electa, Kathleen McDonald; warder, Jewel Earl, and sentinel, T. W. Ware.

An impressive candle lighting ceremony in charge of Mrs. Clara Benoit, junior past matron, was given honoring the newly installed matron and officers.

After the worthy matron's welcome and acceptance speech, a clever program was given in honor of the junior past matron and junior past patron. Marie Minard sang "Memories" and "Among My Souvenirs." An old-fashioned bouquet was presented to the junior past matron by Mary Claire Hanson, granddaughter of the past matron and past patron.

Secretaries' Club Has Recent Party At Home Of Marguerite Lindle

It was a festive occasion for members and guests of the local chapter of Secretaries International when they assembled at the home of Mrs. Marguerite Lindle recently for an annual party.

The club had as its guest Mrs. H. S. Chilton, who narrated Henry Van Dyke's story, "The Other Wise Man." After the story, games were played and prizes awarded. Each person present received a gift.

Present were: Mrs. H. S. Chilton, Mrs. Lois Hollingsworth, Mrs. Mae Modes, Mrs. Jeanne Hardin, Mrs. Johnetta Wilhite, Mrs. Marion Tetreau, Miss Alice Chilton, Miss Marguerite Lindle, and Miss Helen McDaniel.

Revitalize Your Holiday Plants

Just about this time of the year the Christmas poinsettia usually bogs down into a dry stalk and dejected blossom. You can preserve it for next year if you put it in a cool, dark place. In the spring, cut it back, repot and bury it in the ground or in a larger outer pot. When the weather turns cool next autumn, bring it indoors. It will probably bloom in time for Christmas, 1949. To preserve it's beauty when it does bloom, give it a warm humid place away from radiators or direct heat. It withers in direct sunlight and drafts. The blossom maintains its beauty longer in a temperature of between 60 and 65 degrees. Water moderately, judging by the shades of the leaves. If they turn yellow, you're keeping it too moist.

Robinson-Thrasher

The Brownville Methodist Church of West Monroe was the scene Friday, January 6, at 8 o'clock in the evening of the wedding of Miss Claudine Thrasher, daughter of Mrs. Mattie Thrasher and Mr. Willie J. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Robinson. Rev. T. A. Brown officiated at the ceremony. Smilax and tall white tapers, with baskets of white gladioli formed a background for the wedding party.

Soft wedding music was played by Miss Inell Charles.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Horace Thrasher, wore a simple designed suit of aqua gabardine with an orchid. She wore black accessories.

Mrs. Marie Parrish, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a blue suit with a corsage of pink carnations and brown accessories.

The bridegroom had as his best man Mr. Malcolm Stone of Ruston. Bob Branch served as usher and candle lighter.

Mrs. Robinson, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gray suit with a corsage of pink gladiolas. Mrs. Thrasher, the bride's mother, wore a green suit. Following the ceremony a reception was held after which the couple departed for the wedding trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will make their home in this city, where Mr. Robinson is employed with the Brown Paper Mill.

Jernigan-McDuffie

Miss Jo Ann McDuffie, daughter of Mrs. Marie McDuffie and the late Mr. McDuffie, was married recently to Mr. Cecil Jernigan of Montgomery, Ala., in a double ring ceremony performed at the home of the bride's mother.

The Rev. C. C. Cadwallader officiated at the ceremony, performed before a mantel decorated with white tapers, magnolia leaves and flanked by large standards of white gladioli.

Miss Dorothy Bynum, who was accompanied by Miss Annere McDuffie, sang, 'Oh Promise Me" and "Because."

The bride wore a mauve colored suit with navy blue accessories, and she wore a corsage of baby orchids. She was given in marriage by Mr. C. K. Crandall.

Miss Polly McDuffie was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant while Mr. James M. Hamilton served the groom as best man.

A reception followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Jernigan is a graduate of Neville High School and attended Northeast Junior College. She also is a graduate of a local school of nursing.

PARKVIEW BAPTIST CHURCH
OCCUPIES NEW HOME

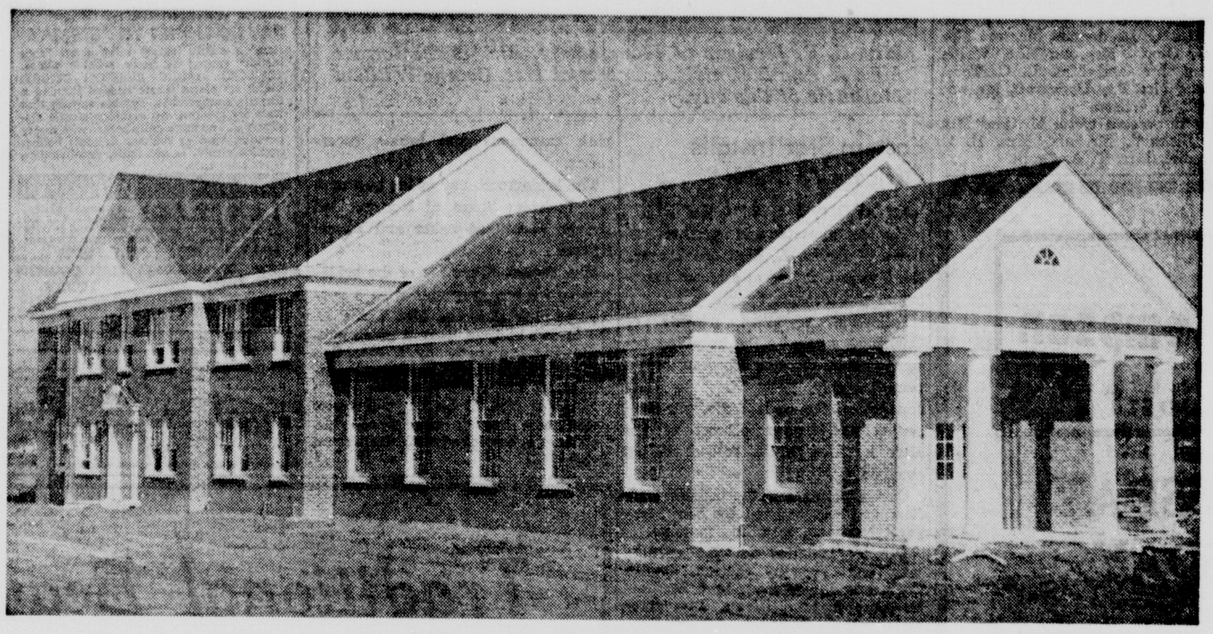

COLON P. COAKER
Pastor

The Parkview Baptist Church will move into her new building today, January 16. To celebrate this occasion special services will be conducted. At the morning service, which begins at 11:00 a. m., an appropriate program will be rendered. Closing the hour will be a message by the pastor, emphasizing the meaning of the occasion. In the afternoon, 3 to 5 p. m., Open House will be observed. The evening hour, starting at 7:30 p. m., will begin a series of revival services, Dr. C. E. Autrey bringing the evangelistic messages. Mr. J. A. Lindsay will be in charge of the music, assisted at the piano by Mrs. E. W. Cruse. These services will continue through Sunday evening, January 23. In all the services there will be the attitude of thanksgiving to God for the glorious manner in which He has led the church.

This occasion, made possible under the leadership of the Lord, is one the congregation has earnestly prayed for and looked toward for two and one-half years. It is a time for much rejoicing, and everyone is truly thankful to God for His blessings. It means that the church now has a beautiful house of her own in which to worship. The structure, inspired by the Lordship of Jesus, is an admirable expression of love and sacrifice on the part of the membership. With them, many friends outside the church have contributed generously to the cause. It also means an opportunity to better serve the spiritual needs of the community. To this end the church dedicates herself, and offers her facilities and the personnel of her organizations in the service of God to YOU.

To make this celebration complete, the church is anxious to have as many of the members, former members, and friends in attendance as possible. This is your special invitation to be with us. We hope you will come. It will be a happy occasion for all to enjoy Christian fellowship on this Lord's Day.

PARKVIEW BAPTIST CHURCH

The picture shown above is an exterior view of the first unit (Chapel Section) of the Parkview Baptist Church, located at the corner of Forsythe and Willow Street (10th), next to the golf course. It is located on a part of the lot owned by the church, 300'x282' in size. The architect, Smith and Padgett, Monroe, Louisiana.

The unit was planned, under authority of the church, by a Building Committee, composed of Walter Ryland, Chairman, George Hill, S. B. Archibald, R. L. Prophit, Mrs. A. P. Lassiter, W. C. Oliver, Mrs. Evelyn Smith, Ira Cagle, E. W. Cruse (Honorary), Carlton Salley and Ivy Jordan. The Brotherhood of the church sponsored the raising of the necessary funds, under the leadership of its finance committee, J. W. Womack, Chairman. Construction was under the supervision of Ira Cagle, Carlton Salley and Ivy Jordan. Furnishings and color scheme were selected and designed by T. H. Scott, Chairman, Mrs. S. B. Archibald and Mrs. E. W. Crowley.

MEDICAL AUXILIARY HEARS TALK ON LEGISLATION AT MEETING

The monthly luncheon meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Ouachita Parish Medical Society was held at a local tea room Thursday.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale addressed members on legislation affecting the physicians of the United States, specifically discussing the national health program which will be presented to congress this session.

Chairman of the meeting was Mrs. J. E. McConnell, assisted by Mrs. C. P. Gray, Sr., Mrs. John Snellings, Mrs. James W. Schonlau, and Mrs. Haydn Cutler. Mrs. H. V. Collins arranged the colorful table decorations.

The following members attended:

Mrs. D. L. Anderson, Mrs. R. T. Armstrong, Mrs. W. L. Bendel, Mrs. A. L. Brin, Mrs. E. L. Carroll, Mrs. W. M. Causey and Mrs. H. V. Collins.

Mrs. F. Connelly, Mrs. C. R. Cookston, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. Haydn Cutler, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Jr., Mrs. Henry Guerriero, and Mrs. Scott Hamilton.

Mrs. N. Klam, Mrs. J. D. Kelly, Mrs. B. J. LaCour, Mrs. C. M. Lobrano, Mrs. Fred Marx, Mrs. J. E. McConnell, Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Mrs. D. T. Milam and Mrs. Arthur V. Miller.

Mrs. J. W. Murphey, Mrs. P. L. Perot, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. James W. Schonlau, Mrs. Morgan Simonton, Mrs. Ralph Talbot, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. J. E. Walsworth, Mrs. Cyril Yancey and Mrs. Nat Spencer, a guest.

Twin City Council Of Church Women Meets And Hears Report

The executive board of the Twin City Council of Church Women met on Friday at a local hotel.

Mrs. Fagen Cox gave a report on the state meeting held in New Orleans January 5.

It was voted to write to Miss Frances Flanders, expressing the club's interest and hearty cooperation in the newly organized Negro parish library. It was also voted to give $5.00 to the sick and loan shelf.

World day of prayer will be held in the Memorial Presbyterian Church in West Monroe the first Friday in Lent, it was announced.

Friedman-Boone

Miss Mattie Lee Boone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Boone and Mr. Leo A. Friedman, both of Tallulah, were married Saturday January 8 at 3 p. m. in New Orleans.

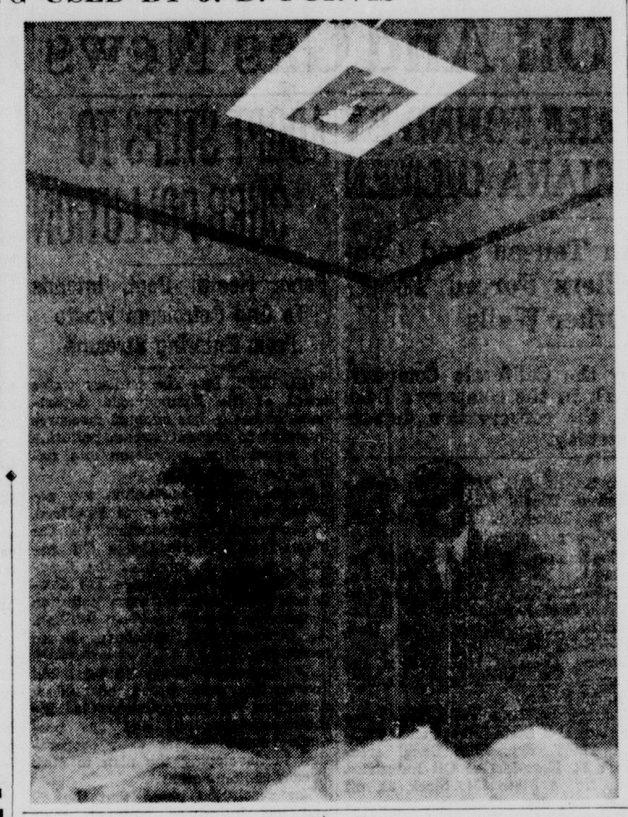

At 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, December 29, at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, Miss Dorothy Terry, daughter of Mrs. Dora Murphey and Robert Terry, became the bride of Herman Bernard Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Wilson, in an impressive ceremony. Rev. A. T. Mitchell was the officiating minister for the ceremony witnessed by members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends.

The date was of sentimental significance to the bridegroom as it was his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Miller, Sr., 51st wedding anniversary, bpth ceremonies being performed in Ouachita parish. Among those attending were Miss Mamie Dana, Mr. James Darnell, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Moore, Mrs. Dora Murphey, Mr. Jessie Whiteside and Miss Mary Frances Wilson.

BOOK PROJECTOR BEING USED BY J. D. PURVIS

The book projector donated to the Ouachita Parish Public Library recently by the North Monroe Lions Club, was put into use for the first time this week and provided much pleasure in reading to J. D. Purvis, who was seriously burned when a train struck the butane truck he was driving in October.

The projection on the ceiling in the picture to the right illustrates the machine in operation making it possible for persons unable to handle regular books to lie in bed and read a book by merely pressing a button.

FIRST BOOK PROJECTOR USER ENTHUSIASTIC OVER READING

J. D. Purvis, Victim Of Accident, Fire, Says 'Time Literally Flies'

"There's nothing that can top the book projector for those who are confined to bed," according to J. D. Purvis, the first local user of the Ouachita public library's newly acquired projector.

Purvis, who has been confined to bed in a local hospital since he was seriously burned on October 18 when his butane truck was struck by a Missouri Pacific train at the Powell street intersection, testified that the projector "is the only thing that I've found that makes the time literally fly by."

"It works as good in the day time as it does at night," he pointed out.

Though the 38-year-old West Monroe man will have been in the hospital three months next week, he hasn't for once lost his sense of humor and interest in everyday happenings.

Immediately after the projector was delivered to Mr. Purvis' room, he began reading "Man Eaters of Kumon" by Frank Corbett which he finished that night.

Despite the bandages on Purvis' legs and arms, he says, "it's no trouble at all to just push the control button on to the next page."

Reading is even more rapid with the projector, he says, since the print is much larger.

Purvis, who had one of the most narrow escapes imaginable has not been told when he will be discharged from the hospital, but for the next two weeks, he will have access to the book projector.

Unselfishly he asserted that it would be passed on to whomever was next on the library's waiting list.

Miss Frances Flanders, Ouachita parish librarian, said the library hoped to be able to accommodate more people who are unable to use ordinary books, but at present the library only has the one ceiling projector.

It was donated to the library by the North Monroe Lions Club which also contributed 17 microfilmed books, eight of which are now being used.

To date, 51 microfilmed books have been ordered, according to Miss Flanders, and 34 have arrived.

Many of the microfilmed books have been given in memory of departed friends or relatives. She added, "there's no lovelier way to perpetuate the memory of a departed friend."

Publishers, the librarian pointed out, allow their books to be microfilmed on a royalty free basis and manufacturers are selling the projectors on a non-profit basis, in order to keep them from getting into commercial use, which makes it fit in with the broader concept of library service.

Books given in memory of Dr. C. P. Gray include: "The Bayous of Louisiana," by Harnett T. Kane; "Getting Acquainted With Chemistry," by Alfred Morgan; "The River Road," by Francis Parkinson Keyes; "The Story of Peter Rabbit," by Beatrix Potter; "The Story of Baber," by Jean de Brunhoff; "The Singing Tree," by Kate Seredy; "Good Night Sweet Prince," by Gene Fowler; "Toil of the Brave," by Inglis Fletcher; "A Book of Americans," by Stephen Vincent and Rosemary Benet; "Little Black Sambo," by Helen Bannerman; "Wee Gillis," by Munro Leaf; "Ben and Me," by Robert Lawson; "Trumpet to Arms," by Bruce Lancaster.

Three other titles have been given in memory of Dr. Gray, but they have not been received at present.

These books were given by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Frantom, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Guy P. Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Huey, Mrs. Mary Vaughn Peavy, Miss Frances Flanders, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Montgomery, Mrs. W. B. Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wyatt, Miss Marie Powers, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Layton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Landreaux gave the book, "Get Thee Behind Me," by Hartzell Spence in memory of Mr. Fred Green. They also gave "All Season's Afield With Rod and Gun," by R. R. Camp, in memory of Mr. Phil S. Smith.

Microfilmed books given in memory of Mr. Sig Masur are:

"Complete Book of Marvels," by Richard Halliburton; "Sandy," by Elizabeth Janet Gray; "Safari," by Martin Johnson; "The Green Years," by A. J. Cronin; "Understood Betsy," by Dorothy Canfield Fisher; "The Story of George Gershwin," by David Ewen; "Yankee Storekeeper," by R. E. Gould; "Captain Horatio Hornblower," by C. S. Forester; "Five Passengers from Lisbon," by Mignon Eberhart; "A Lantern In Her Hand," by Bess Streeter Aldrich.

Two other books also given in memory of Mr. Masur are expected to arrive within a few days. Friends of Mr. Masur who donated books included: Mr. and Mrs. Guy Stubbs, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Layton, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Huey, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wyatt; Mrs. W. B. Clarke, Mrs. W. N. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. O. N. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, Mr and Mrs. John S. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. George Snellings, Jr.

Dr. and Mrs. A. G. McHenry gave three titles to the library. There were in memory of Mrs. Mary Humble Burleigh, William Burleigh and Mrs. Clara Louise Larsen. The books have been ordered, but as yet have not arrived.

Miss Flanders request that anyone having a friend or relative who is too ill to use an ordinary book, write to the library and ask that they be put on the list to borrow the ceiling projector. Be sure to give all of the details of the case and the name of the confined persons physician, the librarian added.

The North Side Lions Club donated the following books: "The New York Yankees," by Frank Graham; "The French Powder Mystery," by Ellery Queen; "Man Eaters of Kumoon," by Frank Corbett; "I Never Left Home," by Bob Hope; "Rabbit Hill," by Robert Lawson; "The Book of Claudia," by Rose Frankin; "The White Dress," by Mignon Eberhart; "Lassie Come Home," by Eric Knight.

BLOOD DONORS HEREIN LISTED

Judge Harper Gives Names Of All In December Who Aided Cause

Judge W. M. Harper, chairman of donor recruiting, for the blood bank, maintained by the Ouachita Parish Red Cross, has just reported on December results. He explains these were low because of the holiday period. Now that holidays are over he urges that donors willing to share in this work telephone 6780 and make registration.

Emphasis is given to those devoted persons who have given of their blood for the seventh, sixth, fifth, fourth and third time. This greatly appreciated and the service that they have given can never be measured in dollars and cents.

The donors are as follows:

CONFERENCE ON BIBLE ARRANGED

Colored Film Strips And Slides To Be Shown At College Place

College Place Baptist Church, 301 Sherrouse Avenue, will observe its annual Bible Conference Week beginning Sunday morning with the pastor, Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Jr., leading the discussion of the Gospel of John. Plans have been made for colored picture film strips and slides to be shown in connection with these special Bible studies Sunday through Wednesday evening with services beginning promptly at 7:30 p.m.

Printed outlines of John's Gospel have been prepared and will be presented free of charge to those interested in having one. L. L. Price, Sunday School superintendent, is vitally concerned that all teachers and officers of the Sunday School attend these meetings as the studies count toward a Sunday School worker's diploma.

The Bible lessons will be adapted to children and of course the public is cordially invited to attend. The well equipped nursery will be maintained during the week.

Season veal cutlets with a little powdered rosemary, saute in a little fat, and then simmer until tender in sour cream.

CLASSROOM HAS TEACHER MEET

Approves Federal Aid And Education Bill But Not Socialized Medicine

The Ouachita Parish Classroom Teachers Association went on record at the regular meeting, Monday evening, as supporting the federal aid to education bill. They also voted their support of the federal library bill and the public health services (not socialized medicine) act now before congress.

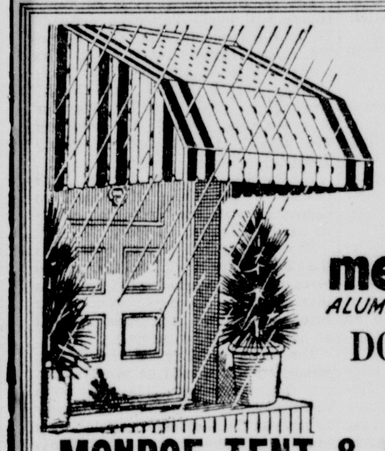

Miss Annie Wall gave an excellent report of the Fifth District Classroom Teachers meeting. Other reports given by Mrs. Joe Coleman, courtesy committee; Miss Una Wallace, research; and Mrs. Frances Manning, legislative.

Mrs. Sara Hollingsworth, president, announced the appointment of the following committees: Legislative, Mrs. Helen Ortes, Mrs. Frances Manning and Fred Stricklin. Program: Mrs. Ruth Poimbeouf, Mrs. Sarah Yates and Miss Mabel Lann; research; Leon Marks, Miss Una Wallace and Miss Mary Lea George; hospitality: Mrs. Theresa Lomax, Miss Carolyn Green and Mrs. George Welch; publicity: Mrs. G. B. Wilson, Mrs. Lenore Jones and Mrs. Anna Rinehart; resolutions: Mrs. J. E. Sapp, Mrs. C. H. Tait and Mrs. Mary Roberts; courtesy: Mrs. Melba Bounds, Mrs. Joe Coleman and Miss Betty Sue Shields.

Miss Dorothy French, treasurer, gave a detailed report. The secretary announced the following calendar for the year:

The O. P. C. T. A. council will meet in Room 108, Ouachita Parish High School at 4:15 p. m. on the following dates: February 10, March 24 and May 5.

The regular meetings of the O. P. C. T. A. will be held at 7:30 in the auditorium of the Ouachita Parish Grammar School on the following date: February 14, March 28 and May 9.

Freezer—The freezer is made of stainless steel and cannot rust, chip, or flake. A spring-action door hinge holds the freezer door in either an open or closed position.

We Maintain a Complete SERVICE DEPT. On All Refrigerators

Temperature Control—The entire operation of the refrigerator is controlled by a single knob, which provides for a wide-range adjustment of freezing speeds. Moderate refrigeration continues even during defrosting.

Sealed-in Refrigerating System—This refrigerator is powered by the AC-82 mechanism. This mechanism is hermetically sealed-in-steel to protect it from air, dirt and moisture, and it never requires oiling. Electric power is carried to the mechanism through metal glass leads, which provide a permanent seal. All joints are silver soldered. This sealed-in system is covered by a five-year protection plan.

PILGRIMAGE WILL START MARCH 5

NATCHEZ, Miss., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Tours of antebellum homes, and the Confederate pageant depicting Natchez during the steamboat era when it was the pride of a great cotton empire, will highlight the annual pilgrimage which gets under way here March 5.

Miss Sophie Junkin, a junior at the University of Mississippi, and Marion G. Stewart, Jr., a World War II veteran, will reign as king and queen.

Miss Junkin is the daughter of State Rep. and Mrs. John R. Junkin of Natchez.

Young Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion G. Stewart.

The queen and her consort were chosen by the Natchez and Pilgrimage Garden clubs, co-sponsors of the pilgrimage.

Tours of the 31 beautiful old homes will be culminated by the Confederate tableaux at which the king and queen will be entertained by a royal ballet.

It was not until fifty odd years after the passing of the steamboat's greatest glory that Natchez was again acclaimed a mecca of antebellum charm in the nation.

In 1932, through organization of the first pilgrimage, visitors again began to throng the historic old city settled by the French before the founding of New Orleans.

Natchez was the first capital of the Mississippi territory and during the keel boat era of the river was the port to which traders floated their furs and produce for shipment to other nations.

The old Natchez Trace, an Indian trail, was the artery over which the traders returned to their homes in the Pittsburgh territory. The trace now is being restored as a national parkway, connected with the Old Wilderness road at Nashville.

The month-long pilgrimage season ends April 3.

Let the youngsters in your family make their own colored sugar for topping cookies or cake or pudding desserts. All they have to do is rub a drop or two of vegetable coloring into a little granulated sugar.

Ancient Romans used much incense, offering it daily in private to family gods and in public sacrifices sprinkled it on the heads of victims.

TWO PRODUCERS ARE FOUND BY NORTHEAST LOUISIANA OILMEN

New Wells Are Sited In Tensas And Concordia Parishes; Drillers Forced To Abandon Four Other Wells

A new producer, claimed by the California Company, was brought in over the past week in the company's Lake St. John field in Tensas parish, the conservation department's weekly report showed yesterday.

The new well, sited in 26-9-10E, was brought in at a depth of 9,145 feet with an output of 294 barrels.

The only other producer unearthed by drillers last week was the California Company's F. D. Brown No. 9 in 2-9-10E of the Lake St. John field in Concordia parish. Found at 3,413 feet, the new producer yielded 17.6 barrels per day.

Drillers abandoned four wells last week.

They were listed as: The Union Production Company-Crossett Co. No. A-4 in 30-23-6E of Morehoupse parish; the C. M. Bagley Company's Haynes No. 1, in 21-23-1W of a wild cat strike in Union parish; the Mitchell T. Halbouty Company's Byers No. 1 in 13-16-7E of the Big Creek field in Richland parish, and the Union Oil Production of La.-J. R. Radford No. 1 in Catahoula parish.

The only new location setup was the W. T. Murray Trustee Zimmerman No. 12 in 25-10-1E of the Tullos Urania field in LaSalle parish.

State Report

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 15.—(AP)—The state department of conservation in its weekly oil report today listed completion of 38 wells with combined initial daily production of 3,927.52 barrels, abandonment of 18 tests and issuance of permits for 48 new wells.

Completions were:

Acadia parish, North Tepetate Field, Atlantic Refining Co. No. 2 gas unit No. 3 (Brown), S11-7S-2W, 74 bbls., gas-distillate, 9/64" choke.

ADOPT STEPS TO CURB POLLUTION

Penn. Health Dept. Intends To End Petroleum Waste From Entering Streams

OIL CITY, Pa.—The sanitary water board of the Pennsylvania department of health has adopted measures intended to prevent stream pollution by wastes from petroleum and natural gas production.

Notification of the action was received by J. P. Jones of Bradford, Pa., director of production for the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association and chairman of the Bradford District Pennsylvania Oil Producers Association's stream pollution abatement committee, from William A. Gorman of Harrisburg, board secretary.

At the same time, Gorman told Jones, the state board adopted a resolution of appreciation to the commonwealth's oil and gas producing industries for their cooperation in developing the plan to curb stream contamination.

The resolution noted that the oil and gas industries "through their several associations have publicly recognized their obligation to reduce to a practical minimum, stream pollution resulting from their operations, particularly through improved methods for preventing the escape of polluting substances, and to this end have proposed to this board the adoption of certain practical requirements which have been of substantial assistance to the board in the formulation of its rules and regulations governing the disposal of wastes from oil and gas wells."

The resolution concluded with a request to the industries for continuance of the cooperation already shown, particularly in self-policing of operations.

The studies leading to the state board's adoption of a code for guidance of producers in abating stream pollution from oil and gas wastes were initiated by the Bradford District Pennsylvania Oil Producers Association. Its recommendations received the endorsement of the Pennsylvania Grade Crude Oil Association and the Middle District Oil Producers Association of Oil City.

Although the text of the rules and regulations adopted by the sanitary water board and their effective date were not immediately available, Mr. Jones said the recommendations submitted by the oil and gas associations called for provision to be made for pits in which oil wastes could be accumulated and then burned. Also included were plans for settling and overflow devices to remove sediment and guard against washing out of wastes by stream flow.

Association officials said copies of the new regulations will be distributed to producers as soon as available.

BOOK SUGGESTS USE OF LOG FORM

Recommends Use Of Form In Recording Data Obtained From Surveys

DALLAS, Tex.—The division of production of the American Petroleum Institute has announced publication of a recommended practice for a standard radioactivity log form for use in recording the data obtained from radioactivity surveys of deep wells.

The log form was drawn up to ensure adequate and uniform reports so that the information collected could be interpreted properly now and in subsequent years.

It was pointed out that the division wants to avoid the mistakes of early-day electrical logging when various forms were used, many of which lacked sufficient information to interpret in the light of later developments.

The new radioactivity log embraces all the information that is expected to be pertinent now or later.

The recommended practice was sponsored by the topical committee on production technology and was developed originally by the Pacific Coast division subcommittee on Core analysis and well logging.

Copies of the recommended practice are priced at 50 cents each, and may be obtained from the Division of Production, 1208 Continental Building, Dallas, Texas. Liberal discounts are provided for quantity orders.

DIGBY'S ORDERS WILL AFFECT ATHEN FIELDS

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 15.—(AP)—State Commissioner of Conservation S. L. Dioby today issued orders governing operations in the Athens and north Tepetate fields and the Shuteston area in St. Landry parish.

The Athens order granted a permit for dual completion of the Bishop-Lewis Unit No. 1 well in the Vaughn sand and Travispeak formations; the north Tepetate order forced pooling of the Sittig gas unit and the Shuteston order revised the Pellerin pool unit.

BERN, Switzerland—(AP)—Since the end of the war, 102 Swiss citizens have been prosecuted as members of the Nazi fifth column in Switzerland, according to a government report. Of the 102 persons charged with treason, collaboration with the Germans and undermining Switzerland's neutrality and independence during the war, only three were acquitted. Ninety-nine fifth columnists were sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment, ranging from 20 years to six months. Those sentenced to prison terms included several tried in absentia and still believed to be abroad.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—(AP)—Most people must have been left calm when President Truman talked of raising income taxes.

That's because most people who pay personal income taxes wouldn't be touched by the kind of tax raise he mentioned.

He asked congress this month to raise taxes on corporations and consider raising them on people in the middle and upper income groups.

And at a White House news conference Thursday he was asked what he meant when he spoke of "middle" income people.

He said the treasury department defines the "middle" people as those starting at $6,000 and going up to $25,000 and $30,000 a year.

But how many people make $6,000 a year or more in this country? You can get different figures from different government agencies.

The federal reserve board seems to have the latest collection, so take a look at them.

The board's figures are for the income of "families" in 1947. And it defines a family as "all related persons living in one household."

The board's figures—for 42,000,000 families in 1947—show that only 14 per cent of them or about 5,880,000 families—had income over $6,000.

The other 86 per cent—or 36,120,000 families out of 42,000,000—had incomes under $6,000 a year and this ranged down to below $1,000 a year.

Starting at the bottom and working up, this shows the percentage of families in the various income groups:

Under $1,000 a year—13 per cent of the families; $1,000 to $2,000 a year—18 per cent; $2,000 to $3,000—20 per cent; $3,000 to $4,000—17 per cent; $4,000 to $5,000—11 per cent; $5,000 to $6,000—7 per cent; $6,000 to $10,000—10 per cent; and $10,000 and over—4 per cent.

But—only 21 per cent of all American families in 1947 got 50 per cent of the total family income.

In other words, 8,820,000 of the 42,000,000 families got half the income.

And those were families with income of $5,000 or more. It breaks down like this:

Only 13 per cent of all families had income of $5,000 to $7,500, and they received 20 per cent of the total income; only eight per cent of all the families had incomes over $7,500 and they received 30 per cent of the income.

These federal reserve board figures do not show precisely how much of the American families' income went to families with income of $6,000 and over.

But it's people with $6,000 income and over that Mr. Truman said congress should consider taxing a little harder.

'TROUBLE' CAUSED BY LOVE FOR WOMAN

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 15.—(AP)—A 27-year-old war veteran held today in connection with the bar-room slaying of his wife—says "It's awful to love a woman."

Not only that, said Clay Patterson of Ironton, Ohio, "It can lead to trouble."

Police said "the trouble" erupted last night with the shooting of Mrs. Elizabeth Ruth Patterson, 21, before 25 horrified patrons in the Winton Grill in downtown Columbus.

A few minutes later, Patrolmen Herbert T. Winters and Robert Stevenson walked into the grill and found Mrs. Patterson, a waitress, lying on the floor, shot five times with a .32 caliber revolver.

Patterson told police he married "Betty" last July 19 and that shortly thereafter they separated. After the separation, Mrs. Patterson came to Columbus and began working as a waitress.

He said he came to Columbus Thursday in an attempt to persuade his wife to go to Huntington, W. Va., where he was planning to enter Marshall College.

"A woman where she lived told me she had been with other men," he said.

"I love the girl," he sobbed.

"She took my last five dollars last night," he continued. "I didn't even have a place to sleep.

"Boy, it's awful to love a woman—it gets you into trouble."

OUACHITA CANCER SOCIETY TO SPONSOR STYLE REVUE

Valentine Luncheon Also Is Scheduled For February 14

The Ouachita Parish Cancer Society will sponsor a Valentine luncheon and style revue on February 14, to be given on the roof garden of a local hotel. Members of the various committees were named this week and plans formulated to make this one of the big events of this year.

Mrs. N. Klam, serving as general chairman of the benefit, has announced the wholehearted cooperation of the merchants of the Twin Cities in their efforts to make the event an outstanding success. With just a few more than 400 tickets available for the luncheon, Monroe and West Monroe merchants have donated upward of a hundred valuable prizes to be given away as door prizes to ticket holders.

The partial list of prizes tabulated late Saturday and their donors are: Peocock's Jewelry, $15 silverplate well and tree platter; Durrett's Gift Shop, $30 fitted cosmetic, genuine leather travel kit; Howard Bros. Jewelry, $24 silverplate meat platter; Hogan's, West Monroe, $5 sack of groceries; Standard Office Supply, $5.50 box Crane's writing paper; McCain-Richards, $12.50 "Peerless" copper metal fire extinguisher for home or automobile; Huckabay Jewelry, $16.50 McClintock electric clock; Ferd Levi Stationery Co., $10 Parker fountain pen; Durrett's Furniture Co., $20 Admiral table model 5-tube AC-DC radio; Virginia Pharmacy, $2 Pangburn's Ragtime candy; Passman Equipment Co., $10 24-piece service for 6 silverplate by Oneida, teaspoons, forks, knives, and soup spoons; Massey's Service Center, $7.50 sandwich toaster, "Fostoria"; R & A Jewelry, Sebel diamond ring, nationally advertised, insured one year year against theft, fire or loss; Carey Holmes Nursery, choice of any $10 camellia bush in stock; Mary's Flower Shop, beautiful orchid cattleya hybrid; Firestone Store, $12.50 eight-cup Silex electric coffee maker; City Bakery, $5 decorated angel food cake; Delta Furniture, $18 satin comfort and many other valuable gifts to be announced later.

Committee members named this week to handle the details of staging the style revue and luncheon were: Mrs. Art Miller, Jr., co-chairman, publicity, Sue Sharman Williams, chairman, Mrs. W. C. Curry and Mrs. Frank Breese; gifts and promotion, Mrs. Irene Simms Reid; decoration, Mrs. Dorothy Elmendorf, chairman, Mrs. Jean Sholars Boyce, Mrs. I. T. Landhy, Mrs. Fred Aldrich and Miss Vera Dowling; tickets, Mrs. C. K. Crandall, chairman, Mrs. E. Gordon Wright, Mrs. Fred Petty, Mrs. A. B. Paterson and Mrs. A. E. Wilenzick; printing, Miss Frances Flanders.

Reservations for the luncheon will be open between February 7 and 14. All proceeds from the luncheon will go into the Ouachita Parish Cancer Society fund. The purpose of the cancer society is to educate the civilian public to realize the symptoms of cancer and to educate the medical profession to thoroughly examine their patients, and thereby halt the march of a dreaded and fateful disease.

The parish society has a special service in Monroe that provides bandages for indigent patients and also narcotics for indigent patients and it also provides free transportation to New Orleans and Shreveport for advance treatments.

Louisiana gets quite a large allocation from the National Cancer Society because of Tulane and Louisiana State University where doctors may go for refresher courses and research.

William S. Gannaway is parish commander of the Ouachita unit; Mrs. C. K. Crandall, deputy commander; Grayson Guthrie, treasurer; Mrs. A. V. Miller, Jr., secretary. Dr. John Snellings and Mrs. E. Gordon Wright, of the state board, are the executive committee.

PROBATIONAL POST OPEN TO ENGINEER

The United States Civil Service Commission is accepting applications for probational appointment to positions of engineer, $2,974 a year, in all branches of engineering, in accordance with an announcement issued by the central board of United States civil service examiners, bureau of reclamation, Denver, Colo.

Employment opportunities from this examination exist in the bureau of reclamation throughout the states of Oregon, Washington, California, Arizona, Nevada, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Utah, North Dakota, South Dakota, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas, in which the bureau operates. Positions will be filled in project offices now existing and in those that may be established in the future within the geographical boundaries in which the bureau functions. While positions in all branches of engineering will be filled, the majority of appointments will be made in the civil, electrical, irrigation and mechanical fields.

Old-world peasants believed that goatsuckers—whippoorwills—subsisted on milk stolen from their herds.

SANFORD SHOWS HEALTH MOVIES

Executive Secretary Of T. B. Association Has School P.-T. A. Program

E. E. Sanford, executive secretary of the Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health Association, was a guest at the regular monthly meeting of the W. R. Mitchell P.-T. A., January 12. The program topic was "Building Sound Health." Mr. Sanford showed two interesting movie shorts along this line.

The first film was entitled "Choose To Live." This film was based on "canver." It stressed the importance of early detection. Numerous lives could be saved if caught in time. There are "cancer clinics" being held throughout the country for this type of examination.

The second film was entitled "Goodby Mr. Germs." This film was based on "tuberculosis." It stressed the importance of tubercular test and X-rays for early detection of T. B.

Mrs. Harry Silverstein, a representative of the Monroe section, Council of Jewish Women, made an announcement concerning the activities of the "Sick-Loan Shelf." She stated that the council members are volunteering their services to carry out this activity for the community. They are completely equipping a room with sick-room supplies. Any needy person will be lent sick-room equipment upon request, accompanied with a letter from the attending physician. The council would appreciate any gift of usable sick-room supplies.

Mrs. Ivy McDonald, summer round-up chairman, reported the receipt of the "summer round-up certificate" for the completion of the summer round-up of the children, a health project of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The W. R. Mitchell P.-T. A. study course will begin Thursday, January 20, in the home of Mrs. Fred Stone, 400 Austin avenue, at 2 p. m. The study course is entitled "The Psychology of the School Age Child," and will be given each Thursday for 5 connective weeks. All members are urged to attend these study groups.

W. R. Mitchell P.-T. A. will have charge of the "Mile of Dimes" in connection with the "infantile paralysis drive" Friday, January 28.

The unit plans to cooperate with the Twin City P.-T. A. Council to carry out the series of radio programs that are to be sponsored in the near future. This also is a state as well as national P.-T. A. project.

The next meeting of the W. R. Mitchell P.-T. A. will be the "Founders Day Program." This will be a night meeting to enable the fathers as well as the mothers to attend. This meeting will be at the school Tuesday, February 8, at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Dale Cobb, president, announced the first grade won the room count.

ADVERTISING GROUP MEETS IN CHICAGO

The Newspaper Advertising Executives Association, Inc., will meet in the Edgewater Beach Hotel, Chicago, January 17-19 inclusive.

A large number of nationally well known leaders in newspaper advertising will be in attendance.

Louisiana will be represented by two members who will participate on the program. These are Irene Simms Reid, advertising director of the News-Star—World, and Richard Hall, advertising director of the Shreveport Times.

Children need to have three to four glasses of milk every day; adults need two or more. Any milk not taken in liquid form may be consumed in other ways—in puddings, on cereals, in soups, in sherbets and so forth.

Would King Cole Be Merry With Stomach Ulcer Pains?

The legendary Old King Cole might not have been a merry old soul, if he had stomach ulcer pains. Those who must pay the penalty of acid stomach or ulcer pains, heartburn, gas, sour stomach, indigestion caused from excess stomach acidity should try Udga for quick relief. Udga Tablets contain 3 proven fast-acting medicinal ingredients. Like a doctor's prescription, Udga works soothingly and fast. More than 210 million sold since 1928. WALLENDAS WILL FEATURE SHOW

Talented Family To Play Leading Role In Shrine Circus

The Wallenda family, breath-taking high wire performers, will be featured on the Shrine Club circus, sponsored by the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club, at Neville High School auditorium for two days starting Monday.

Henry Haas, general chairman of the Shrine circus committee, yesterday announced the program will include the largest herd of performing elephants ever to appear at a local indoor circus.

Cyse O'Dell aerial ballet, Evelina Rossi, Rose Behee and Klonowa will be among the actors performing high above the audiences. In the rings will be the Harrison duo of comedy cyclists, a troupe of skaters, trained horses, ponies and dogs. The Ten Karrells will perform their amazing balancing acts.

And adding to the fun will be Kenneth Waite's troupe of clowns, Bozo Harrell, hobo clown, and Whitey Harris, the clown cop.

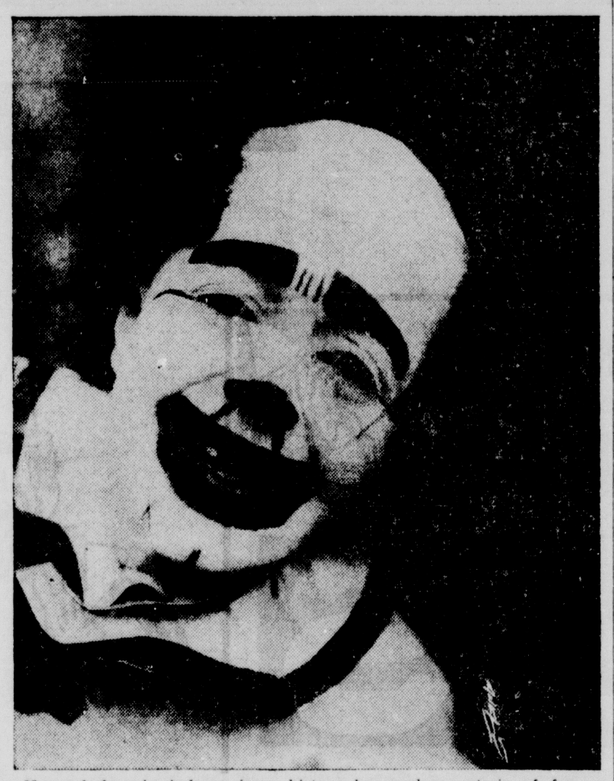

Before the first performance Monday, the circus animals and people, with bands will stage a parade through the business district.

Matinees will be given daily. Newsboys of the city will be guests of the show, and special efforts are being made to provide ways for crippled children to see the circus. Special attention for the children is assured.

The circus closes a five-day engagement in Shreveport tonight and the same acts will come direct to Monroe for the scheduled performances here.

Matinees will start at 4 p. m. and night performances at 8:15 each day. Reserved tickets are on sale at Walgreen's.

THE CLOWN

Never before in indoor circus history has such a coterie of famous pantomimists been presented under one booking. Pictured above is Kenneth Waite, "Mr. Clown in the Blue Book of Whitefaced Comedians," one of many features with the Shrine club's circus coming to Monroe, Monday and Tuesday, for matinee and night performances.

MEN IN SERVICE

Sgt. Earl C. Tillman, a former resident of Monroe and a member of this organization, the 1958th Airways and Air Communications Service squadron, is scheduled to return to the states in the near future. He will leave Guam on or about January 31, 1949.

Sergeant Tillman served in the capacity of a Diesel engine powerman for a period of 21 months with this squadron.

Prior to his enlistment in the air force in September 1946 he attended and graduated from Ouachita High School. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Tillman, are rural residents of Route No. 2, Box 172, Monroe, La.

Sergeant Tillman is scheduled to be separated from the air force next September.

TOURS NATION ON HIS BICYCLE

Oregon Youth Reaches Ferriday After Eight Months Of Riding

FERRIDAY, La., Jan. 15.—(Special)—He's come a long way from Portland, Ore., on a bicycle tour of the United States to the deep south, but if the bike and his arms and legs hold out Walter Earl Devine, 28-year-old former United States marine corps combat veteran, says he will be back home in ninety days.

Devine stopped over here on his tour of the country astride his trusty bicycle, which he has been pedaling for the past eight months. He's been over 6,000 miles, has worn out four sets of tires and two sets of bearings, been bitten by dogs along the highways and on bypaths, slept on the road and in barns, but he is still neat in appearance and carries with him a dress suit, which he says he wears every Sunday when he goes to church.

Playing a harmonica in a local hotel, where he was resting for the night, the former marine was talkative about his trip en route to the west coast via United States highway 84. His trip has taken him across the northern United States and down the eastern seaboard to Key West and Miami Beach, Fla. Now he's going through Louisiana and Mississippi to Texas, thence to California and back to home sweet home, Oregon, outside of Portland. He averages 75 miles a day on the tour, riding from nine to ten hours a day, and he's had many varied, thrilling experiences.

The only secret he won't reveal, he says, is "Why I'm doing this." "I'll tell you one thing," he asserted, "I'm not riding a bicycle over the country for my health, although I must say it's healthy as I've never been sick a day since I left home and I've been in all of the states of the union except five." He says he's not advertising any make of bicycle and admitted that upon his return home, he'll not ride the bike over again.

Since leaving Oregon, Devine declared he's worked only two days. "I manage to keep clean," he said, "and I haven't asked for any charity yet." However, he admitted that he's been given help along the way, even by state police.

In many respects Devine is different from the average round-the-country tourist and hundreds have been interviewed here making the trip on all means of conveyance, including row boats on the Mississippi river and by various other means of transportation. One thing, he admits he's not seeking to break any records.

Laughing he told a crowd at the hotel, where he was entertaining and playing the harp, after storing his bicycle in the hotel lobby for the night. "It's a great experience. This is really something your mother and father could never tell you about. No, I'm not married, he says, and I don't intend to get married. This isn't a pleasure trip, I can assure you. It's hard work."

Some of his most exciting experiences since he left Oregon on May 14 of last year have been riding over a seven-mile bridge at Key West, Fla., with no handlebars on the bicycle and the time that a big black bear chased him through a park in Rhode Island.

"Ive been in some bad weather at times," he declared, "but most of the weather I've encountered so far has been very good. When it rains, and it often does, I just take off my shirt and keep on pedaling along." He carries no tools, or spare tires, but does carry a basket of clothes and maps on the rear of the bicycle. The clothes, he wears Sundays when he always goes to church, and that he attributes to his extreme good fortune so far.

He has worn out one pair of pants and a pair of shoes on the trip. Of all the states he has been in he likes the southern states the best, he says. "People down here are very hospitable. They ask questions, but they are kind, and don't go around with their noses stuck up in the air," he declared.

The ex-marine, with three and one-half years of combat service, who admits he doesn't like to work, but who, it must be admitted, has energy galore, in passing leaves this word of advice: "Don't attempt this kind of a trip unless you know what you're doing."

SUNSHINE GIRLS PLAN PROGRAM

Council Meeting Well Attended; Seek To Advance Order

Olive Council No. 1 Pythian Sunshine Girls met Friday night in the K. of P. hall with 24 girls and all of the counselors present. Royal Princess Nelda McCoy presiding. This was an unusual meeting as plans were discussed for the advancement of the order of 1949.

Miss Loette Steadman was initiated and six applications were read and referred to the committees. Hugh Balfour, Knight counselor extended an invitation to the girls on behalf of W. W. Thompson, chancellor commander-elect to attend a supper and public installation of the officers of Stonewall Lodge No. 8 on the night of January 27.

Mrs. Ellen Rothermel, Pythian Sister counselor most excellent chief-elect of Friendship Temple No. 3, extended an invitation to the girls to attend the joint public installation of the officers of Monroe Temple No. 1 and Friendship Temple No. 3 Pythian Sisters, Monday night, January 31.

The royal advisor, Mrs. Opal Thompson, was presented with a beautiful white gardenia corsage by Miss Alitia Parker, royal warder. It was announced at this meeting that the supreme royal princess, Mrs. Olive M. Brith of Baldwin Park, Calif., was making plans to visit this council (which is her name sake) in the near future.

The next council meeting will be January 28.

PVT. M'KENZIE REBURIAL SET

Services Will Be Conducted Today; Full Military Honors Arranged

Funeral services for Pvt. Gordon C. McKenzie, 34, who died during World War II in Calcutta, India, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. from the chapel of the Davis-Lawhead Funeral Home with the Rev. I. L. Yeager officiating, assisted by Rev. Lea Joiner.

The body arrived Friday at 6:50 p.m. over the Illinois Central Railroad where it was met by members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and was taken to the Davis-Lawhead Funeral Home where it will remain until time for the funeral.

Pvt. Gordon C. McKenzie

Interment will be held in the Memorial Park Cemetery, where full military rites will be given under the direction of the V. F. W. Post No. 3393 of West Monroe.

McKenzie is survived by two sons, David McKenzie, of the U. S. N. and James Paul McKenzie, of Evergreen, Miss.; his father, Arthur McKenzie, of Monroe; one brother, Paul McKenzie, of Monroe; five sisters, Mrs. M. R. Johnston, Mrs. Sybil McDowell, and Mrs. Dean Powell, all three of Monroe; Mrs. Ruth Nosvody, of West Monroe; Mrs. Elzie Collins, of Olla, and many nieces and nephews.

The honorary pallbearers will be as follows: Bob Dartez, Lawrence Gibbs, Charles Powers, Ernest Seeley, Sam Sidden, Joe Borgedelon, B. Slocum, James Decille, T. M. Ross, Odys Hickson, Malcolm Decille, David Bolton and all friends of the family.

NON-RELIGIOUS FILMS PLANNED

Three non-religious films will be shown this evening at 7:30 p.m. at the Lutheran Church. The pastor, Rev. H. Kamman, in announcing the showing, listed the titles as: "Wings over Guatemala," "Wings over Mexico," and "Pan-American Highway." The purpose of showing these travel films, he added, is to make local persons acquainted with life in foreign countries where the Lutheran Church does mission work.

The public is welcome to attend. No admission will be charged.

A Circus With A Cause

The Shriners of North America sponsor between 40 and 45 top-ranking circus performances a year, taking in about one-fifth of the $1,250,000 it costs them annually to operate their sixteen Hospitals for Crippled Children.

A number of years ago, along with other civic activities, cities built large auditoriums and it remained for showmen to institute an INDOOR circus to play these structures.

The Ancient Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine found the INDOOR circus the ideal way to provide funds for their charitable activities and at the same time provide clean, wholesome amusement for the town folk.

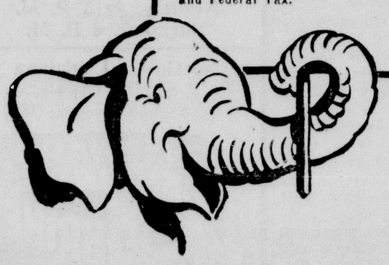

Each year it is the desire of the Nobility of N. E. La. Shrine Club to present a stellar attraction to the community that will be enjoyed by all.

So this year they bring you America's favorite indoor circus, Ward Bros. circus, a big circus brought indoors with everything but dirt, danger and discomfort. Monies profited from the circus will be used for charity activities.

MONROE DAY IS JOYOUS EVENT

Alexandria Hospital And Staff Write Letter Thanking For Gifts

"Monroe Day" in the veterans' hospital, held during the holidays and in which the Red Cross chapter here had a leading role, is still being discussed and much praise accorded to all who helped make it a success. The following letter sent Mrs. Taunton Veazel, executive secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, has been received from Ione B. Hopkins, field director, Alexandria:

"Dear Mrs. Veazey: Will you please convey to the people of Monroe the sincere appreciation of this hospital's several hundred sick and disabled veterans as well as the personnel of the hospital and Red Cross staff for the 'Monroe Night' Christmas party given here for the holidays. The entire entertainment was outstanding and demcnstrated community planning, cooperation and spirit which the hospital will long remember. Monroe surely won a real place for herself in the heart of the hospital, by generosity and warmth of spirit which its people displayed in making Christmas real for veterans whose Christmas had to be spent here.

"Every phase of the evening was praiseworthy. Especially we would thank the Monroe Little Theatre for its delightful rendition of 'Dear Ruth'; the city's several bakeries for their donations of delicious cakes and cookies served; the coffee company for coffee; the pecan company for 250 one-pound packages of fine pecans and, finally, every one of the 140 or more persons who either purchased a Christmas gift or donated money with which to purchase a gift. We wish each could have seen the pleasure these gifts gave to those receiving them.

"To Frank Breese, director of the Little Theatre, and to the Ouachita parish chapter, American Red Cross, go our wholehearted thanks for conceiving and executing an overwhelmingly successful community service of which all Monroe may well be proud.

"The patients here join us in every good wish for the New Year to the people of Monroe.

Yours very truly,
IONE B. HOPKINS (Field Director).

Notice To Veterans Of World War II

Applications for the State Bonus will be available at the American Legion Home in Forsythe Park Monday night, January 17th, at 7:30. A Legion Committee will be on hand to assist in filling out the applications. Veterans must bring full size copies of their discharges (or Nav. Pers. 553) with them. The Legion Committee will deliver the applications, with copies of discharges, to the proper authorities, thereby relieving the necessity of mailing by the veterans.

All veterans, whether members of the American Legion or not, are invited to make use of this facility. There will be no charge for the service.

Board Of Managers Reaffirms Stand Taken; Slaps Comics Ban

The board of managers of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association reaffirmed its support of federal aid to education and took a positive approach to another of its favorite projects—comic boks. The board adopted a resolution conceding that "one cannot by legislation, regulation, or bans, change food habits, fashions in dress popular taste in music, or, in particular, the reading of comic books and put it up to parents with the additional statement that "well-educated parents form the taste and direct the level of attitudes in children on these matters which are part of the same general problem."

Taking a slap at the ban of comics in some sections, the resolution continued: "The inherent dangers of censorship and witchburning seem greater than the dangers of exposure to comics."

It concluded that "the board of managers of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association in convention assembled endorse the positive means of approach as far as comics are concerned—namely, to support strengthening of good home, school and public libraries, and to sponsor study groups on children's reading, parent education, etc., among the districts and units of the state."

The board reaffirmed its support of federal aid to education after Mrs. Fred Benton, Baton Rouge, pointed out that the failure of the federal aid bill at the last congress deprived Louisiana of some $10,000,000, which would have been spent "under state control."

Mrs. George Varino, membership chairman, of Monroe, reported that 48,230 persons have joined the P.-T. A. to date, and anticipated 50,000 before the March 31 deadline.

A home-school-community workshop, the first of its kind will be held at L. S. U., August 15, 16 and 17 according to an announcement by Mrs. W. S. Vincent, Monroe, state president.

"This kind of workshop has unlimited value in having parents and teachers meeting together on a friendly basis with the child the center of their thinking and their planning," she commented.

The announcement was also made that radio programs will be reviewed and evaluated for "adult and family as well as juvenile listening" in the National P.-T. A. Magazine beginning in January.

"This project is intended to help all listeners to recognize worthwhile programs on the air and help will be given parents and teachers on how they can help in securing better programs," Mrs. Vincent commented.

Board members were told that an outstanding program for the state convention, April 21, 22 and 23, has been planned by Mrs. Paul A. Blanchard, New Orleans; Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, West Monroe, and Miss Ellen Lenoir, Baton Rouge. Mrs. Hunter Normand, Alexandria, is convention chairman.

Mrs. John Hayes, of Idaho, national P.-T. A. representative and first vice-president, will be the principal speaker. Mrs. C. C. Clark, of Natchez, regional director, will also be a speaker.

The board also endorsed and reaffirmed its support of the local public health services act, a preventive program, now before congress.

Attending a meeting of the executive board of the managers prior to this board meeting to work on plans for the convention were: Mrs. Fred Benton, Baton Rouge; Mrs. J. K. Butler, Oil City; Dr. J. M. Nason, Baton Rouge; Miss Eloise Cann, Monroe; Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, West Monroe; Mrs. Paul Blanchard, New Orleans, and Mrs. Vincent.

Members attending the board meeting were: Mrs. Fred Bordelon, Ville Platt; Mrs. J. H. Stringer, Baton Rouge; Mrs. Paul Davison, Ruston; Mrs. W. S. Wiedorn, New Orleans; Miss Beborah Abramson, Baton Rouge; Mrs. Roger Sharp, New Orleans; Miss Irma Baker and Mrs. George P. Meade, Gramercy; Mrs. M. L. DeFreese, West Monroe; Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Monroe; Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Fagan Cox and Mrs. G. B. Wilson, Monroe; Mrs. Hunter Normand, Alexandria; Mrs. H. J. Wolcott, Shreveport; Mrs. L. R. Alwood, Ferriday, and Mrs. W. S. Vincent, Monroe.

ANNUAL SCOUT MEETING SLATED

Will Be Addressed By Regional Executive Erb; Awards To Be Made

Several hundred scouters and their wives are expected to attend the annual recognition banquet of the Ouachita Valley Council, Boy Scouts of America, to be held at the Hotel Virginia Thursday, January 27. E. J. Foster, chairman of the banquet committee, has announced that a very outstanding program of recognition and entertainment is being planned for the affair.

Harley E. Erb, regional Scout executive of Region V, which covers the southern states, will be the principal speaker for the occasion. He will give important information to all scouters on a new two-year crusade program being launched nationally by the Boy Scouts of America. This is Mr. Erb's first visit to the Ouachita Valley Council in several years.

All scoutmasters, cubmasters, and den mothers attending the banquet will receive special recognition for their service to scouting, and over 70 scouters are scheduled to receive veterans' awards in recognition, of five, 10, 15, and 20 years of active registered service in scouting.

Other features of the unusual program planned include the silver beaver award for outstanding service to boyhood, training awards to scoutmasters, recognition of 1948 Eagle Scouts, presentation of eagle badges, installation of 1949 council officers, and a special feature launching the Fortieth Anniversary Crusade of Scouting.

A. B. Clarkson, council president, has announced that the annual business meeting of the council is to be held at the Virginia Hotel at 3 o'clock in the afternoon of January 27. All members of the council, including executive board members and representatives of sponsoring institutions, are invited to this session where important affairs in the council's business will be discussed. Included on this part of the program will be the election of officers, reports from all districts, operating committee reports, camp development committee report, and plans for 1949.

Council officials have indicated that 1948 was one of the most successful years in the council's history and a great effort is being made to make the annual recognition banquet on January 27 a fitting climax for this year of unusual scouting accomplishments.

HUGE TURNIP IS DISPLAYED HERE

One of the biggest turnips ever seen in this part of the country was brought to the office of the News-Star—World Saturday by J. M. Jenkins of West Monroe, who found it while on a trip to West Carroll parish.

Mr. Jenkins said the turnip, raised by a Negro tenant on the J. S. Crowe estate near Oak Grove, weighed 10 1/4 pounds. The turnip, a purple top, was clean and smooth and apparently solid and firm all the way through. It had 10 separate tops but the turnip itself was not divided.

MISSING WOMAN BEING SOUGHT

Hungarian Wife Of American G. I. Disappears; Had Received Beating

FERRIDAY, La., Jan. 15.—(Special)—Police of this area are on the lookout for an American soldier's Hungarian-born wife, who disappeared from Charity Hospital in Natchez where she was being treated for wounds incurred when she was allegedly beaten by her husband and brother-in-law.

Meanwhile the two men, one of them a soldier on leave, were being held in the Concordia parish jail on charges of assault and battery and other charges.

Concordia Parish Sheriff Hartwell Love identified the men as John and Clarence Purser, both of Meadville, Miss. The former is the soldier and husband of the foreign-born girl who can't speak a word of English and who has been in this country only two months.

Her husband and brother-in-law were arrested in Natchez Monday night shortly after the alleged beating occurred just outside Vidalia on U. S. highway 84.

Mrs. Purser was taken to Charity Hospital where she was treated for superficial contusions and lacerations to the face and neck. Her condition was described as "not serious."

Sheriff Love reported the alleged beating when the trio were on a drinking party and shortly after they left a Vidalia night spot.

Both men were charged with assault and battery, being drunk and disturbing the peace. In addition her husband was charged with driving a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquors.

According to hospital attendants, some persons who said they were her relatives, arrived at the hospital and took the girl away. When her disappearance was noted, the police were notified. The Pursers' trial is scheduled to come up in Seventh district court, which meets again in Vidalia in February. At last reports no trace of the missing woman had been found.

EVICTIONS ARE FIXED BY LAW

Only Under Certain Conditions Can Tenants Be Removed

While under the present housing and rent act, evictions are handled exclusively by local courts, Area Rent Director Gillespie points out that the same act specifies the grounds—and the only grounds—on which evictions may be had, and gives the rent office the right to go into court to prevent evictions not based on those specific grounds.

"The grounds for eviction fall into two classes or groups," Mr. Gillespie said. "In one class are those legal grounds for eviction which require only such eviction notice time as is provided by local law. These grounds are known generally as failing to live up to the obligations of a tenant and include non-payment of rent, breaking the rental agreement, committing a nuisance, or using the residence for immoral or illegal purposes, or other than dwelling purposes. The federal law provides no eviction notice time for evictions on such grounds; local law alone governs.

"In the second group are grounds in which the obligations of tenacy are not involved. They are cases in which landlords wish to recover possession of their property. In order for the evictions to be legal under such circumstances, the reasons or grounds must be among those specified in the act itself.

"Four types of legal eviction come in that group. They are:

"1. If the landlord wants the premises for his own occupancy or for the occupancy of his immediate family.

"2. If the landlord has contracted in writing to sell the dwelling for the purchaser's immediate occupancy. He cannot legally evict a tenant in order to sell to someone who is going to continue to use the dwelling for rental purposes. Nor can he legally evict a tenant in order to hold the property for sale after it has been vacated.

"3. If the landlord wants to demolish the building, or alter it substantially for continued housing accommodations, or convert it into additional housing units, and the work cannot be done while the tenant remains in occupancy.

"4. If the landlord intends to withdraw the unit from the rental market. However, in order for the eviction to be legal on this ground, the law prohibits any further rental of that unit as a housing accommodation."

Mr. Gillespie also mentioned that eviction is also legal if an apartment, for example, becomes a cooperatively-owned project. To become a true co-op, at least 65 per cent of the dwelling units in the structure must be occupied by stockholder-tenants. In such a case, eviction of tenants who are not stockholders is legal.

"In the case of the co-op and the four types enumerated above," the rent director said, "the tenant must be given 60 days notice before he can be evicted."

EVANGELIST

REV. J. M. HAMES

REV. J. M. HAMES TO HOLD SERVICES

A revival will be held at the Stone Avenue Methodist Church starting January 18 and ending on January 30, states Rev. Ira Yeager, pastor.

Rev. J. M. Hames, Greer, S. C., has been secured as an unusually successful evangelist who will be in charge of the services. His theme will be: "Deeper Things of God."

There will be services held daily at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend these meetings which are declared to be of interest to all who attend.

NEW EDUCATIONAL BUILDING OPENED

The new two-story brick educational building of the Ridge Avenue Baptist Church will be thrown open today for the first service. It will serve the expanding needs of this young, ambitious suburban church of which Rev. A. T. Mitchell is pastor.

The new building was erected under the supervision of W. C. Salley, Monroe contractor, and members of the church.

The approximate cost is placed at $14,000.

It is planned to later add other sections to the structure until it will be enlarged to accommodate no less than 600 persons.

STYLE SHOW SCHEDULED

A style show will be sponsored by the Exola Sewing Center Thursday at Carroll's auditorium, 922 Washington street. A lady's tailored suit will be given away. There will be no admission charge.

THE NEW FUTURAMICS

FUTURAMIC—the most glamorous word in motor cars now applies to two great lines of Oldsmobiles. Not only the newly styled Futuramic "98"—but also a brand new Futuramic "76" with a new '49 Fisher Body that's lower, wider and offers greater visibility. And this year, Oldsmobile has struck a new balance of power with two great engines for these Futuramic cars. The new "Big Six" Engine in the "76" is more powerful than ever. And the new "98" is powered by the revolutionary "Rocket" Engine. It's a high-compression, valve-in-head eight—an engineering marvel that steps up horsepower to 135, yet actually cuts down on gas costs. PARKVIEW IN NEW SANCTUARY

First Services Slated For This Morning; Revival Now Starting

The Parkview Baptist Church which moves into its new home on Forsythe avenue this morning will begin a series of revival services which will continue through next Sunday, January 23.

The pastor, Rev. Colon P. Coaker, will conduct the first service this morning at 11 o'clock.

Beginning tonight at 7:30, the church has secured the services of Dr. C. E. Autrey who was for many years pastor of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe. Dr. Autrey resigned his pastorate December 1, 1948, to enter evangelistic work and is now the urban evangelist for the Louisiana State Baptist Convention. He is well known in the Twin Cities and is recognized throughout the state as an outstanding and dynamic speaker. Dr. Autrey is a member of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist Convention and is a past president of the Louisiana State Baptist Convention.

Each morning during the revival a cafeteria breakfast will be served at the church at 6:30 followed by the morning service at 7:15. The evening services will begin each night at 7:30.

Music for the revival will be under the direction of Mr. J. E. Lindsay with Mrs. E. W. Cruse as pianist. Special music by the choir has been planned for these services.

The public is cordially invited and urged to attend as many of these services as possible.

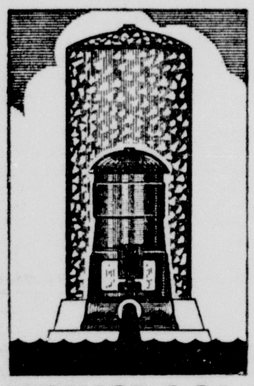

FISKE IS ON BOARD OF OAK GROVE BANK

OAK GROVE, La., Jan. 15.—(Special)—Donald B. Fiske, prominent business man of Oak Grove, was elected a member of the board of directors of the Bank of Oak Grove, at the annual stockholders' meeting held recently. Members of the board who were re-elected include: Arden B. Smith, president of the bank and chairman of the board; John R. McIntosh, vice-president of the bank; D. M. McIntosh, cashier; T. O. Mitchiner, C. E. Major and R. V. Reeves, who also serves the bank as attorney.

A ten per cent dividend was declared on the capital stock of the bank, which is in its forty-second year of service to the West Carroll parish area. The statement of condition, as of December 31, 1948, reflects capital at $30,000.00, surplus at $50,000.00, undivided profits and reserves at $36,791.93. "We enjoyed, in 1948, the best one of our many years of continuous operation," President Smith said.

Extensive remodelling, including redecorating, and the installing of year-around air-conditioning, was completed at the bank last year.

Other officers, who were also re-elected at the meeting, were Dorothy L. Lyon and Don Moseley, assistant cashiers. All officers and employes received substantial bonuses at the end of the year.

MARINE CORPS ACCEPTS WOMEN

Can Enlist Without Previous Experience, Recruiter States

M/Sgt. George H. Hancock, NCO in charge of the marine corps recruiting sub-district of Monroe, with offices in the local post office building, announced Saturday that the marine corps is now accepting women with no previous service for enlistment in the regular marine corps. Heretofore, the enlistment of women in the marines has been limited to those who formerly served on active duty in a component of the marine corps women's reserve, and applications from women in that category will continue to be accepted.

Qualifications for women applicants for recruit enlistment are as follows: (1) Must be between 20 and 31 years of age, if under 21 must have parent's consent; (2) Must be single, without dependents, and have no children under the age of 18; (3) Must be a citizen of the United States by birth or naturalization; and (4) Must be a high school graduate and at the time of enlistment meet the prescribed physical standards.

Women applicants enlisted under this new program will undergo six weeks of recruit training at the marine corps base on Parris Island, S. C., and then be assigned to duties within the continental limits of the United States in view of the fact that no overseas duty for women marines is currently planned. Approximately 90 per cent of the women enlisted will serve with marine corps organizations east of the Mississippi river; and their duties will be almost exclusively of a clerical nature. A limited number of women will be assigned to marine corps specialist schools upon completion of their recruit training.

CROWELL INJURED IN TRAFFIC CRASH

A. W. Crowell, 60, of 809 DeSiard street, is a patient in the General Hospital, Bastrop, where he was removed shortly after noon Friday, after he had been in a head-on traffic accident on the Monroe-Bastrop highway, a short distance south of the Morehouse parish city.

The car in which Crowell was driving was in a head-on collision with a truck driven by a man from Georgia, whose name was not disclosed.

Crowell received cuts and bruises but will be able to leave the hospital in a day or two.

When the Germans took over Tsingtao, China, in 1898, they built the first motor roads in that country to recreation areas near the city.

STATE JOBLESS PAY FUND HUGE

Nearly $100,000,000 Accumulated For 450,000 Louisianians

By Edmond Le Breton

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 15.—(AP)—There's a $100,000,000 fund deposited in the United States treasury to the credit—under certain circumstances—of 450,000 Louisianians.

But the chances are that most of them know little or nothing about it, how it was built and what benefits they stand to derive from it.

That's because it has been so long since unemployment was a serious problem in this state that most people have lost track of the depression-created machinery for cushioning the shock of a dip in the country's business activity.

The fund in question is the Louisiana unemployment compensation trust fund, the balance of which on December 31 was $98,937,198.69.

That sum is enough to pay the maximum unemployment benefits to 40 per cent of the covered working population of Louisiana, in the calamitous event that so many should become unemployed at once.

Another way to consider the size of this fund is to realize that it is equivalent to about two-thirds of the present total bonded indebtedness of the state of Louisiana.

The unemployment compensation machinery was created during the great depression by the social security act of 1935. The act provided for federal-state collaboration, leaving the states free within certain limits to set their own regulations and administer their own systems.

The Louisiana system which came into being the next year has been modified in several important respects during the intervening time.

The federal government made all employers of eight or more persons in business or industry (not agriculture or other fields) subject to a three per cent payroll tax for employment security. The states were to remain 2.7 per cent for their trust funds and the government to take .3 of one per cent for administration. The states were free to broaden the coverage along certain lines, if they wished to do so. There was also a small tax taken from the wages of the employes themselves.

Louisiana now has extended the coverage to all business and industrial employers of four or more persons. The employes' contributions to the trust fund were discontinued in 1940, as the country's economy pulled out of the trough and the fund began to mount.

In 1946 some employers got a break when "experience rating" went into effect in Louisiana. This modification meant, in effect, that industries whose employment was relatively stable were charged a smaller tax. The move still is in controversy, with some business and some labor groups contending that it is unfair to contractors and others whose payrolls necessarily vary in size according to the work to be done. Proponents of experience rating say that it encourages stable employment and personnel policies. At any rate, it has reduced the average payroll tax in Louisiana from 2.7 to about 1.5 per cent. Some employers still pay the full 2.7. Others pay as little as .9 of one per cent.

On the outgoing side of the books, there haven't been as many changes. Any Louisianian in a covered business or industry who becomes unemployed through no fault of his own is entitled, while he is out of a job and looking for one, to a payment which works out roughly to half his regular earnings, up to a total of $25 benefit a week for 20 weeks. The limit was raised last year from $18 a week to $25.

The trust fund began growing rapidly towards its present record balance during the war years. For all practical purposes, there was then no such thing as unemployment. In the year 1944, for example, the interest on the trust fund more than paid all claims for the year—all the money contributed by employers went to build up the fund.

Things weren't quite that rosy in 1948, but they were rosy enough. The fund paid out in unemployment benefits $6,641,845. It took in employers' contributions to a total of $16,684,860, and was credited by the treasury with $1,858,098 interest. So the net gain was about $12,000,000.

Louisiana now has a record number of employers subject to the tax—16,436. The number of employes covered 450,470, is at or close to the war-time peak.

BONUS APPLICATION STATION IS PLANNED

A state veterans' bonus application station will be established Tuesday in the space immediately west of the Capitol theater entrance by Walter S. Savage, Jr., Post, American Veterans of World War II, it was announced Saturday by Harold Breard, post commander.

Application and assistance will be supplied all veterans at the station, which will be under the supervision of George Fink, local attorney and past commander of the Amvet post.

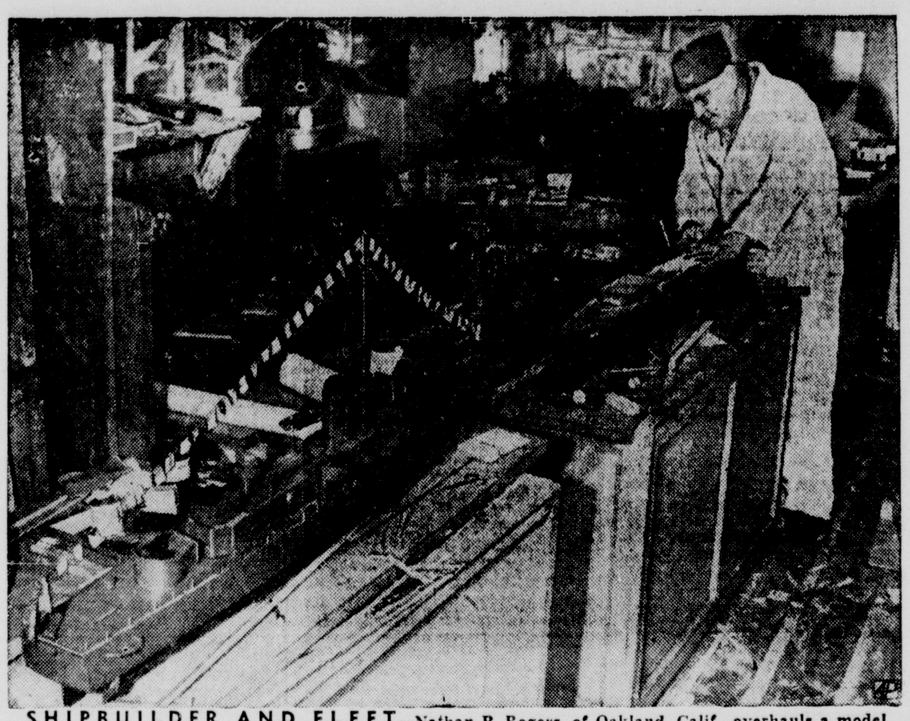

A special meeting of Amvets has been called for 7 o'clock Monday night to organize operations of the station. The space was made available to the Amvets as a public service by Paramount-Richards Theaters, Inc.

The bonus, ranging from $50 to $250, was established for veterans of World War II under a constitutional amendment ratified by the people of Louisiana last November.

The special meeting of Amvets will be held at the application station. Teams to keep the station open nightly will be organized by Mr. Fink at the meeting. The hours the station will be open will be set at the gathering.

Meanwhile, those eligible for the bonus are urged to get certified or photostatic copies of their discharges made. Such copies of discharges must be attached to the applications.

Stuff celery with a mixture of cream cheese to which a little Roquefort has been added, and serve with orange sections on romaine.

SHIPBUILDER AND FLEET—Nathan P. Rogers, of Oakland, Calif., overhauls a model of the U.S.S. Hobson, a destroyer, in his garage workshop. In 26 years, Rogers' "shipyard" has launched 80 ships, each an accurately scaled model of a Navy vessel.

ASSAULT CHARGES HOLD TRAIN UP IN OREGON

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Jan. 13—(AP)—A woman passenger's charge that she was assaulted in a pullman berth held a southbound Southern Pacific passenger train in the station several hours today.

Sheriff Jack Franey said the train, carrying 300 passengers, was held while the charge was investigated.

Police were called when the train arrived at 7:45 a. m. It was still here shortly before noon. It had been due out at 7:50 a. m.

Railroad officials complained to conductor L. M. Dickson. Officers were told to be on hand for an investigation.

The assault was reported to have occured near the scene of the "lower 13" murder in 1943. Mrs. Martha Virginia James was slain in berth lower 13 of the Southern Pacific's west coast limited—the same train as that held here today. A negro, Robert E. Lee Folkes, 23, a dining car cook, was convicted and executed for the slaying in January, 1945.

The passengers on today's train milled about the station impatiently while District Attorney Dayton E. Van Vactor questioned the woman and another passenger.

The train goes through to Los Angeles and most of the passengers were bound for southern California.

B'NAI BRITH IS AIDING ISRAEL

Oldest Jewish Service Organization Sends 250,000 Pounds Of Rice

The Isador Liebreich lodge of B'nai B'rith, America's oldest and largest Jewish service organization, was praised for its part in sending 250,000 pounds of rice to the people of Israel. The rice was shipped from New Orleans to Palestine this week.

Meyer Glazer, president of the local B'nai B'rith Lodge Isador Liebreicn, announced that the special representative of the state of Israel to the United States, Eliahu Epstein, had informed B'nai B'rith that "This rice, when it arrived in Israel on board one of our own ships, will be put to great use among those people who have suffered so considerably as a result of the year-long struggle against foreign invasion and who are now feeling the need for continued supplies of sustaining food."

Irving Liebowitz, chairman of the Isador Liebreich lodge aid to the people of Israel, program, reports that the lodge has been commended by David H. White, president of the southern region, who stated, "You and the other members of your lodge are making it possible through your generous contributions to feed the tens of thousands of DP's from Europe who are pouring into Palestine."

Rheumatism

In a 48 page booklet, a committee of 12 of the nation's leading doctors have issued a complete report of years of research on rheumatism and arthritis.

From their findings a formula called Ru-Tel was then tested by physicians and clinics and has achieved remarkable results in relieving the pains of rheumatism, arthritis, backache and neuritis. Ru-Tel Tablets are pleasant to take, do not upset the stomach—give quick soothing relief, sometimes overnight. Now Ru-Tel Tablets are available through all druggists. First bottle must help or your money refunded.

The Phantom

by LEE FALK and RAY MOORE

I MUST SAY I DID A GOOD JOB OF YOU TWO! PERFECT!

WHILE MOOGOO ADMIRES HIS OWN HANDIWORK IN THE COURTYARD--

THIS LOG ISN'T TIED RIGHT. IT'S HURTING MY LEGS. MIND FIXING IT?

I'LL FIX IT! I'LL MAKE IT--

--IN MOOGOO'S LAB, THE PHANTOM THINKS FAST!

--TIGHTER UMPH

GOOD! MOOGOO'S SCISSORS ARE SHARP AS A RAZOR! I'VE GOT TO WORK QUICKLY!

THEN, WEDGING MOOGOO'S SCISSORS IN THE TABLE---

THAT PHANTOM WAS EASY TO HANDLE! AND AFTER ALL THAT TALK ABOUT HIM! HMM- I'VE GOT TO THINK OF A WAY TO FINISH HIM NOW-- SOMETHING SPECIAL--

Copr. 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.

HE'S TOO DANGEROUS TO KEEP AROUND, SO I'LL-- WHAT IS THIS?

ENTERING HIS LAB, HE SEES THE GUARD! THE PHANTOM HAS DISAPPEARED--

TARZAN

by EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"YOU WATCH THE BACK TRAIL, FRIEND," RIMAU OBSERVED. "NO ONE FOLLOWS IT----- UNLESS IT BE A BEAST OF THE JUNGLE."

"A MAN WHO HAS TRIED TO KILL ONCE AND FAILED," TARZAN REPLIED GRAVELY, "WILL TRY AGAIN."

SILENT AS THE SHADOWS, TARZAN SWUNG THROUGH THE TREES ABOVE THE BACK TRAIL. STRANGELY UNEASY, THOUGH THE TRAIL SEEMED DEVOID OF DANGER.....

"HOW FAR IS THALIA, RIMAU?" TARZAN ASKED. "THREE SUNS," THE CHIEF REPLIED. "WE CAMP HERE TONIGHT."

.....TARZAN CIRCLED BACK TO THE CAMP---- AND FOUND THE DANGER HE HAD SENSED.

"BEASTS MAY BE PROWLING NEAR," TARZAN SAID. "I'LL HAVE A LOOK AROUND, BEFORE WE SLEEP."

ALLEY OOP

SERVING KING ARTHUR AT THE BATTLE OF BANBURY--A.D. 520. OOP IS STILL INVISIBLE.

by V. T. HAMLIN

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

KING ARTHUR, SIRE, YOU'VE COME TOO LATE--THE SAXONS HAVE ENCIRCLED BANBURY!

THEN WE MUST TRY TO CUT THROUGH TO OUR BESIEGED GARRISON!

PSST! TELL ARTHUR TO WAIT AN HOUR... THEN HIT 'EM HARD!

NOW WITH AN HOUR TO SPARE, I'LL HAVE THOSE YELLOW-HAIRED BOYS SO DEMORALIZED THEY COULDN'T LICK A POSTAGE STAMP!

LOOK, CERDIC... A FORCE OF BRITONS STRIKES AT OUR REAR!

I EXPECTED THAT, BUT THEIR ATTACK WILL FAIL... WE'RE TOO WELL ORGANIZED!

THAT'S WHAT YOU THINK!

ARTHUR... BEHOLD THE BREAK IN THE SAXON RANKS! OUR WAY TO THE WALL IS OPEN!

AYE! THIS COULD MEAN A SAXON DISASTER! FORGET THE CITY... SMASH AT THEIR FLANKS FROM BOTH SIDES OF CENTER!

OH, HO! THERE'S NOTHIN' SLOW ABOUT OL' KING ARTHUR'S SAVVY! LOOKIT 'IM SCATTER HIS ENEMY! WOW!

(1) DIAGRAM OF THE BATTLE OF BANBURY: COURSE OF KING ARTHUR'S THRUST TO AID THE BESIEGED BANBURY GARRISON (2) WHICH LATER JOINED DRIVE TO SMASH SAXON FORCE.

1-16

WHAT A VICTORY, YOUR HIGHNESS! CERDIC'S FORCES WERE ALMOST COMPLETELY DESTROYED!

BRITAIN HAS BEEN SAVED...IT WAS ALMOST A MIRACLE!

OKAY, MERLIN, NOW LET'S SEE YOU WORK A MIRACLE AN' MAKE ME VISIBLE!

UMmm!

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

HERE'S THAT TEN-SPOT I OWE YOU, MACK!

WHAT!! QUICK--- CATCH ME! I'M PASSING OUT!

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

EGAD! THIS CELLAR IS A SIGHT--- I'LL CLEAN IT FROM STEM TO STERN!

AN OLD JUG OF PRUNE WINE I HID YEARS AGO--- I WOULDN'T TOUCH THE STUFF!

MAJOR HOOPLE

TELL ME SOME MORE ABOUT HUNTING LIONS IN AFRICA, UNCLE AMOS!

PSHAW, ALVIN! I NEVER WAS IN AFRICA IN MY LIFE!

OH, NO! SORRY, SNUFFY, BUT I MUST BE UP AT DAYBREAK ON THE MORROW!

NOTHING LIKE HOME, A BOOK, POPCORN, APPLES, ON A COLD WINTER NIGHT!

GRACIOUS! IF THAT WASN'T THE CRAZIEST DREAM I EVER HAD!

POP!

3:20 A.M.

Captain EASY

FOREIGN AGENTS HAVE SECRETLY WATCHED IMPORTANT TESTS OF ROCKETS AND GUIDED MISSILES AT THE PROVING GROUNDS IN THE SOUTH-WEST

ONCE MORE THE PLAN, VERA-- WHEN THE ROCKET FALLS, THE WARHEAD IS DETACHED AND COMES DOWN BY PARACHUTE! THIS IS WATCHED BY THE AMERICAN RADAR--

YES, KARL, AND MY PLANE WILL CONFUSE THE RADAR!

T. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

EXACT! ALSO YOU DROP THE DUMMY PARACHUTE TO FOOL THE STUPID PIGS! LATER WE FIND THE WARHEAD, AND THE INSTRUMENTS AND DATA ARE OURS!

A FEW MILES AWAY AND SOME MINUTES LATER--

ZOOM!

TROUBLE, SIR! AN UNIDENTIFIED PLANE'S FOULING UP THE RADAR!

THE NEXT MORNING--

AND EVERYTHING WORKED, KARL?

YES, VERA. MY RADAR REVEALED THAT THE WARHEAD LANDED ON A NEARBY RANCH!

CAN YOU DIRECT US TO THE PAUL PARKES RANCH, MY GOOD MAN?

SURE, BUT THERE'S PAUL RIGHT ACROSS THE STREET!

NICE OF YOU TO BRING MY CAR IN FROM THE RED ARROW RANCH, PAUL! AND I'M GLAD YOU'RE NOT SORE BECAUSE I SOCKED YOU YESTERDAY!

I HAD IT COMING, EASY! NO HARD FEELINGS!

BUT THERE ARE TWO MEN! WHICH IS MR. PARKES?

THE HOMBRE IN THE RANCH RIGGIN'; PARDNER! THE OTHER'S A STRANGER CALLED CAPTAIN EASY!

DID YOU HEAR? A CAPTAIN! MAYBE THE STUPID AMERICANS WEREN'T FOOLED!

HE IS NOT IN UNIFORM! A MEMBER OF THE ARMY INTELLIGENCE, NO DOUBT! WE SHALL HAVE TO ATTEND TO THIS CAPTAIN!

JUNGLE JIM

"ROAD CLOSED—GUERRILLAS AHEAD!" THE LEGIONNAIRE WARNS. JIM SHOWS HIS PASS: "I'M JOINING THE CRAGG ZOO EXPEDITION."

SERGEANT SCHOG IS SENT FOR. HE GROWLS: "NEIN! NOBODY GO THROUGH. CRAGG GOT AMBUSHED. WE WAIT FOR REINFORCEMENTS."

SKIPPER BARKS HIS DISLIKE. JIM BLOCKS SCHOG'S VICIOUS KICK: "DON'T GO TOO FAR, SERGEANT."

NEXT WEEK:: "TRAITOR!"

FLASH GORDON

by MAC RABOY and DON MOORE ®

AS THEY ESCAPE FROM THE DOOMED PALACE, TOR SALVAGES TWO MYSTERIOUS DEVICES. HE ROARS, "I'LL KILL POK BEFORE HE WRECKS EVERYTHING WITH THAT GRAVITOR!"

NOT REVEALING THAT HE HIMSELF HAS A STOLEN GRAVITOR, FLASH WATCHES THE WEIRD DUEL. POK FUMBLES HIS AIM AS TOR SHOOTS A MAGNETO-RAY AT HIM.

SUDDENLY, POK GUESSES HE CAN USE THE GRAVITOR TO LAUNCH HIMSELF THROUGH THE AIR. TOR RAGES: "HE'LL FLY TO ALB AND HELP THE PYGMIES REBEL!"

FLASH ADVISES: "SET A TRAP NEAR ALB'S MINES." TOR HASTILY ADJUSTS THE TELEPATH AND SHOUTS: "CALLING LOKE! SURROUND ALB'S CAVES! KILL POK-- HE HAS A GRAVITOR!"

IN THE CRYSTAL BALL, THEY WATCH TOR'S FORCES ASSEMBLE TO STOP ONE PYGMY -- AND HIS EARTH-SHAKING WEAPON.
